SENATORS FIGHT RAILROADING OF PEACE CHARTER

Resist Efforts to Skip Hearings

BY PHILIP DODD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., June 28—A proposal to railroad the charter of the proposed world security organization thru the senate without public hearings before the senate foreign relations committee was vigorously opposed on the floor of the senate tonight.

Sen. Connally

A flurry of debate on senate plans for ratifying the charter followed the introduction of a resolution by Sen. Overton [D., La.] calling for immediate consideration of the charter following its presentation to the senate Monday by President Truman.

[President Truman says the United States must live with world and asks this nation be first to ratify charter of new league. Story on page 6.]

Connally Urges Speed

Earlier in the day, Sen. Connally [D., Tex.], chairman of the foreign relations committee and a delegate to the San Francisco conference, had told the senate the fate of the world depends on the senate's early ratification of the charter.

Sen. Brooks [R., Ill.], opposing Overton's resolution, said that unless the people of the country are given an opportunity to understand the charter, any action by the senate would be a "mockery."

"I rather think I may eventually vote for the charter, but I won't be rushed," Brooks declared. "This is the most drastic step ever considered by our country.

Need Time to Consider

"No man yearns more for peace than I. I have seen two world wars and served in one of them. I've heard the call of our allies to give us the tools and we'll furnish the men. I've seen the men we finally furnished—75 per cent of the troops used on the western front. So, I say we need time to consider this step."

Sen. LaFollette [Prog., Wis.] told the senate he also intended to support the charter, but warned that senators and the public should take time to study its provisions. "I venture to say not a senator present can properly outline all that is in the charter," he said.

LaFollette said that "cavalier" treatment of the charter by the senate would create the impression in

Yanks Seize Five Tons in Coins, Bricks

WITH THE U. S. 7TH ARMY, Salzburg, Austria, June 28 [Reuters]—Gold weighing almost five tons, hidden on order of former Nazi Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, was found by American soldiers today.

J. von Ribbentrop

The hoard, valued at $28,000,000, was in the form of British, American, and Italian coins and in bricks. It was dug up by doughboys of the 3d division from beneath the house of the former mayor of Bad Gastein and a near-by building. It had been buried three feet deep.

[Five tons of gold at the American price of $35 per ounce would be worth $6,160,000. Presumably many of the coins were valued at more than their intrinsic worth as metal.]

Originally hidden at Ribbentrop's estate on Lake Fuschl, near Salzburg, the gold had been moved only under the threat of the American advance. Ribbentrop himself was captured by allied authorities June 14 in Hamburg.

In Sealed Bags

The treasure was contained in bags wired and sealed with seals of the German legation at Bern and various nazi government offices and in boxes wrapped in paper bearing the typewritten addresses of various nazi higherups. All was fitted into three large metal lined boxes.

The 15th infantry regiment and 121st reconnaissance group of this division loaded the treasure on their trucks and brought it along to divisional headquarters at Schloss Klessheim, just outside Salzburg.

An Old Story to 3d

It is under guard now but the 3d division feels rather blasé about the whole incident, having recently discovered masses of art treasures, priceless manuscripts, several similar huge hoards of gold as well as a third of Europe's total radium supply in their combing out of this area.

Right now Maj. Rhoman E. Clem, 3d division provost marshal, has one of Ribbentrop's gold bars as a paper weight on his desk.

A. T. & T. IS READY FOR RADIOPHONE SERVICE IN CARS

New York, June 28 (AP)—The American Telephone and Telegraph company today announced it is ready to proceed with plans for a mobile two way radiotelephone service which will permit the driver of an automobile to talk with any telephone connected with the Bell system.

Service can be offered as soon as apparatus can be manufactured and installed after permission is granted by the federal communications commission, A. T. & T. said.

The company has filed applications with the FCC for authority to install radiotelephone stations in Baltimore, Chicago, Cincinnati, Columbus, O., Denver, Houston, Milwaukee, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Salt Lake City, and Washington, D. C.

Under the plan, telephones on automobiles, trucks, and boats will be connected with the general telephone system by radio so that a subscriber may talk from an equipped vehicle to any telephone and may be called from any telephone.

Charge of Cruelty to Dogs Dismissed

BY CARL WIEGMAN

A university president, a medical school dean, and a renowned scientist stood for six hours yesterday in the crowded and hot E. Chicago av. police court room while they heard testimony against them on a charge of cruelty to animals in the university laboratories. Judge John R. McSweeney then abruptly discharged the defendants, ending the cruelty to the 100 human beings who had suffered thru the clambake.

The defendants, Franklyn Bliss Snyder, president of Northwestern university; Dr. George H. Gardner, acting dean of the medical school, and Dr. Andrew C. Ivy, head of the physiology department, had to stand thruout the day because when they arrived shortly after 10 a. m. all seats had been taken by supporters of the complaining witness, Mrs. Grace Petkus, vice president of the Animal Welfare league.

Mrs. Petkus Leads Off

Mrs. Petkus, who has failed four times to have the university barred from receiving dogs from the city pound for experimental purposes, opened the case by repeating the charges she had made before the city advisory committee on dogs, headed by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health.

After Mrs. Petkus came her star witness, Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin, head of the Orphans of the Storm, an animal shelter, who has appeared regularly at such events for years, but has kept her slim figure and the histrionic ability that marked her stage appearances prior to World War I.

Yesterday she was demurely attired in a white blouse, black skirt, and black off-the-face hat, set off by large earrings and bracelets four inches wide on each wrist. She spoke to the court fluently, in a low, pleasant voice, gesturing prettily to emphasize important points. One of her loyal supporters stood behind her, fanning her to relieve the oppressive heat.

Mrs. McLaughlin Tells Story

Mrs. McLaughlin told how she had visited the university animal quarters on June 12 and had found dogs crowded together. "Some of the cages were about as big as my hat boxes," she said.

She told how she and Mrs. Petkus tried to rescue a little brown dog that was lying in a wet cage, carrying him down 14 flights of stairs because they were denied use of the elevator. Outside the building, she said, Dr. Ivy met them and seized the little dog.

"He sank his claws in the dog's neck," she said, "and flung him on the ground. Then he carried him back into the building, holding him at arm's length. When we carried him, we held him in our arms, and he ruined our clothes."

As their defense against the charges, Attorneys Anan Raymond and William R. Swissler introduced two reports made by the health department inspectors who absolved the university. Atty. Raymond also offered to produce witnesses who would rebut the charges in detail.

Charge Branded Ridiculous

"It is apparent that after the complainant's [Mrs. Petkus] four attempts to bar the university from receiving dogs failed before the board of health," he said, "she has come before this court with a ridiculous charge that these men are guilty of wilfully torturing, tormenting, and cruelly killing animals."

Atty. Raymond moved for dismissal on the ground of insufficient evidence. Judge McSweeney asked if both sides rested, then uttered one word, "Discharged," and told everybody to go out quietly while he heard the next case.

Outside the court, Mrs. Petkus said, "There isn't any justice."

Mrs. McLaughlin rejoined, "Well, we got a university president in court for the first time, anyway."

Dr. Ivy said, "It's too bad. I had to miss a meeting on penicillin today in Terre Haute, Ind."

Brickbats Fly as British Rowdies Stir Electioneering

BY E. R. NODERER
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, June 28—Bottles and brickbats began to fly in Britain's election campaign this week as the public, apathetic for weeks, began to take an interest in the political situation. The British cast their ballots next Thursday.

The political agent for Brendan Bracken, first lord of the admiralty, today threatened to invoke the "public meeting act" if the "rowdies" don't lay off his man. It seems a lot of undesirable characters have been disrupting Bracken's meetings, asking embarrassing questions, and making rude noises, and the former minister of information doesn't like it. Besides, somebody threw a milk bottle thru the window of his limousine Tuesday night as he was leaving a meeting in his district of North Paddington. There was so much noise at the meeting that Bracken had to give up and go home.

Break Windows

The day after a Labor party committee headquarters opened at Barnehurst, Kent, some one threw chunks of cement thru the windows. Laborites spent most of the night putting in new windows and cleaning the rooms, but when they returned the next morning the rooms again were "in confusion" and there were more chunks of cement on the floor.

Prime Minister Churchill has mentioned in his campaign speeches that since everybody knows the Conservatives are too gentlemanly to smash their opponents' windows such damage apparently is being caused by "men of no party."

Smear Paint on Building

In Cardiff, Wales, a number of valiant women are proudly displaying bruises they acquired when thwarting attempts of a gang of political enthusiasts to overturn a car occupied by Capt. Stanley Dark after his speech Monday in support of Conservative Arthur Evans.

R. R. Harris, Conservative candidate at Central Hackney in London, turned up one morning to find his headquarters building daubed with red paint, not to mention the painted advice to "Vote for Hynd" [his opponent].

Finds Phone Wire Cut

The Conservative agent for Hemsworth, Yorkshire, this morning found his telephone wire had been cut outside his office. The Labor candidate, George A. Griffiths, said none of his supporters "would stoop to such a dirty, caddish trick," so nobody knows who did this, either.

At Coventry some of Churchill's words were lost to posterity when a man climbed up the loudspeaker pole and brought the whole business crashing to the ground. Last night at Preston as Churchill ended his talk to 10,000 persons a Communist candidate opened up with a loudspeaker of his own.

Ends Scotland Tour

GLASGOW, June 28 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill today pledged his full support to Britain's prosecution of the war against Japan regardless of whether he is returned to power in the general election on July 5.

He told a crowd that "the Americans stood by us nobly in the European struggle and we are going to stand by them in the Japanese war—and may our two nations always work together in a great bond of brotherhood."

The Premier ended a four day election tour in Edinburg with a speech in which he declared Britain, Russia, and the United States stand as "heavily armed guardians" ready to assure that future aggression will be stopped "in the early stages when it is easy to nip a poisonous plant in the bud."

HIT BY SUICIDE PLANE OFF OKINAWA; FLYERS BLAST 23 ENEMY VESSELS

Burns 90 Minutes; Reaches Frisco; 36 Are Killed

BY JOHN THOMPSON
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., June 28—In the twilight of April 28 the U. S. S. Pinkney, navy transport for wounded, lay at anchor near the Kerama Islands, 20 miles from Okinawa, ready to take on more wounded Okinawa veterans. More than 100 were already in her wards that night, and 90 per cent of the crew had gone to the movies.

John Larkin [top] and Lt. V. A. Nels

At 7:31 o'clock, having sneaked in on the tail of a formation of navy Mariner bombers, a Jap Val torpedo bomber plunged in a kamikaze or suicide attack toward the transport. Guns from a near-by ship opened fire but got in only a few rounds. The Jap plane was so swift that the Pinkney's guns couldn't get into action and the plane smashed into a boom just aft of the flying bridge.

The boom caught the light Jap plane as it burned, but its bomb, estimated to weigh at least 1,000 pounds, pounded on into the ship, exploding in the ward room on the main deck. It tore a gigantic hole thru five decks of the transport. Part of the blast even penetrated to the engine room.

Burns 90 Minutes

For 90 minutes the after part of the Pinkney blazed in the full fury of an uncontroled fire. Fuel tanks were ignited, sending columns of dense black smoke towering sky-

CAPEHART SAYS JAPS RECENTLY OFFERED PEACE

Washington, D. C., June 28 (AP)—Japanese peace offers "which would be acceptable to me personally" have been made within recent weeks, Sen. Capehart [R., Ind.] said today he had been reliably informed.

He told a reporter he was not at liberty to reveal the terms or whether they were rejected flatly, but added: "If the Japanese promised to give up all territory they have conquered including Manchuria, wouldn't that be all right?"

Predicts Long Fight

Recently returned from Europe, Capehart said he could not see "what could be gained from an unconditional surrender over what was offered." The former will come, he predicted, only after "a fight to the limit in China which will take at least two years."

"With an unconditional surrender you work out the terms of the peace treaty at your leisure and do anything you wish to the conquered country," he asserted.

Asks for Facts

"With a conditional surrender you make certain agreements with the country, such as territorial control and future limitations on her army and navy."

Capehart said if peace offers have been made or are in the process of being considered "nothing can be gained from keeping them from the American people."

"If there is no truth in these reports, the President should tell the people so."

Police Pull a Dirty One on Younger Generation

Phoenix, Ariz., June 28 (AP)—As bait, the city gave a free movie to open its summer bicycle safety campaign and 503 young cyclists attended. While the show was in progress police, sheriff's deputies and state highway patrolmen inspected the vehicles—and declared 469 unsafe for use.

B-29s Pour Fire on Four More Cities of Homeland

GUAM, June 29 [Friday]—(AP)—American planes sank or damaged 23 Japanese ships and from 450 to 500 Super Fortresses dropped 3,000 tons of fire bombs on four more Japanese cities Wednesday and Thursday, it was announced today.

Off Korea and in the empire waters on those two days, search planes of fleet air wing 1 sank a small tanker, a small cargo ship, an unidentified vessel, four small craft, and a freighter. A small freighter-transport, five small cargo ships, a small coastal cargo ship, and a lugger were damaged.

On the same dates, marine and army planes of the tactical air force hit the Amami Island group north of conquered Okinawa and the Sakishima group to the south.

Attack Yap and Truk

The raiders set a small cargo ship and coastal vessel afire, sank two luggers, and damaged two other coastal vessels and a barge.

Other raids were made on Truk and Yap in the Carolines, enemy bases in the Marshalls and in the Palaus.

Adm. Nimitz said enemy planes dropped a few bombs in the Okinawa area Wednesday "without damage to our forces." Night fighters shot down one raider.

The pre-dawn B-29 raids brought to 18 the number of Japan's cities hit in the campaign to burn Japan out of the war.

Raiders Split Four Ways

This first large scale incendiary mission since June 20 split four ways to hit at Sasebo, Moji, and Nobeoka, Kyushu Island ports, and the vital industries of Okayama on Honshu Island.

The blows were a continuation of attacks on industrial areas on which Japan is more dependent than ever since destruction of great areas of Tokyo, Nagoya, Yokohama, Osaka, and Kobe.

Pilots of the big bombers brought back reports of seeing large fires. One Superfort failed to return.

Sasebo, with a population of 206,000, ranks with Kobe, Kure, and Yokosuka as a naval base. It is located on northwestern Kyushu, north of Nagasaki.

The most important single target in Sasebo was the naval dock yard. The naval base city's industries, including ship building and ship repair yards, are concentrated on the waterfront.

Moji Is Shipping Center

Moji, with a population of 140,000, is one of Japan's vital transportation cities. It is the southern terminus of the Kammon tunnel under Shimonoseki strait, linking Honshu and Kyushu.

Besides being an important chemical and explosives producing city, Nobeoka is a vital eastern Kyushu transportation hub. It has a population of 80,000.

Seven Railroads at Okayama

Okayama, population about 163,000, is 100 miles west of Osaka. Seven railroads radiate from the city, making it an important target.

The 21st bomber command announced yesterday, in disclosing results of June 18, 20, and 22 raids, that more than 115 square miles of Japan's factory and urban areas have been burned or bombed out. Major aircraft works were severely damaged and large areas burned out in the secondary cities of Kagoshima, Fukuoka, and Omuta.

Land on Six Isles

Reconnaissance landing on six small northern Marianas Islands by American Negro troops were disclosed Thursday.

Only one shot was fired during these landings. A native guide used his pistol to eliminate a Japanese who refused to surrender.

GI Joe in the Pacific

By ARTHUR VEYSEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WITH THE 37TH DIVISION ON LUZON, June 28—The GI's were sitting under a mango tree. It was lunch time, so they got out their half pint cans of C ration. Some had stuffed cans into those big, floppy chest pockets which the army puts on shirts, little dreaming of the whistles the pockets would get when properly stuffed with soldiers' impediments. Others had tied cans to a cord and hung them around their neck.

Their hands were pretty muddy from the dust and sweat. Some guys wiped their hands on their trousers, which sort of shifted the mud around, adding here and taking away there. The more fastidious guys poured a few drops of their precious canteen water on the thumb and forefinger of the right hand they would use to hold the cracker that would serve as a spoon in shoveling rations from can to mouth.

These niceties taken care of, they set the table, which means upending a stone or log or patting down the grass. Then they opened their cans, two to a man. And beamed.

Just Like Eating Hay

For three years out here the army's C ration has consisted of meat and beans or meat and stew. If you had fire and water you could turn the stew into a pretty fair soup. But eating the stuff raw was like so much hay. As a matter of fact, some said they would prefer hay. The army boasted about all the vitamins. Oodles and oodles of vitamins, the army said. Nuts, the men said.

This stew of meat and beans filled one can. The other can had some crackers which must also have been full of vitamins, because they didn't have much taste, and a packet of synthetic lemonade which certainly was synthetic, and some chunks of hard candy.

Some places you went you saw C ration cans opened just for the candy.

But this new C ration is different. It still comes in two cans, nice shiny brown ones, just like beer cans, instead of the rusty, battered old things that used to come up from Australia.

Real Soda Crackers!

C ration still has crackers, but they are soda crackers. It took the army a long time to discover soda crackers. The synthetic bitterness has gone out of the lemonade.

Besides hard candy, C ration also has some chocolate drops, or chocolate nuts and raisins, another item that was a favorite with almost every one except the army. The army used to prefer a dechocolated chocolate bar.

The other can also is full of old civilians' favorites. Meatballs and spaghetti, chicken and noodles, ham and lima beans, chicken and rice, pork and beans.

So the guys dived in, the fastidious keeping all but the two washed fingers out of the cans.

Until they had the cans clean just a few paused long enough to remark: "Not like that old stuff," or "I'd sure like to meet the army's new cook," or "just like mom used to make."

When they finished some guys even licked their fingers, mud and all. What's happening to the army, anyway?

unteers from Saipan. The work of guides and patrols ashore was supplemented by Japanese language messages over loudspeakers, with Japanese captives assuring their countrymen of kindly treatment.

Chicagoan Along

Among those on the expedition was Capt. Fred D. Caple, a former reptile expert for the Field Museum of Natural History, Chicago.

After clearing about 24 Japanese civilians and 38 natives from the six islands—Anathan, Sairgan, Alamagan, Agrihan, Asuncion and Maug—the two platoons of Negro infantry and their guides returned south to Saipan.

The small islands were scouted for possible emergency landing fields for Marianas based B-29s.

CIGARETS LURE 200 JAPS AS 150 MORE END LIVES

OKINAWA, June 29 [Friday]—(AP)—Marine Lt. George Thompson of Dorchester, Mass., and four other marines were chasing 15 Japanese when they were surrounded by 350 of the enemy.

Thompson smiled, bowed and called out: "Tobacco, tobacco," extending cigarets toward the Japanese. Several reached for the smokes and dropped their weapons.

The enemy officers all were accompanied by women. One officer killed his woman companion with a sword, saluted the marines, handed the sword and a wristwatch to Thompson, stepped back 10 yards and blew his own head off with a grenade. Other Japanese followed his lead and slaughter of the women and suicides began occurring at the rate of one a minute until 150 were dead. The five marines stood there for two hours, watching the suicides and offering cigarets to any who would surrender. Reinforcements arrived and the remainder of the enemy surrendered.

JAPS BRAG NEW SUICIDE WEAPON WILL SAVE ISLES

San Francisco, Cal., June 28 (AP)—Radio Tokyo bragged today of new suicide weapons to repel an expected homeland invasion which war commentators said would be welcome.

"The sooner the enemy comes, the better for us, for our battle array is complete," said Ichiro Baba in a broadcast. The commentator added that the "future is indeed bright, altho all Japanese regret the loss of Okinawa."

Domei reported that suicide weapons passed their experimental stage at Okinawa and would attain full results against homeland invasion. Its correspondent said the number of young men undergoing suicide attack training is "enormous" and corresponds with the number of weapons to be used—"almost equal to the number of tanks and guns used in the European war."

PICK GEN. CLARK TO HEAD AUSTRIA OCCUPYING UNITS

Washington, D. C., June 28 (AP)—Gen. Clark has been designated chief of United States occupation forces in Austria, Undersecretary of War Patterson announced today. Clark, who commanded the 15th army group in the Italian campaign, will be the supreme American authority on military government and political problems in the occupation zone, which will comprise the southwest section, Patterson said.

Austria will be occupied in the same manner as Germany with four zones of occupation—one each for the four major powers. Vienna also will be divided into four zones.

Clark's headquarters will be situated in Vienna. Headquarters of the second corps, which is taking part in the Austrian occupation, will be in Salzburg. The occupation forces will consist of two divisions.

INDIAN PARLEY DEADLOCKED ON MOSLEM RIGHTS

SIMLA, India, June 28 (AP)—Viceroy Wavell's conference on an interim government for India faced danger of collapse today as a result of an impasse between the Moslem and Congress parties over Moslem representation in the proposed new government.

Pessimism mounted as it became evident that neither party was prepared to yield on the question of whether Moslem league members would be the only representatives of Moslems to be allowed in the government. Some Moslems are not league members.

On the other hand, the Congress party, which contends it is a national organization representative of all communities, demands a voice in the selection of Moslem, as well as Hindu, members of the proposed executive council.

INDIA SOCIETY TOLD 40,000,000 ARE JOBLESS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, June 28—"According to one estimate, 40,000,000 persons are unemployed in India," said Prof. P. J. Thomas, economics adviser to the Indian delegation at the united nations conference, in a paper read for him at a meeting here today of the East Indian association.

He also told the meeting 50 per cent of India's population does not have even the bare necessities of food and clothing and in many rural areas there is work for them only about half the year.

Thomas said the only remedy for India's perennial underemployment was a system which would put idle labor to work increasing the goods of the country and insure that large shares of these goods would reach the hands of the working class.

CHINESE SEIZE PART OF FORMER U. S. AIR FIELD

CHUNGKING, China, June 28 (AP)—Chinese troops battling for Liuchow have seized part of the former United States air field south of the city and have captured a rail station in the western suburbs, the Chinese high command announced tonight.

The fighting for Liuchow and its air field, abandoned by the United States 14th air force last November, was described as heavy.

Meanwhile Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, in his first general press conference since 1941, declared allied forces were preparing for the final blow against Japan.

Chiang urged that Chinese forces be equipped to carry the brunt of the fighting on the Asiatic mainland. He said that if this were done, the complete collapse of Japan might be achieved in one year, instead of the 18 months he otherwise estimated for the victory.

Freed Slave Laborers Kill 100 Germans in 2 Months

U. S. 7TH FLEET IS NEAR BORNEO, SAYS M'ARTHUR

MANILA, June 29 [Friday]—(AP)—Presence of the United States 7th fleet in the hostile waters of Makassar straits between Celebes and southeast Borneo was disclosed today by Gen. MacArthur. He announced that surface craft had shot down three Japanese planes there Monday.

There was no further report on the action and no confirmation of persistent Tokyo radio reports that an allied fleet had been bombarding Japanese positions around the Borneo port of Balikpapan since June 15. The Japanese have contended landing attempts already had been made on that coast.

MacArthur did disclose that planes of the United States 5th and 13th air forces and the royal Australian air force continued heavy neutralizing attacks on gun positions and airdromes on the coast of Dutch Borneo.

Luzon Cleaned Up

More than 90 Liberators and 40 Mitchell medium bombers and a score of Lightning fighters dropped 286 tons of bombs on Balikpapan, as well as on the Manghar airdrome 12 miles northeast, and in the Redeb sector 70 miles south of the Australian conquered isle of Tarakan.

Mention of allied surface craft activity in Makassar straits was the first in nearly three and one-half years.

MacArthur announced that 6th division troops and Filipino guerrillas were maintaining steady pressure on all sides of the remnants of Japanese forces on Luzon. The major phase of the Luzon campaign has been closed, MacArthur announced yesterday.

In the mountains guerrillas attacking nine and one-half miles southeast of Cervantes in Ilocos province won possession of high ground after beating off three Japanese banzai charges.

Sixth division troops, pushing west from the Cagayan valley, made a 400 yard gain against still resisting Japanese in the mountain stronghold of Kiangan.

Hundreds Surrender

On the island of Mindanao, the 24th infantry division took Kibangay and Unapan on the western edge of the Davao gulf salient and seized considerable Japanese stores.

The cleanup drives were being pressed rapidly on both Luzon and Mindanao in the final stages of a Philippines campaign that has cost the Nipponese the equivalent of two full armies.

For the first time in the northern Luzon campaign the Japanese have begun to surrender in large numbers, said Correspondent Hamilton Faron. The 37th division had taken 1,200 Nipponese prisoners up to June 26, with 447 quitting in one day.

NAVY TO LAUNCH DAILY PAPER FOR MEN IN PACIFIC

Washington, D. C., June 28 (AP)—Secretary Forrestal has issued orders for the establishment of a daily newspaper for navy men in the western Pacific.

An order made public today called for beginning the project with two editions, one to be published at Guam and another in the Philippines. The paper will be called Navy News.

The Guam edition, the order said, will be initiated immediately at Adm. Nimitz's headquarters, "using whatever temporary facilities may be available until permanent equipment can be provided. The Philippines project shall be initiated as soon as practicable."

BUNKER HILL SAVED BY 70 DEGREE TURN, NAVIGATOR REVEALS

A sudden 70 degree angle turn saved the aircraft carrier Bunker Hill from either capsizing or burning out completely, Comdr. Charles J. Odend'hal, navigator of the badly damaged ship, revealed yesterday in an interview.

Comdr. C. J. Odend'hal

"We had developed a sharp list to starboard and the water we were pumping into the ship was not only flooding the lower decks but also was helping to carry the flames everywhere," he said. "After careful calculations we decided to make the turn. When we did the water borne mass of flame was shifted to the port side and dumped into the sea thru rents left by the bombs of the two Jap suicide planes.

"The action of the ship's personnel during the crisis was something out of a story book. There was no sign of panic and every one went to work, immediately. Even the marine and navy pilots who had no assigned stations set about dumping ammunition and rockets overboard. The whole crew worked together magnificently."

CLOUDS DEFEAT HIDDEN VALLEY RESCUE EFFORT

Glider Snatch Waits on Good Weather

BY WALTER SIMMONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

HOLLANDIA, New Guinea, June 27 [Delayed]—Central New Guinea's capricious weather caused another delay today in the removal by glider of the three air crash survivors from Hidden valley, deep in the interior of the country.

The valley, in airmen's parlance, was "socked in" by clouds all day and even the daily supply plane was unable to reach it in two attempts. Warnings which it radioed back caused the C-46 tow plane and glider to return to Hollandia in the morning and prevented them from taking off in the afternoon.

To Try Again Tomorrow

Another attempt will be made tomorrow.

Today's break in the weather was particularly disappointing as tests yesterday indicated the trio of survivors in the remote valley, isolated since May 13, might at last be returned soon to civilization.

Works with Excess Load

In the final test Col. Ray T. Elsmore, Menlo Park, Cal., who is in charge of the technical details of the rescue operations, sat at the controls in the co-pilot's seat. With nine men and 300 lbs. of ballast aboard, a much greater load than is contemplated in the valley "snatch," the glider rose smoothly and circled the island behind its tow plane.

With the escort of paratroopers, the trio, Lt. Joseph McCollum, Trenton, Mo., WAC Corp. Margaret Hastings, Owego, N. Y., and T/Sgt. Kenneth Decker, Kelso, Wash., have been awaiting rescue at their base camp for more than a week after a long hike from the scene of their crash.

BURMA RAIL LINE KEPT ON TIME BY CHICAGO YANKS

BY ALFRED WAGG

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

U. S. ARMY RAILWAY BASE IN INDIA, June 28—Chicagoland railroaders in uniform, working in India and Burma theaters under the roughest conditions thru the monsoon rains, are achieving an outstanding transportation job of the far east war.

Men formerly employed by the Pennsylvania railroad; Illinois Central, and the Baltimore and Ohio top the list of men in this theater serving with the vital one meter gauge Bengal and Assam military railway.

When American units of the India-Burma command took over operation of this important link between Calcutta and the terminus of the Hump air route to China in March, 1944, the carrying capacity of the route increased over 100 per cent.

The railways originally was built to fulfill the needs of the Assam tea estates.

Trains used to run nine days late on a two day run because of overloading. Now the trains are running on time and carrying still greater loads.

I. C. Boys on Job

Most of the boys have been overseas 16 months or more. The Illinois Central boys who have been doing their part are Sgt. Nelson Bailey, Haleyville, Ala., former brakeman in Chicago; Staff Sgt. Herman Aschinani, 449 W. 118th st., Chicago, former car inspector at Harvey, Ill.; Sgt. George Cox Jr., 1416 S. Hickory st., Centralia, Ill., who worked at the Chicago yard offices.

Sgt. Edward Burris, 615 E. Main st., Clinton, Ill., who was a fireman in his home town; T/5 Vern Creps, 8746 Dauphin av., Chicago, brakeman; Sgt. Cecil Campbell, 1731 Edgar st., Mattoon, Ill., yard worker; T/5 J. H. Hinderliter, 1312 Broadway, Mattoon, Ill., yard worker; Pvt. Joseph E. Johnson, Calvert, Ky., who worked in Chicago for six years; T/Sgt. John Kenney, 11339 South Park av., Chicago, switchman; Pvt. Stanley Sexson, 12051 S. Normal av., Chicago, fireman, and Sgt. June Jones, 712 E. Ash st., Taylorville, Ill., who worked as a brakeman at Centralia.

Milwaukee Road Men

Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad men are Pfc. Gerald Goreman, Minneapolis, Minn., who worked in Chicago as a fireman, and Pfc. J. M. O'Callaghan, St. Paul, Minn., brakeman.

Baltimore and Ohio men were also to be found. They include Sgt. John Talab, 5149 S. Kilbourn av., Chicago, former railroad conductor, and 1st Lt. Clinton Waits, 12221 Greenwood av., Blue Island, Ill., former switchman in Chicago.

Former Chicago employes of the Pennsylvania railroad were T/5 Earle J. King, 1903 E. 79th st., who was a helper at the 59th st. engine house, and T/4 George Kurelic, 224 W. 29th st., car repairer in the Chicago shops.

OKINAWA BATTLE CRITICS UNFAIR, LANZA ASSERTS

Denies Time Was Lost in Routing Japs

BY COL. CONRAD H. LANZA

It has been officially announced that the Okinawa campaign ended on June 19, when the American troops had driven thru to the south tip of the island. This is then a good time to review the fighting on Okinawa.

Criticism has appeared that the high command did not conduct this campaign as well as possible, that in consequence too much time was taken, during which very large naval, air, and ground forces were tied down to a job which ought to have been accomplished quicker. On the information available no criticism is possible.

The first troops landed on April 1. It was just 80 days until June 19, when the main fighting ended. In March the Pacific fleet had been engaged 10 days before the arrival of the troops in clearing the seas, and attacking enemy air bases with planes. It was a 90 day operation for the navy, and they did have very large forces tied down.

Navy Not Criticized

There has been no criticism of the navy. They landed the troops as per schedule. They thereafter stood by and supported the troops, with naval planes and naval guns. They shelled and bombed anything and everything that the troops wanted. The amount of shells fired was astounding. It reached as much as 10,000 tons in one day, and seldom was under 1,000 tons. There was no place on Okinawa, which is a narrow island, which wasn't within range of the naval guns and planes.

The 10th army did the land work. It had six divisions to start with. In accordance with their policy, adopted last autumn, of not opposing our landings, the Japanese garrison did not interfere with the initial operations. Perhaps time was lost in not getting on to the main job more promptly.

It is now known that the Japanese had about 100,000 troops, of which number perhaps 20,000 were labor troops. They had elected to defend the south end of the island, and had prepared elaborate defenses, based on numerous caves and tunnels.

Find Japs Tough

The first serious American attack was on April 19 and was delivered by three out of the six divisions then on shore. It took over a week of very slow advances to prove that the job of breaking the Japanese defenses was tough. The number of divisions attacking was then increased to four and sometimes five. The island isn't wide, in most places only five to six miles. There wasn't space to use more divisions.

It has been charged that the attacks were too slow; that if greater dash had been employed the advance would have been more rapid. It is alleged that this is the marine way, and that they would have accepted higher losses to complete the task sooner. The system of dashing forward was tried in the early days and it just didn't work. We lost men in our early attacks at an average rate of 913 a day.

Experience brought out that flame throwing tanks were best to capture caves. After these had been generally used, our losses dropped. In the final 26 days of the battle our average losses were 381 a day, a substantial reduction. During that period we advanced eight miles, while with the slap dash method, and high losses, we had advanced seven miles in 36 days.

Ship's Fire Falls

It seems too much reliance was placed at first in naval gun fire and bombing. This kind of fire worked fine against beaches and towns. It didn't work against caves dug into the sides of hills. Okinawa has taught our amphibious leaders many lessons. They will profit by it.

The large Japanese garrison on Okinawa, and their caves, were a surprise to our forces. Looking at first like a walk-over, it turned out to be a hornet's nest. Attacking cave positions on a large scale has appeared as a war problem only within the last six months. Perhaps our troops hadn't received much training in this line. The revival of cave warfare is likely to grow.

It is not fair to charge the high command at Okinawa with having wasted time. The record shows that they tried everything they could. They did start late, not knowing about the location of the Japs until some time after the original landing. After the Japs had been found the battle was pushed without intermission and won in a hard fight.

She recently was awarded the bronze star for outstanding work in coördinating nurse activities in southern France.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Lacey, 600 Sheridan rd., Evanston, Maj. Lacey joined the Northwestern university army medical unit Feb. 7, 1942, and saw service in North Africa and Italy prior to her present assignment.

GEN. MITCHELL'S CITATION GIVEN TO HIS SISTER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., June 28—Mrs. Martin A. Fladoes of Milwaukee, Wis., today received from Gov. Green a resolution, adopted by the legislature in 1941, praising her brother, the late Brig. Gen. William [Billy] Mitchell. Gen. Mitchell was court martialed and demoted after World War I. because of his insistence upon the military importance of aviation.

"This is a great tribute to my brother," she told the governor. "I always had great faith in the general's judgment and shared his convictions during the days of his trial and demotion when it seemed he was most friendless. A tribute such as this coming from the legislature of the great state of Illinois confirms my faith."

Mrs. Fladoes was introduced later to house and senate members by Rep. Keller [R., Waukegan], sponsor of the 1941 resolution.

RUNAWAY TRAIN FALLS IN RAVINE; 50 TO 100 KILLED

PARIS, June 28 (AP)—A runaway express train, traveling backwards at 125 miles an hour, hurtled into a deep ravine and burst into flames in French Morocco June 24 and between 50 and 100 persons were killed, news dispatches said today.

The train was crowded with French soldiers on leave.

French news agency dispatches quoted railroad officials as saying the engineer had stopped the train north of Meknes and left his cab, neglecting to apply the brakes, to try to rescue a child who was electrocuted while playing at a near-by high tension wire. The train rolled backward with no one at the controls. The engineer was arrested. Several tank cars of petroleum exploded.

POSTPONE TRIAL OF PETAIN ON TREASON CHARGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, June 28—Marshal Petain's trial for treason has been indefinitely postponed, it was announced today. Many believe the old marshal never will be tried, for his appearance in court would explode too many political bombshells.

Postponement of the trial supposedly because of the illness of 75 year old Public Prosecutor Morney and the presiding judge of the trial court, Mongibaux, gave rise to facetious remarks in the press.

The case provides a curious parallel to the Riom trials of Petain's adversaries, former Premiers Reynaud, Blum, and Daladier. The Riom trials finally were called off because the judges balked when they found then, as apparently now, that they were merely being summoned to put legal sanction on judgments already made politically.

ROMANCE BORN IN WAR TRAGEDY; WED IN HOSPITAL

A romance born out of tragedy culminated yesterday at Gardiner General hospital in the marriage of Sgt. Kenneth A. Heinrich, 26, of 4509 N. Damen av., and Joanne Budimier, 25, of 4756 Drexel blvd.

One of three Chicagoans to be rescued from Bilibid prison camp in the Philippines by American forces last February, Sgt. Heinrich survived three years and four months of forced labor on air fields and farms and repeated illnesses.

The bride met Heinrich in April when she went to the hospital to inquire about her fiance, who had been in Bilibid. He told her that the boy died there. The ceremony was performed by Capt. Francis J. Gorman, Catholic chaplain, who spent many months in the South Pacific and who also is a patient in Gardiner.

REPORT YOUNGER HARTFORD SAID 'NO' TO ELLIOTT

Washington, D. C., June 28 [N. Y. News]—George Hartford, chairman of the board of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company bluntly refused Brig. Gen. Elliott Roosevelt's plea for a $200,000 loan, which the son of former President Roosevelt subsequently received from George's older brother, John, president of the A. & P. it was learned today.

And it was the late Rep. Sirovich [D., N. Y.], stanch New Dealer, who first sought out the younger Hartford before swinging the deal with his brother records in possession of a house committee will show, an authoritative source said.

This new development came to light as Treasury Secretary Morgenthau today announced special agents investigating the loan and "bad debt" case had been ordered to rush their probes so he could lay the facts before senate and house committees conducting investigations into the matter as soon as possible.

Cool to Sirovich

Reports today said that when George Hartford was approached for a loan to Elliott he, unlike his brother, John, who was cordial and apparently receptive to the picture of the young Roosevelt's need, gave Sirovich short shrift.

John Hartford's loan to Elliott later was openly criticized by his younger brother and led to a cool relationship that continued for months, according to friends and other executives of the chain store company.

It also was said that this was the second loan Sirovich had been able to "negotiate" for Elliott, and that some radio manufacturers were persuaded to put up between $50,000 and $70,000. Records in this transaction also are being traced.

Facts Learned Previously

Facts in the Hartford loan were unearthed by probers for a select committee investigating the federal communications commission in 1943 when this committee's inquiry was brought to a strange halt by administration pressure.

The documentary evidence was in a voluminous bulk of material ready for submission to the investigators, but was impounded for "reasons of security" and it could not be learned where it is. Members of the house ways and means committee declared, however, that a demand would be made that it be produced and carefully protected pending the opening of the inquiry.

Many of the "missing" documents bearing on the organization of Elliott Roosevelt's Texas radio network have been located in the possession of the clerk of the house. They may not be examined or removed without a resolution by congress.

Other documents and evidence which has not yet been submitted are in the possession of Eugene Garey, special counsel for the select committee which investigated the FCC.

SUICIDE PLANE HITS, BOMBS U.S. HOSPITAL SHIP

Fires Rage 90 Minutes Off Okinawa

ward. Ammunition of the ack ack guns exploded.

But in that 90 minutes the crew of the Pinkney and her medical staff members saved all except 19 patients, carrying them topside, where they were lowered into small boats. Seventeen members of the crew perished, but the ship was saved.

In those packed moments of horror and fire two doctors, Lt. Frederic P. Shidler of Torrance, Cal., and Lt. [j. g.] Robert I. Boyd of San Mateo, Cal., completed an emergency operation on a sailor. They had just made the incision when the bomb exploded 20 feet from their operating room, blowing out the lights. The doctors lighted battle lanterns and went on with their work.

Trapped in Radio Shack

In the radio shack the blast had trapped another sailor. While the interior of the cabin slowly became an oven, crew members, thru a small porthole, doused him with buckets of water. Others, working with crowbars, which also had to be sluiced with water, eventually pried open an escape vent for him.

Aiding the doctors and fire aid men, helping carry the wounded patients to safety, helping fight the fires, was the ship's chaplain, Lt. Vincent A. Nels, 5717 Emerald av., Chicago. And eight days later, when the crew had completed emergency repairs, it was Chaplain Nels who conducted the burial services on Zamami Island before the Pinkney started back for San Francisco.

We saw the Pinkney today at the General Engineering and Dry Dock company's ship yards here in the bay area where naval and private ship yards are laboring under the strain of the navy's greatest repair job. Skilled ship yard workers—electricians, machinists, and sheet metal workers—are sorely needed to handle the intricate job of repairing these damaged warships and others needing overhaul.

Naked and Charred

The Pinkney looked as if she'd lost almost half her superstructure. Aft of the flying bridge, for four decks she was naked, blackened and charred, ripped and torn. But 580 workmen were tearing her down, getting new parts ready in the machine shops, refitting the electrical system, and preparing to put more and newer guns on her.

For the Pinkney is now a hospital ship. As a transport she carries troops in for the assault waves. But then she waits around until her wards are filled with the wounded, which she then carries back, often the same men who had gone in to fight.

One of the crew who escaped death in the kamikaze attack was SSML-2 John Larkin, 20, 3577 Lyndale av., Chicago, a three year naval veteran. Larkin, like most of the crew, owes his life to the fact that they were at the movies. He had just left some pals in the engine room, two minutes before. They were killed.

Tosses Over Shells

Larkin raced to the boat deck and began tossing ammunition overboard. Later, when his section of the ship, cut off from the forward section by flames, received orders for extra personnel to abandon ship, he slid down a rope into the sea, and was picked up by a small boat. In the morning he was back on the Pinkney.

Seaman 1st Class George Sugarboy Watkins, 19, 3834 S. State st., Chicago, the only Negro seaman assigned to the Pinkney, was on a near-by vessel loading ammunition when the Pinkney was hit. Watkins finished his job and hurried to help his buddies on the transport fight the flames.

Chicagoans Aboard

Others from Chicago aboard the ship were:

Lt. Ed Jozaitis, 6634 S. Campbell ave.; Ph. Mate 3/c William J. Fojtik, 426 W. Iowa st.; Ph. Mate 2/c John T. Kennedy, 1728 Monitor ave.; Ph. Mate 3/c Joseph L. Laut, 6504 S. Fairfield ave.; Seaman 1/c A. A. Ojeda, 1105 S. Peoria st.; and Signalman 2/c John A. Shimek Jr., 4713 N. Hermitage ave.

From near-by Chicago and elsewhere in Illinois were:

Lt. [j. g.] Marvin L. Johnson, 1100 Sterling ave., Joliet, Ill.; Lt. Thomas L. Peters, Hobart, Ind.; Ph. Mate 3/c Galen L. Gooddale, Princeton, Ill.; Ph. Mate 3/c Robert A. Simanson, 535½ Calumet ave., Hammond, Ind.; Coxswain Howard W. Bankord, Rockford, Ill.; Seaman 1/c K. A. Anderson, Benton, Ill.; Mach. Mate 2/c R. R. Exner, Bellwood, Ill.; Seaman 1/c H. J. Bauer, Cherry Valley, Ill.; Phar. Mate 2/c D. F. Tolberg, Moline, Ill.; Ph. Mate 2/c J. P. Fielding, Erie, Ill.; Ph. Mate 2/c A. Balcom, Maple Park, Ill.; Baker 1/c N. C. Lambto, Harrisburg, Ill.; and Coxswain G. D. Edwards, Duquoin, Ill.; and Seaman 1/c P. E. Easley, Benton, Ill.

Nineteen of the crew, upon direct orders from Adm. Spruance, commander of the 5th fleet, to the Pinkney's commander, Comdr. Arnold A. Downing of Brooklyn, were given spot advancement in ratings.

Plan Contest

Celestino [Chester] Chiesa, 69, one time elevated guard who lived in poverty for years while amassing $250,000, was buried yesterday in the family lot in Calvary cemetery. Fewer than a half dozen relatives and other mourners appeared. The funeral was held in St. Peter's church, Polk and Clark sts., where Chiesa had worshipped.

David Murphy

The Rev. Illuminate Luigi Brunetta went to the cemetery to give his final blessing. Also at the graveside were a niece, Mrs. Gertrude Dangelo, 6947 Laflin st.; a nephew, David Murphy, 2919 Lowe av.; Mrs. Ina Campbell, Chiesa's attorney, and two friends of Chiesa, James Cunningham, 826 S. Wabash av., and John J. Connors, 211 E. 31st st.

Several hours after the burial, it was announced that 12 nieces and nephews would contest Chiesa's will which left his fortune to the Catholic archbishop of Chicago for the poor. Search was being made for a safety deposit box to determine if Chiesa had any more riches.

HOUSE GROUP O.K.S TRUMAN'S SUCCESSION BILL

Washington, D. C., June 28 (AP)—The house rules committee today approved the administration's Presidential succession bill and headed it toward the floor of the house for two hours general debate.

The bill—asked by President Truman before the resignation of Edward R. Stettinius Jr., as state secretary—would put the speaker of the house next in line to step into the Presidency in case of a vacancy.

KING'S ROMANCE UNDER FIRE OF BELGIAN REDS

BRUSSELS, Belgium, June 28 (AP)—The war time marriage of Belgium's King Leopold III. to a commoner was dragged today by the communist newspaper Red Banner into the press campaign to force abdication of the monarch.

Princess de Rethy

An article in the newspaper bore the title, "Is Gov. [Henricus-Ludovicus] Baels, Removed in May, 1940, Getting a Pension? His Only Claim, Farther-in-Law of Leopold III."

Leopold's love for beautiful, brunette Mary Leila Baels, whom he wed and made princess of Rethy four years ago, has been used continually as political ammunition by his enemies.

The communist newspaper said that at the start of the German invasion Baels, governor of West Flanders, was reported relieved of his post by Leopold for having fled and this alleged order was belatedly revoked after Baels' daughter became the king's bride.

A CLAFFY BRINGS TRAGIC NEWS OF ANOTHER'S SON

A Chicago soldier just returned from a German prison camp brought tragic news for a Chicago mother of the same family name—news that her son had died in the same camp, it was learned yesterday.

The returned GI is Pvt. George R. Claffy, 33, of 524 W. 43d st., father of four children, who flew in from Paris three days ago and is under treatment for malnutrition at Gardiner General hospital. A member of the 106th infantry division, he was captured last December in the German bulge offensive.

In another company of the same division was Pvt. Robert Claffy, 19, of 2320 E. 70th pl. The two are not related. Robert also was captured. They met at Bad Orb, Germany. Robert died April 2 of malnutrition.

Robert's mother, Mrs. Edward Claffy, was notified March 7 that he had been captured. That was all she knew until Claffy located her Tuesday.

HERE'S WHAT ONE NAZI BIG SHOT THINKS OF GANG

FRANKFURT ON THE MAIN, Germany, June 28 (AP)—SS. Gen. Sepp Dietrich, who came from the trade unions of the old Weimar republic to become one of the most notorious Nazis, has provided the United States army with the raciest catalog yet compiled on the leaders of Hitler's circle.

Gen. Dietrich

Dietrich, close friend of Ernst Roehm, who was purged in 1934, was a German tank commander in the battle of the Ardennes bulge.

The following blunt excerpts were taken from official interrogation reports giving his opinions on men and events which brought Germany to its position today:

Himmler: "This guy tried to imitate the fuehrer. His appetite for power just could not be satisfied. On top of this he was a great hand at hoarding and scrounging. He received money from everywhere and everybody. Every SS. leader starting from the rank of corporal had to pay monthly dues to the Lebensborn, an organization taking care of the pregnant wives and girl friends of the SS. men. These dues were withheld from salaries. For this swindle they deducted 120 marks from my monthly salary of 1,500 marks. I had quite a number of rows with Himmler."

Goering a Clown

Goering: "He was lazy—and a clown. He held the bag and could do as he pleased. I surely don't wish him anything good."

Robert Ley, labor front leader: "An old dreamer but a good natured guy who wouldn't harm a fly. He has done a lot for the working man."

The general staff [fuehrer's headquarters]: "Keitel, Model, Buehle, and Jodl and all the others had no combat experience. Jodl had never even led a company. Weichs and Woehler lacked likewise in courage to say something. One ought to beat up the whole bunch of 'em. Only Zeitzler knew what was going on. I did a lot for this boy."

Hitler Taken for a Sucker

Hitler: "Knew even less than the rest. He allowed himself to be taken for a sucker by every one."

Hitler's death: "Killed in action? Impossible. This guy never left his air raid shelter."

Ernst Kaltenbrunner, No. 2 man of the Gestapo: "He really was a decent fellow who had to do a lot of things he didn't like to do. He had many a heated argument with Himmler."

Reinhard Heydrich, assassinated hangman in Czechoslovakia: "He was a great pig."

The defense of Vienna [Dietrich was the defender of Vienna]: "Of course I had orders to defend Vienna to the last. I could not go over to the enemy, as I did not want to lose my head. I therefore defended the town. I sent in a division. Well, this division let itself be pushed out of the town again. I didn't hang the town commander, either. That's the way to do it; one doesn't need to surrender."

Opinion of Russia

About Russia: "A very intelligent people, good natured, easy to be led and also adapted in technical matters—and, on top of that, those huge masses. They were poorly led in the beginning, but they learned quickly. These peasants have a lot of brains and are very amenable. Moreover, their tanks were better. They were less complicated and easier to maneuver. Our tanks seemed to have been made by a watchmaker—much too complicated and sensitive.

You'll Hop Atlantic by Rocket in 1970, Say Nazi Scientists

PARIS, June 28 (AP)—German scientists who now are turning over their technical knowledge to the allies have declared their belief that rockets within the next five to 10 years will speed a ton of mail across the Atlantic in 40 minutes, and by 1960 or 1970 will make regular passenger runs between Europe and the United States.

This and other seemingly fantastic data were disclosed in a press conference today by Lt. Col. John A. Keck of Greensburg, Pa., chief of the enemy equipment intelligence section of the United States army ordnance division.

Keck said many of the 1,200 German scientists now in the technical custody of the allied armies after helping create Germany's secret weapons believe that within 50 to 100 years a man will be able to conquer gravity and harness the rays of the sun. He added his own comment that the first nation to achieve this will rule the world.

Shoots Around Corners

To skeptical correspondents Keck said these scientists were the same men who developed Germany's V-1 and V-2 flying bombs and many other "screwball" weapons which he took off the secret list for the first time.

Such weapons, he said, included a 200 ton tank, guns with 400 foot barrels which had been found trained on London, rockets that could be launched from submerged submarines, and a rifle with a curved barrel for shooting around corners.

Keck said most of these scientists have expressed willingness to go to the United States or Britain and carry on there, knowing they will never be able to continue their work in Germany.

Keck told correspondents that while the standard equipment of the German army was "good to excellent," the Germans concentrated too much attention on "screwball weapons" at the expense of proved equipment and that this was a big factor in Germany's defeat.

Plan 1,800 Mile Rocket

Keck said Hitler had ordered his highest officers to see that all German artillery was converted to rocket artillery. He disclosed that allied secret operatives knew practically the daily routine at Germany's No. 1 rocket experimental station at Peenemunde, and that was how allied bombers killed 2,500 scientists by attacking Peenemunde when operations were at a peak. He said the Germans started rocket development in 1932.

Keck said the nazi program called for development of a rocket with a range up to 1,800 miles, due to be ready in another six months. This, the scientists believed, could be improved within five to 10 years to speed a ton of mail from Paris to New York in 40 minutes.

Keck asserted these same scientists believe that within 50 to 100 years access could be gained to a region 5,100 miles above the earth where they believe that gravity is neutral. Once this is achieved, space stations can be established for the use of astronomers and other scientists. Then others could be built leading to the construction of a large reflector for focusing the sun's rays onto the earth for power generating purposes.

Could Destroy Cities

Keck said one German scientist calculated that the sun's rays could be directed to a receiving station on the ground where heat energy would be converted into electrical energy.

By focusing the reflector at will, with the aid of radio control, the sun's rays could be used to kill human beings instantly and turn great bodies of water into steam, kindle forests and wipe out cities.

Keck said one of the first things the ordnance intelligence discovered after the Normandy landings was a number of six inch guns embedded in the channel cliffs and all "zeroed in" on London.

Barrel 400 Feet Long

He described these fantastic devices as having a barrel 400 feet long with booster chambers every 12 feet. Projectiles with an 82 mile range were started off with a rocket propellent and boosted by electrical detonation and could be fired at five second intervals. It was not known whether the Germans ever fired this weapon.

At Toplitz see, a lake in the Austrian alps, German scientists were perfecting powerful rockets to be launched from U-boats under water against aircraft or coastal cities.

Planned N.Y. Bombing

21ST ARMY GROUP HDQ., June 28 (AP)—R. A. F. officers said today that the Germans had nearly completed preparations for bombing New York from a "colossal air field" near Oslo when the war ended.

"Forty giant bombers with a 7,000 mile range were found on this base—the largest luftwaffe field I have ever seen," one officer said.

"They were a new type bomber developed by Heinkel. They now are being dismantled for study. German ground crews said the planes were held in readiness for a mission to New York."

PEACE BOARD TO MEET IN LONDON BOMB HAVEN

LONDON, June 28 [Reuters]—The interim commission of the united nations organization probably will have its London headquarters at Church house, Westminster, a foreign office spokesman said today. Britain has agreed to meet the expense of the commission.

The choice of headquarters has centered around buildings of historical interest. Church house, the administrative headquarters of the Church of England, was where parliament met after the house of commons was bombed. It is also here that the four power conference dealing with the preparation of the trials of major war criminals is being held.

'UNITY' CABINET TAKES OVER AS POLISH REGIME

New Government Retains Warsaw Premier

Exiles Seek 'Asylum'

LONDON, June 29 [Reuters]—The London Polish government is negotiating for "asylum" in Canada or Eire, according to the political correspondent of the Daily Express. The exile regime has the backing of the Vatican, the correspondent says, and "would prefer to be in Montreal so as to maintain close contact with the Poles in the United States from whom their funds will mostly come. Failing this, they may go to Dublin."

LONDON, June 28 (AP)—The new "unity" cabinet of the provisional Polish government was announced tonight, with Edward Osubka-Morawski retaining the post of premier.

The cabinet, organized on the basis of agreements reached in Moscow by Polish leaders and representatives of the United States, Britain, and Russia, includes Stanislaw Mikolajczyk as vice premier and minister of agriculture. He is a former premier of the exile Polish government in London.

A vice premiership also was given to Wladyslaw Gomolka, 39 year old leader in the underground movement, who was Osubka-Morawski's deputy in the old Lublin provisional government.

Britain and the United States were expected to recognize the new regime and to withdraw recognition from the London Polish government, which insists it is the only legal government of Poland.

There was a possibility that Poland's foreign assets might be frozen temporarily.

New Cabinet Sworn In

The new ministers immediately took their oaths before President Boleslaw Bierut and went into their first cabinet meeting.

Marshal Michal Rola-Zymierski, who assumed the rational defense post, was commander in chief of the Polish people's army when the Germans occupied Poland. He held that post under the Lublin government.

Other members of the new government are: Wincenty Rzymowski, foreign affairs; Dr. Wladyslaw Kiernik, public administration; Stanislaw Radiewicz, public security; Konstanty Dabrowski, treasury; Hilary Minc, industry; Jan Rabanowski, communications; Mieczyslaw Thugut, posts and telegraph; Dr. Stephen Jedrychowski, shipping and foreign trade; Dr. Franciszek Litwin, health; Stanislaw Tkczyk, forests; Czeslaw Wicek, education; Wladyslaw Kowalski, culture and arts; Henryk Swiatkowski, justice; Prof. Michal Kaczorowski, national reconstruction; Stefan Matuszewski, information and propaganda; Dr. Jerzy Stachelski, supply and trade.

Foreign Chief Fought Fascists

Foreign Minister Rzymowski is a bitter anti-Fascist. He was ousted from Italy in 1927 when his work as a newspaper correspondent provoked Benito Mussolini.

Wincenty Witos' powerful peasant party is represented by Dr. Kiernik, who attended the Moscow conference.

The Warsaw radio also announced appointment of a Polish national council of the homeland [parliament]. The members are Prof. Stanislaw Grabski, Witos, Mikolajczyk, Kiernik, Dr. Henryk Kolodziejski, Antoni Kolodziej, Prof. Adam Krzyzanowski, Prof. Stanislaw Kutrzeba, Jan Stanczyk, and Zygmunt Zulawski.

SLOVAKS PLAN INDUSTRY AND UNION CONTROL

Official Outlines 'Middle Way'

BRATISLAVA, Czechoslovakia, June 22 [Delayed] (AP)—State control of schools, trade unions, large industries, forests and mines are planned for the Slovak state of the Czechoslovak republic.

"Our plan is not socialist, not capitalist, but democratic," Charles Schmiedte, communist copresident in the dual party coalition council governing the state, said.

This nation is at the crossroads of eastern and western cultures and is feeling for the first time the impact of soviet philosophy.

Schmiedte and Ladislav Novomesky, newspaper editor, partisan fighter and communist minister of education, told how the state will function.

Education for Freedom

Youth will be educated in the ideals of freedom, Novomesky said.

There will be no "private" schools—which means parochial schools will be abolished altho religious denominations will be allowed to have their own church schools for religious instruction outside of state school hours.

Slovene will be the basic language taught in all schools except in eastern Slovakia where the population is 100,000. Ukrainian will be taught there in the basic schools.

Instruction will be given in Russian, French and English in the secondary schools with the emphasis placed on English in the business classes. Second languages in the universities will be Russian and English.

Will Keep Arts Alive

Talented students will be sought out and encouraged with liberal scholarship funds.

Theaters will be under state control because of difficulties in getting private funds, he said, and public libraries will be available in every community.

Subsidies are to be arranged, Novomesky said, to keep alive Slovak peasant ceramic and weaving arts.

Trade unions will be controlled by the state which will set minimum working conditions.

Great factories will fall to state control by reason of their size—including factories formerly owned by Jews, Schmiedte explained.

Small landowners will be permitted to operate in the same way as the small business man.

Land reforms fall into two classifications. Lands either in the hands of collaborators or Germans will be seized without recompense and distributed to small peasants. In the second instance, estates over 123 acres will be taken and divided among small landowners.

The state may pay something to the owners of broken up estates. Peasants who acquire shares of the land will be expected to pay the state.

"I don't expect there will be much fuss," Schmiedte commented on the attitude of the big factory and estate owners to the plan. "It is the middle way," he explained. "It is not like Russia."

GENERAL'S WIFE ROWS OVER FLAG WITH DE GAULLE

LONDON, June 28 [Reuters]—News of the disbanding by Gen. de Gaulle of the Hadfield-Spears ambulance unit was given tonight by the wife of Maj. Gen. Edward Spears, in a reply to a letter from De Gaulle.

Mrs. Spears was reported to have stated a few days ago that De Gaulle ordered the disbandment of her unit because its car carried the Union Jack in the June 18 parade in Paris. In her reply to De Gaulle she wrote "the statement was made, according to my information, by your minister of war in a letter to our divisional commander, and the fact of your displeasure is corroborated in a message from Paris in the British press accusing my unit of unfurling the Union Jack as we passed your stand and shouting "vive Spears, les anglais."

"We unfurled no British flag. We passed before you in silence. The shout 'vive Spears' came from a group of our old patients."

GIs SEE BERLIN BY MISTAKE AND GET AN EARFUL

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WITH THE 1ST AIR BORNE ARMY IN HALLE, Germany, June 28—"Nobody in Berlin believes Hitler is dead. Everybody is sure he was one of the first to escape to Japan. Lots of Berliners told us to be sure to remember that."

This information was brought back by members of the first American unit to occupy Berlin—for a few hours.

The popular Berlin view may be entirely wrong, but it made a deep impression on these Yanks, who were interviewed at Halle as they returned from their Berlin adventure. They belong to trucking company 3630, which had orders to take a convoy of 24 10-ton trucks "to the Berlin district and report to the commanding general."

At Magdeburg, at the "friendship bridge" which connects the American and British territories with the Russian occupied zone, both English and Russians shook their heads in surprise as the motorcade arrived.

Firmness Gets Passes

But, as the men said, "we are accustomed to getting to our destination and we insisted that our allies respect our orders." Firmness got the necessary passes for Lt. Henry C. Townsend of Cleveland, O., who was in the advance jeep, with the driver and interpreter, and for the convoy, under Lt. Donald Rice of Kalamazoo, Mich.

Townsend reached Berlin ahead of the convoy. He was unable to find any Americans, and finally reported to Berlin's Russian commandant, Lt. Gen. Barkoff who made it clear that Americans were not expected in Berlin now, and Townsend had to return to Magdeburg.

Barkoff was equally firm with Lt. Rice when the convoy leader reported to him in Berlin a few hours later. When the Yanks returned to the American lines they discovered that some one had forgotten to explain that headquarters in the "Berlin district" were still at Halle.

100 Men Tour City

But by the time the conferences with Barkoff were over, 100 men of the unit had investigated Berlin. "We drove into town until we reached something that looked like a square," said Corp. Stanley Chuchero of Chicago. "There were big pictures of Truman, Stalin, and Churchill there. Then we discovered we were on Unter den Linden."

"We were the first Americans to cook coffee on Unter den Linden," said Corp. Alex Szala, also of Chicago, "and people came to talk. They first thought we were English."

After the convoy had been parked in Berlin for quite a while, a Russian major called on the Americans. He made a welcoming speech, which members of the convoy who speak Russian and Polish translated. The major presented them with the only two cigars he had, with a courteous bow. In return the Americans gave him two K rations.

Traffic Cops Surprise Chicagoans

There were speeches about peace and coöperation, which, one of the men said, "gave us a chance to ask when the Russians will be getting into the war against Japan." The Russians assured them the moment would come soon, and now the Yanks are specially curious about Russia's entry into the war.

With amusement Sgt. Ben Lapacinski of Chicago remembered the surprise of the Russian girls acting as traffic cops, when the convoy moved out of Berlin. "Those girls, in skirts and high boots," he said, "stand on little wooden platforms, and they are usually johnny on the spot, holding two flags in one hand and saluting with the other, but when we all turned up they just held up the flags and we piled right thru, holding up everybody else."

MARY OBERLINE

Miss Mary Oberline yesterday received a collect telegram at the Washington hotel, 167 W. Washington st., from her mother, Susan. The telegram was sent from Mount Vernon, Jefferson county.

It said: "I'm stranded here. Going to work and get some money. Be back in a week."

Mrs. Oberline had left the hotel Wednesday, and police last night weren't sure just what they were going to do with Miss Oberline until her mother comes back, since Miss Oberline is 3 years old.

DARNAND, VICHY MILITIA CHIEF, SEIZED IN ITALY

ROME, June 28 (AP)—Allied intelligence officers have arrested Joseph Aine Darnand, secretary of interior in the Vichy government, who was described by the allied announcement as one of the principal French collaborationists with Germany.

Darnand, also secretary general of the French militia, was captured Monday in a friend's house at Edolo, near the Swiss border. He left Vichy in August, 1944, the allied report said, and went to Belfort with the government.

Last month Darnand went to Milan in northern Italy with 600 French militiamen, the announcement stated. After a battle with Italian Partisans near Grossoto, Darnand surrendered his forces and fled to Edolo.

Intelligence officers also have captured Carl Goedel, 53, said to have been responsible for the programs of "Axis Sally" and the brains of the German propaganda section in Italy.

NAZIS' GIBRALTAR CANNON CALLED JUST IMAGINARY

BY HENRY WALES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

TETUAN, Spanish Morocco, June 28—Gen. Jose Enrique Varela, high commissioner of Spanish Morocco, today denied that the Germans ever had installed long range batteries between Tangier and Ceuta to menace Gibraltar.

The military attache of the United States consulate in Tangier, Lt. Col. John W. Edwards, later confirmed that no evidence ever was discovered to support rumors that Hitler had sent a dozen batteries of 11 inch naval guns to the Spaniards in Africa.

Emplacement of these Krupp and Skoda weapons around Ceuta, only 15 miles across the straits from Gibraltar, was aimed, according to rumors early in the war, to prevent the British from using the fortress to interfere with a Nazi invasion of the United States via Brazil. The reports asserted that Hitler, using forced French labor had built a trans-Sahara railroad from Algiers and Oran to Dakar and amassed gigantic tonnage at the Vichy controled port on the west African bulge to attack South America.

No Long Range Guns

However, when the Yanks landed in Morocco and Algeria at the end of 1942 they found the railway only a mirage and when Dakar was entered no shipping concentration was discovered, either. Several batteries of six inch Vickers guns are the heaviest modern weapons in the Spanish protectorate, according to Varela.

"It is fantastic nonsense that the Germans ever sent artillery to us in Africa," said Varela. "At the eastern end of the protectorate around Melilla, we have several obsolete 10 inch guns made in St. Chamond, France, in 1890, and Ordunez, Spain, in 1876, but no long range weapons in the vicinity of the straits."

Talk of Old Times

Varela received me in the identical room where I interviewed the one time Spanish dictator, Primo Rivera, 21 years ago when he went to Morocco to direct the campaign against Abd el Krim, which was only successful a couple of years later when France joined in operations against the Riffs. The only difference in the Moorish style headquarters was the photograph of Franco over the desk instead of Alphonso XIII.'s picture.

"I was colonel here then," said Varela, "and we used airplanes for the first time in history to drop supplies for troops in block houses and employed the first armored car carrying a 37 mm. gun and painted white."

I recalled wondering how airplanes could drop water to troops surrounded by the Riffs in the rocky, hilltop block houses without smashing the containers from the impact, but the mystery was solved when Varela said they dropped burlap wrapped cakes of ice.

LONDON, June 28 [Reuters]—Swiss radio tonight reported that William C. Bullitt, former United States ambassador to Russia and France, had arrived in Rome and was expected to be appointed American ambassador to Italy.

TURKS ASK BRITAIN'S ADVICE ON DEMANDS MADE BY RUSSIANS

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

LONDON, June 28—Turkey's main ally, Great Britain, is being called upon for advice about the strong demands made upon Turkey by Russia as conditions for a new treaty of friendship between the two countries. It was confirmed today that Hasan Saka, Turkish foreign minister, will come here soon.

The Turkish ambassador, Rusen Anaydin, went to the foreign office yesterday to arrange with Alexander Cadogan, permanent undersecretary for foreign affairs, for the foreign minister and others to visit London.

Anxiety in Ankara has been apparent since Russia denounced the existing treaty between the two nations last March and then last week presented conditions for a new treaty. The conditions, as reported from Istanbul yesterday, were more severe than had been anticipated. It was indicated Turkey would accept only one of them—revision of the Montreux convention on the Straits of the Dardanelles.

Other conditions were reported to call for Russian bases in the Dardanelles, adjustment of Turkey's eastern frontier in favor of Russia, and Turkish indorsement of unspecified territorial changes in the Balkans.

U.S. MUST LIVE WITH WORLD, TRUMAN SAYS

Tells Crowd of 8,000 It's Distasteful Task

BY JOSEPH HEARST
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Kansas City, Mo., June 28—President Truman said tonight the United States must learn to live with the world as a whole and not by itself, and asserted America must lead the way to peace "or there will be no peace in the world."

The President, who had just received an honorary degree of doctor of laws from the University of Kansas City, stood in cap and gown before 8,000 persons in the Municipal auditorium and asked them to support him in his efforts to win the Japanese war and then to win the peace.

"And there is one thing we must learn—it is to be a most distasteful task for us to learn it—and that is that it is absolutely necessary for the greatest republic that the sun has ever shone upon to live with the world as a whole, and not by itself," he said.

Quotes Willkie—One World

Stating that the plane trip he made yesterday from Salt Lake City, Utah, to Kansas City in three and a half hours took his grandfather approximately six months in 1846, he asserted that he was anxious to bring home to his audience that "the world is no longer county size, no longer state size, or nation size.

"It is one world, as Willkie said," he added.

The President, asserting that it took a selling program to get the 13 original states to ratify the Constitution, said that "we are going to have to ratify this constitution at San Francisco, and I want to say to the United States, do it first.

Must Ratify Two

"There were two charters signed in San Francisco," he continued. "One of them was a charter of the united nations. The other was a world court. It will require the ratification of both of these charters and putting them into effect to have world peace for the next few generations."

Mr. Truman said that the fact he had just received a doctor of laws degree means that we live, in this country at least, "in an age of reason and an age in which we can get along with our neighbors.

"It will be just as easy for nations to get along in a republic of the world as it is for us to get along in the republic of the United States," he continued. "Whenever the states have a quarrel or an argument over water rights, they don't call out the army. They go to the Supreme court and they abide by the decision. There isn't a reason in the world why we can't do that internationally."

On Wedding Anniversary

President Truman, who grinned widely when Clarence R. Decker, president of the university and law school dean Edward D. Ellison draped the hood signifying the degree over his head, spoke with great earnestness to the crowd in the city where 11 years ago he was presiding judge of the county court. It was the first honorary degree the university has awarded, and he received it on the 26th anniversary of his marriage to Bessie Wallace.

During the evening it was announced that Alf M. Landon, Republican nominee for President in 1936 will motor here from Topeka, Kas., tomorrow to confer with Mr. Truman, who had said earlier that he would be glad to talk with the former G. O. P. standard bearer.

The program tonight ended a busy day for the President in which it was disclosed that he has a fault in common with many husbands. He forgot it was his wedding day.

The President didn't admit boldly he had forgotten it was 26 years ago today he married Bess Wallace, but when a reporter reminded him of the fact he appeared startled. Then he asked what date it was.

After his big day yesterday at his home town of Independence he arose early and motored to Kansas City, where he went to his office in the federal building. It is an office he had maintained when senator and later when Vice President. Today the lettering on the door said "Office of the President."

The Negro elevator operator, the Rev. Harold Jennings of the Starlight Spiritual church, was jubilant when the President shook hands with him. He said he had been worried that the secret service agents would not let them exchange handshakes.

Old Barber on Hand

In the office, Albert Spina, who has sheared and shaved Mr. Truman for 28 years, was waiting with clippers and shears to give the President a neat trim, which he did while photographers took pictures and the President chatted with a few old friends.

Tonsorially fixed for the day, Mr. Truman set out for the University of Kansas City to attend the 50th anniversary celebration of the school of law. It was at this school that the President attended night classes for one year while he was a judge of the Jackson County court.

But en route, the President remembered Eddie Jacobson, and the procession of cars turned from the route and pulled up in front of the Westport Men's wear shop. Jacobson was Mr. Truman's partner in a downtown haberdashery venture that ended in failure in 1921.

Pounds Presidential Back

Jacobson was behind the tie counter when Mr. Truman walked in. He hurried forward and the men pumped each other's hands enthusiastically and then clapped each other on the back. Then Jacobson remembered whose back he was pounding, wiped the perspiration from his gleaming bald head, and began escorting Mr. Truman about the store.

The President thought he had a beautiful shop and Jacobson beamed. Then he took the President's order for three white shirts. The neck size will be 15½ and the sleeves 33 inches.

"You know," Jacobson said later, "he's getting a little heavy. That's the first time he's needed bigger than a size 15, and I've been selling him shirts for years. He knows it, too, for he said himself I'd better make the neck size a little bigger. So while I'm at it, I'm sending him six shirts instead of three."

SUICIDE RAIDS INEFFECTIVE: ADM. MITSCHER

Coronado, Cal., June 28 (AP)—Altho Jap suicide planes have blasted his flag off two warships, Vice Adm. Mitscher asserted at a press conference today that such attacks are not more than 2 per cent effective.

"They must hit sometimes. They don't worry us very much. They're nothing but dive bombers, and the problem will be met sooner or later," the former leader of task force 58 said.

Altho he declined to identify the warship to which he transferred his flag after the aircraft carrier Bunker Hill was crippled by suicide planes, Mitscher disclosed the second ship was hit only three days after he left the Bunker Hill, while the flagship was leading a raid on Kyushu, Japan.

[The navy revealed yesterday that the Bunker Hill was Mitscher's flagship when it was attacked May 11 off Okinawa.]

He transferred his flag to a third warship, where he remained until returning to this country early this month.

ALIENATION SUIT ASKS $50,000 OF A. E. ASHCRAFT

Suit for $50,000 charging alienation of affection was filed yesterday against Alan E. Ashcraft, former state representative, by Berrien Tarrant, 2229 Kenilworth av., Wilmette, insurance executive, whose former wife, Jean, was married to Ashcraft last April 5.

The complaint, which Tarrant filed as his own attorney, carries a malice count. This would permit him to enforce judgment, if Ashcraft refused to pay, by a term up to six months in the county jail. In such a case the plaintiff pays $3.50 a week for the defendant's board and lodging.

Tarrant, who is 35, said that he and his wife were married Feb. 9, 1929.

SENATORS FIGHT RAILROADING OF WORLD CHARTER

Resist Move to Ban Committee Study

'Flippant Gesture'

Overton's resolution also was opposed by Sen. George (D., Ga.), who said immediate action by the senate would be a "flippant" gesture. Sen. Austin (R., Vt.), an internationalist, agreed that "full deliberation" of the charter should be permitted.

Informal senate debate on the charter was opened in Sen. Connally's speech. Altho describing the charter in glowing terms, he interspersed his address with answers to expected senate objections.

"The eyes of the world are centered on what we do here," Connally told the senate. "Foreign nations know that the united nations organization for peace and security will face failure and futility unless the United States is a member. . . . . The fate of the world may depend upon our decision."

Receives Applause

The senate broke into applause as Connally finished and members gathered around his desk to shake his hand. It was the second time this week the no-applause rule had been broken in the senate—the first being yesterday when Connally and Vandenberg returned from San Francisco.

Connally, who is chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, was a delegate to the San Francisco world conference at which the charter was drafted. Sen. Vandenberg (R., Mich.), the other senate delegate, will address the senate tomorrow. President Truman will formally present the charter to the senate Monday.

Answers Objections

Phases of the charter to which objections were anticipated and answered by Connally in his hour long address included:

1. The veto formula, under which any of the "Big Five" nations can veto any action by the proposed 11 power security council.

CONNALLY: "It is not believed that it will be capriciously or arbitrarily used. A recalcitrant member would be faced with the opinions of four other permanent members and perhaps six nonpermanent members. . . . It must be remembered the United States will be a permanent member . . . our country will have the right to exercise the veto. . . . Our armies and navies cannot be sent into a foreign war without the consent of the United States."

Trusteeship Provision

2. Trusteeship of former mandated areas and of "dependent" people.

CONNALLY: "Distinction is made between territories within strategic areas and those in non strategic areas. . . . Great care was exercised in protecting the interests of the United States in territories from which our savage enemies were expelled at the cost of so many lives of our gallant and intrepid soldiers and sailors."

3. The provision for the use of American land, sea, and air forces at the direction of the military staff committee of the security council.

CONNALLY: "Agreements [must be made] between the various nations of the organization for supplying contingents of armed forces to be used in emergency. . . . These agreements must be ratified by the various governments and any agreement to which we are a party must come to the senate for ratification."

Denies "Super-State"

4. The fear that the world security organization will mark the beginning of a "super-state" in which the United States would lose its sovereignty.

CONNALLY: "The charter creates an agency of tremendous influence and power However, it creates no super-state. The rights and powers of individual states are not impaired except to the extent of the obligations and duties which they voluntarily assume when they sign the charter."

Connally asked for immediate ratification of the charter by the senate to "stimulate and encourage" ratification by other nations. Yesterday he told reporters committee hearings should be completed in two weeks and that senate debate should consume no more than four weeks.

By asking for final senate disposition of the San Francisco charter in a minimum of six weeks, Connally would shorten by nearly seven months the time consumed by the senate in considering the ill-fated league of nations 25 years ago.

Pvt. Ray E. Parsons of Fort Lewis, Wash., complained to police that a thief stole a bag containing a uniform and other clothing yesterday while he was in the Union station.

REPUBLICAN WOMEN URGE BAN ON YANKS FOR WORLD POLICE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., June 28—The Republican Women's council of Arlington county, Va., today announced adoption of a resolution opposing participation of American soldiers and sailors in an international police force. Such action, the resolution asserted, "would mean sending them into perpetual wars all over the face of the earth without the consent of our American congress."

The resolution further declared that the war should be won and American soldiers returned home before the San Francisco charter is brought to a vote in the senate because the soldiers should have a voice in the ratification of the charter and the future of America. The resolution said that charter ratification might change American destiny as an independent United States to that of a member of a world state.

DESTROYER GETS BACK AFTER JAP SUICIDE ATTACK

Long Beach, Cal., June 28 (AP)—The destroyer U. S. S. Halsey Powell was reported by Tokyo as sunk and for a while her crewmen thought the Japanese broadcaster might be right, but the ship struggled to port here, where repairs are now being completed.

The 11th naval district announced last night that the Halsey Powell was crippled March 20 by a Japanese suicide plane, 90 miles off Kyushu, Japan, inflicting a toll of nine dead, three missing and 29 wounded.

The plane plunged thru the deck and a compartment below and passed out the starboard side, the navy said. Then exploding gasoline from the plane enveloped the after end of the destroyer and the stern began to sink. For three days, while enemy planes attacked overhead, the crew battled to prevent flooding.

Comdr. Sidney D. B. Merrill of Bloomfield, Conn., captain of the destroyer, said 22 officers and men had been recommended for citations and awards. Merrill was awarded the navy cross yesterday for courage and good seamanship.

$200,000 CRANE SUIT IS SHIFTED TO KANE COUNTY

A suit by Mrs. Elida Piza Crane seeking $200,000 from the estate of her late former husband, Herbert P. Crane of the plumbing family, was refiled yesterday in the Kane county Circuit court at Geneva from the Cook county Circuit court, where it had been pending since 1938.

The transfer of the case was made at the suggestion of Judge Philip Finnegan, who said it properly belonged in Kane count; because that was where Crane lived, and where he died in 1943.

Mrs. Crane, who was known as the Costa Rica beauty, and Crane were married in 1916. She divorced him in 1920, receiving $100,000 settlement for herself and a son, Raphael, now in the army. In 1938, she sued Crane for 300 shares of Crane company stock, now worth $200,000, alleging he gave it to her as a wedding present but kept the stock in his care for her protection and neglected to turn it over to her on their divorce. Mrs. Crane lives at 1040 Lake Shore dr.

Argentina Will Liquidate Nazi Banks; Seizes Funds

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, June 28 (AP)—Finance Minister Ceferino Alonso Irigoyen today said that the German Transatlantic bank and the German Bank for South America, both of which were placed under Argentine control soon after this country declared war on the axis, had been ordered to cease operations and would be liquidated. Deposits of both institutions were transferred to the Argentine Central bank.

DRIVE TO PUT CITY OVER TOP IN BOND SALES

New Record Set

Washington, D. C., June 28 (AP)—The 7th war loan broke all previous records for bond drives today as total sales reached $21,639,000,000. The previous high mark was $21,621,000,000 in the 6th war loan last winter.

All forces were marshaled yesterday in Chicago and Cook county in an effort to put the Mighty 7th war loan drive over the top before its close tomorrow night. The local goal for sales to individuals is $327,474,000.

Lawrence F. Stern, local chairman, urged all World War I. veterans to buy E bonds with their adjusted service certificates. He estimated that there are about 20 million dollars' worth of adjusted service certificates held by 22,000 veterans in Illinois.

Many Vets Buy Bonds

"A substantial part of this amount, reinvested in E bonds," he said, "might well be the difference between success or failure in the drive. Today and tomorrow will tell whether Chicago will hold its lead among cities of the country in E bond sales."

Stern said many returning service men, some of whom were war prisoners, are using much of their accumulated pay to buy bonds. He urged civilians to follow this example, to dig deeper and make every sacrifice to buy more bonds.

Union Men Join Dad-GI Banks

Nearly $25,000 in war bonds for GI Joes have been purchased by 108 members of the Chicago Moving Picture Machine Operators' union for their sons in service, Eugene Atkinson, business manager, and James Gorman, president of the union, announced yesterday.

RADIO LIBEL BILL PASSES HOUSE, GOES TO GREEN

Aims to Curb Defamation Over the Air

BY GEORGE TAGGE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., June 28—Over intensified CIO opposition, the Illinois house late tonight passed the radio libel by a vote of 100 to 27. This measure to discourage defamatory utterances on broadcasts was passed last week by the senate, 46 to 0, and now goes to Gov. Green for his approval.

Reed F. Cutler [R., Lewistown], majority leader the past two sessions, handled the bill in the house. In the senate the measure was piloted by Senators T. Mac Downing [R., Macomb] and William J. Connors [D., Chicago].

Altho the bill was amended to satisfy spokesmen for 16 downstate radio stations, all of the Chicago stations except W-G-N continued to oppose the regulatory measure. The Chicago Federation of Labor also went on record against it in telegrams to legislators.

CIO Charges Favoritism

Today, the CIO industrial union council of Illinois sent to legislators its "guide" headlined "Radio Libel Bill Must Not Pass!" Contention was made that radio stations will act as censors in favor of "reactionaries."

On Monday, the CIO attempted to saddle the bill with an amendment which friends of the bill said would grant absolute legal license to libel. There would be no force left in the penalties of one year in jail or $500 fine if it were adopted, they said. It was defeated.

Rep. Cutler said of the CIO opposition that it was "a bunch hollering for free speech but not willing to give it to others." Most radio stations want reasonable regulation, he said.

Leads CIO Attacks

The official CIO member of the house was the chief speaker against it. He is Rep. Teigland [D., Rock Island], president of the Tri-City Industrial union council. He spent considerable time attacking THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

"This bill is designed to gag free discussion over the radio," he said. "The common people organized for discussion would have trouble getting on the air, especially on political issues."

Talks against the bill also were made by Representatives Monroe [D., Collinsville], Upchurch [D., Benton], Preihs [D., Pana], Brands [D., Prairie du Rocher], and Holten [D., East St. Louis].

Republicans Support Bill

Speaking for the bill were Representatives Keller [R., Waukegan], Kelsey [R., Barrington], Brydia [R., Prophetstown], Rategan [D., Chicago], Euzzino [D., Chicago], and Clabaugh [R., Champaign].

Under the bill a person uttering a libel could not be convicted without a showing that he did so "knowingly and maliciously." However, proof of malice is not required as to the radio station, since it was argued there could hardly be any way of showing this.

Stations would be protected as to "ad libs" by a provision that they could not be convicted unless they have "advance knowledge" of, and "opportunity or right to prevent," the libel.

Immune on Politics

Speeches of political candidates would not render stations guilty of libel. This provision is based on the federal communications commission requirement that there be no censorship of political speeches, and that if time is given to one candidate, the station must give time to his opponent to reply.

Introduced March 22, the bill received more hours of discussion before the senate judiciary committee than any of hundreds of other bills this session.

Senate Approves Bill to Continue Canal Body

DAY by DAY on the FARM By GAIL COMPTON

June 28, 1945

HAZARDS of feeding cattle for a living were under discussion among the men at the farm the other day. The topic came up when one worker quoted feeding costs as recorded by a large scale operator near the farm.

The operator figures he is doing well if his steers put on two pounds a day in the feedlot. His corn costs $1.10 a bushel; the protein feed, $50 a ton, and the hay, $20 a ton. A steer in one day will consume one-third of a bushel of corn, two pounds of protein, and five pounds of hay. This is a daily feed cost of 47 cents per animal. No labor charges are included. Thus two pounds of beef cost this operator 47 cents to produce.

Why Meat Is Lacking

When he takes that meat to the market, the highest price he can get for two pounds is 36 cents: there is an 18 cent a pound ceiling on live beef of top grade. Thus the operator suffers a loss of 11 cents per animal each day.

The effect of this has been that the operator now will not feed any cattle. Last winter he fed out 677 head. Thus, from this one farm the nation has lost more than 677,000 pounds of beef.

Haying still is the principal occupation at the farm. While the silos are being filled with the first cutting, one man spends his time with a tractor and cultivator working over the cornfields. For the first time in several years, the farm has an adequate supply of labor and the work is progressing satisfactorily.

Cereals in Good Shape

The wheat is well headed out, and soon will start to turn golden brown. A survey of stalks in different fields indicates there should be a heavy yield. In several sections, however, the wheat has lodged because of its rank growth. As the grain must be allowed to obtain full maturity before the combine enters the field, there is a danger it all may lodge or be knocked down by storms before harvest. If this happens, the men are in for plenty of trouble.

The oat fields have made a good growth. Only a week ago, they were growing well, but were yellow or a sickly green in color. They lacked sunlight as a result of May and early June rains. A few days of hot sun, however, and their color changed rapidly to a deep, healthy green. They should start to head almost any day now.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

GARDENERS who have not cultivated Chinese cabbage will find this vegetable easy to produce and very satisfactory as a late season leaf vegetable. It does not thrive in this area if planted in the spring, but seed can be planted in July for harvest in late September and October. A good plan is to plant a short row every few days from July 1 to July 20.

If the July and early August weather is too warm, July 1 plantings may form seed stalks before heading. Last year, seed sown between July 10 and 15 headed almost perfectly. Seed is sown about an inch deep, and plants should be thinned to stand 10 to 12 inches apart in the row.

Chinese cabbage may be used as a lettuce substitute in salads or in cole slaw, and also is excellent when boiled like celery.

STATE SPENDING MAY SKYROCKET TO 773 MILLIONS

BY ROBERT HOWARD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., June 28 — The Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois estimated today that total appropriations passed by the legislature are "likely to exceed" 773 million dollars, an increase of 253 millions over the record spending in 1943.

The federation, a nonpartisan fact finding agency, said appropriations totaling $741,420,990 had been passed by both houses by noon today. It estimated that pending bills would add $31,759,487 to that amount before the 64th general assembly adjourns Saturday night.

Gov. Green had told newsmen earlier that the state's regular operating budget was approximately 7 million dollars over the 604 million dollar mark at which he submitted it to the assembly. At his request, the senate reversed its usual policy and refused to place on its calendar a nonadministration bill for 4 million dollars to subsidize the care of tuberculosis patients.

Still Can Veto Some Items

In noting that the legislature already has far exceeded its 1943 record for appropriations totaling $519,974,233, the federation said the governor still has an opportunity to veto some items.

The 773 million dollar estimate for total appropriations exceeds the March estimate when the governor's budget message predicted that 758 million dollars would be available for spending, both from anticipated revenues in the next two years and from the big surplus built up during the war.

The federation gave this summary:

Regular operating appropriations—$610,916,087 in bills passed; $15,480,887 estimated to be passed during rest of week; total, $626,396,974.

Post-war supplemental budget—$123,949,132 passed; $15,350,000 still expected; total, $139,299,132.

Deficiency appropriations—$6,413,371 passed; $928,000 still expected; total, $7,341,371.

In addition, $142,400 in emergency appropriations were voted by the legislature.

Little Opposition

"Since appropriation bills passed are already over estimated revenues for the next biennium, I don't see how we can stand any increase," the governor told newsmen.

He said the post-war budget, a special program to spend the treasury's 127 million dollar surplus, contains a 4 million dollar item for the construction of five state tuberculosis sanitariums, one of which would be in Cook county.

The $101,064,532 post-war omnibus spending bill was sent to the governor for approval after the senate, in light skirmishing, concurred in house increases. The most opposition, a 33 to 8 roll call, was on the $1,200,000 item for restoration of the Sangamon county courthouse as a Lincoln shrine.

M'FAYDEN HAILS HOUSE ACTION ON SLUM BILL

Passage of the slum clearance bill by the house in Springfield Wednesday appropriating 10 million dollars for public housing is a step toward a better housing program thruout the entire state, Temple McFayden, chairman of the state housing board, said in Chicago after learning of the bill's passage. The measure was sent back to the senate for concurrence in amendments.

The 10 million dollars is to be matched by local governments thruout the state, with Chicago getting approximately half the sum. Chicago has approved a 5 million dollar bond issue to match its share of the state fund, giving it approximately 10 million dollars as a housing fund starter.

This sum, in turn, would be the basis for a request for a 90 million dollar federal loan, which, if granted, would give Chicago a 100 million dollar fund for slum clearance and housing.

"Ten million dollars is granted to the state housing board under the bill to provide concrete assistance to both private and public housing developments in communities thruout the state," McFayden said.

He explained that the money would be allocated by the housing board to local land clearance commissions or housing authorities, depending on which type of authority the local government sets up

JOHN HENNEBERGER OF CIO APPOINTED TO STATE LABOR POST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., June 28—John G. Henneberger of Chicago, president of local 1009, CIO United Steel Workers of America, was appointed assistant director of the state department of labor by Gov. Green today. He lives at 9952 Avenue H.

An active union worker in the South Chicago steel mills, Henneberger is a member of the Illinois war labor standards board. He takes the office which has been vacant since Robert L. Gordon of Urbana, an AFL man, was promoted to the department directorship last year. Henneberger was graduated by St. Francis de Sales High school, is married and has two children, a son in the merchant marine and a daughter, 15.

Gov. Green also sent to the senate the appointment of Laddie T. Pelnar, a Berwyn Republican, as assistant director of revenue, a vacant position. Richard J. Lyons of Libertyville is deputy director. Pelnar has been sales tax supervisor in the Chicago area.

Green told reporters that George B. McKibbin has talked about retiring as director of finance but that no resignation has been submitted.

BONUS MEASURE KILLED AS HOUSE TABLES BILLS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., June 28—The 125 million dollar veterans' bonus bill sponsored by State Secretary Barrett, was killed today by a motion tabling all house bills remaining on the house calendar.

No surprise was evident among Democrats who brought the bonus measure into the legislature for what Republicans charged were political reasons. Cook county Democrats consistently had supported the G. O. P. state administration's 127 million dollar post-war budget for state improvements. Money is not available for both purposes.

SENATORS VOTE HIKE IN CHICAGO SCHOOL TAX RATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., June 28—As the house hurried to pass the remaining Butler tax bills, the senate today by a voice vote adopted eleventh hour amendments that would make possible great increases in tax revenue of the Chicago board of education and Cook county board.

Sen. Daley, Mayor Kelly's legislative spokesman, offered the amendments to bills introduced by Sen. Walker Butler [R., Chicago] only Monday night. No debate preceded adoption. The senate passed the changed bills, 31 to 2, and rushed them to the house.

Rep. Noble Lee [R., Chicago], dean of the John Marshall Law school, said he would try to get the bills back into their original form. On the basis of the power shown by the Kelly-Green combination thruout the 64th general assembly there was little chance that he would be successful.

Boosts Rate 40 Cents

One Daley amendment boosts the school board tax rate from 80 cents to $1.20 for 1947 and subsequent years. The board has the option of using this rate rather than one sufficient to produce a pegged levy of 58 million dollars.

If the $1.20 rate were used it would produce 80 million dollars—22 millions more than the pegged amount—according to tax experts here who said the move was contrary to a previous understanding. The bill provides a no-option pegged levy of 56½ millions for 1946, compared with 55 millions raised for 1945.

Already passed by house and senate and sent to Gov. Green for his approval is the key bill of the Butler series. It calls for property assessment on the basis of full valuation.

Really Just 73 Per Cent

Cook county now has a so-called 100 per cent valuation, but according to the state's formula it is actually about 73 per cent. Thus, the Butler bills, with Daley's amendments, would provide the springboard for large tax boosts.

Daley also put thru an amendment to the Cook county board's bill for pegged levies of 16 million dollars for future even number years and 15 millions for future odd numbered years. He changed the rates which the board could use instead of the pegs from 16 to 24 cents, and from 14 to 22 cents.

If the board exercised its option to use the rates it could get 21 millions for even numbered years and 18 millions for odd numbered years.

Sen. Daley told a reporter that he does not expect the school and county boards to take unfair advantage of any leeway that might be given them under the Butler bills.

"On the present Cook county assessment basis the school board could have used its $1.60 rate for 1944 and 1945 to get about 80 million dollars," he said. "This was not done. It took only 55 millions."

UNCOMMON COMMONERS

Two remarkable acknowledgments of Britain's debt to the United States were made on the same day by eminent spokesmen of the empire. Prime Minister Churchill said: "We are living largely on the bounty of the United States, which is lending us an enormous sum of money without interest in the shape of the goods and food we need. We want to get out of that position, because we do not want to be dependent upon any one—not even the best of friends and companions."

Field Marshal Montgomery said: "We were finished and you came along and gave us a helping hand." History, he said, will show that the axis attack upon America in 1941 was a fatal mistake. "After that," said the field marshal, "victory for us was certain. It is a tremendous debt that we can never repay. Not ever."

Here, to translate into direct address, was Winston Leonard Spencer Churchill, son of Lord Randolph Churchill, third son of the seventh duke of Marlborough, expressing his obligations to the American people thru President Harry S. Truman, born in Lamar, Mo., now of Independence, Mo.

Here was Field Marshal Sir Bernard Law Montgomery, son of the Rt. Rev. H. H. Montgomery, bishop of the Episcopal church, knight commander of the order of St. Michael and St. George, acknowledging the indebtedness of Britain to the American army thru Gen. of the Armies Dwight D. Eisenhower, born in Dennison, Tex., now of Abilene, Kas.

Two representatives of the British aristocracy were paying compliments to their opposite numbers, who are American commoners.

Prime Minister Churchill is a descendant of John Churchill, the first duke in one of the most famous houses in England; the premier's wife is a granddaughter of the earl of Airlie. Churchill himself can have a title any time he wants it. Mr. Truman's parents were plain people. Prime Minister Churchill was educated in the select environment of Harrow and Sandhurst. Mr. Truman attended Kansas City School of Law. The prime minister possesses a broad estate in Kent. Mr. Truman owns a frame house in Independence. Mr. Churchill is a member of the aristocratic Carlton club. Mr. Truman is a member of the American Legion.

Field Marshal Montgomery is a knight, the son of a knight, and the offspring of the aristocratic tradition in the Anglican church. His grandfather, Frederic William Farrar, was archdeacon and canon of Westminster cathedral and dean of Canterbury cathedral. He, too, was educated at Sandhurst. Gen. Eisenhower's ancestors were not distinguished and his education was obtained at West Point.

It so happens that the civil and military spokesmen of England, as is usually the fact, represent the British upper classes. It also happens that the men to whom their acknowledgments would properly be addressed are Americans who, as is usually the circumstance in this country, cannot point to distinguished lineage to account for their attainments in the world but are plain Americans.

The conclusion that might be drawn is that Mr. Truman and Gen. Eisenhower have achieved their station and distinction because the American system has provided them the opportunity of rising on their own merits and abilities. It is extremely doubtful that the class system of England, where so much depends upon the social stratum to which one is born, would have given either of these Americans the chance to rise to positions of leadership.

Compliments to the success of the American leadership are therefore compliments to the success of the American way of life. The remarks of Prime Minister Churchill and Field Marshal Montgomery are for that reason all the more gratifying.

ENGLAND'S PERIL

We didn't properly appreciate the deadly danger with which England was confronted in 1940 until we looked over the list of notable characters imprisoned without trial under section 18-b of the defense of the realm act. There was Joe Beckett.

For the enlightenment of the younger generation we hasten to explain that Mr. Beckett was a British heavyweight boxer who was in his prime, if it ever could be called that, about 25 years ago. Mr. Beckett was a worthy exemplar of the tradition carried on ably by such successors as Phainting Phil Scott. The American equivalent would be somewhere between Farmer Lodge and King Levinsky. The common attribute of these lion hearted gladiators was to seek solacing contact with the canvas before they should come to harm.

Mr. Beckett had reduced his routine to an economy of motion which approached art. In two "bouts" with M. Georges Carpentier, the orchid man, Mr. Beckett succumbed in the first round, which was rated par for the course.

In England's hour of peril one of the first things the home secretary thought to do was clap Mr. Beckett in gaol. For a man whose long career in the prize ring had provided a continuing demonstration of the fact that he shrank from doing injury to himself, let alone injuring others, this was the highest type of compliment. If Mr. Beckett was ever in himself a clear and present danger to the empire, it will come to no one as a greater shock than to himself.

When Mr. Churchill talked about "fighting them on the beaches, in the villages, and in the streets of the cities" Mr. Beckett probably assumed a prostrate position forthwith. Why would they want to scare a bloke like that?

RUBBER AND SLAVERY

The suggestion that "at least a part" of the synthetic rubber plants be kept in operation after the war was made here not long ago by Mr. Francis B. Davis Jr., chairman of the United States Rubber company. Nobody except Henry Wallace is likely to quarrel with that proposal.

Mr. Davis reminded his hearers that tho a year's supply of natural rubber was at hand when the Japanese seized the plantations across the Pacific, this amount has been barely sufficient for our minimum needs. The country was, and in some respects still is, suffering from the shortage of natural rubber. He added that synthetic plants which are not kept in operation will quickly lose their value as stand-bys. Any one who has ever walked past a factory which has long been idle knows that this is true.

Mr. Davis hopes that after natural rubber again becomes available, "each type of rubber will be allowed to seek its own price level in a free, unmanipulated market so that the best rubber at the lowest cost, be that natural or synthetic, will be available to the industry." To that statement of policy one very important qualification must be added.

The American people don't want to give any encouragement to the resumption of slave labor in the rubber plantations. In the Dutch and British colonies the exploitation of the natives and of imported coolies has been a scandal. Laborers have been recruited for long periods of service at a few cents a day and even that pittance has been reduced by exactions for medical care, miscellaneous taxes, and other such items. The plantation owners, thru their price-fixing combination, seized every opportunity to gouge the American consumers, but the lot of the plantation slaves wasn't improved.

We now know we can get along with very little natural rubber. For some purposes the synthetics are better and for most purposes they will serve as well or nearly as well. There is every reason to expect that in time, and perhaps not a long time, synthetics will be available which will be superior to natural rubber for any use.

Meanwhile, if we have to, we can ride on tires made largely if not wholly of substitutes. Certainly the American people want to get as much mileage per dollar of tire cost as they can, but just as certainly they would rather pay a few cents more for a tire than give encouragement to slavery in the European colonies. We ought not forget that the slaves welcomed the Japanese invaders as liberators in Malaya and Java.

POLITICAL COHESION IN THE MIDDLE WEST

Members of the Republican national committee from 10 states of the Atlantic seaboard from Maine to Delaware and Pennsylvania met recently in New York City to organize politically in behalf of regional interests. The meeting was a further demonstration that easterners, who have seized the initiative and put over their own candidates and platforms in the last two national conventions, do not propose to yield control of the Republican party without a struggle.

The same emphasis upon regional political cohesion which the Republicans of the eastern seaboard have manifested is to be found in all parts of the country except the middle west. The south is solid in action. The western states are Pacific coast conscious, and the thinly populated mountain states have a solidarity easily perceived thru the tendency of their representatives in congress to act as a bloc in defense of such economic interests as silver and live stock prices.

Only the middle western states never act together. As a consequence, they fail to exercise the influence which is properly theirs.

The easterners who since 1940 have controled the Republican party are well content that there is such a dispersion of middle western political force. The inability of the people in the midlands to concert their political strength has permitted the easterners to seize and maintain party control. They think that a few compliments on occasion will suffice to reward the middle west for its loyalty to the Republican cause.

Thus, at the meeting of the eastern Republicans, Mr. G. Mason Owlett of Pennsylvania, in opening the convention, paid the traditional tribute to Lincoln for saving the Union and bringing the party its first opportunity to prove the soundness of its philosophies and convictions. Almost as an afterthought, Mr. Owlett dropped in the remark, "At the present time we find the greatest resurgence to Republican principles in the great middle west."

It is not only now that the middle west is the stronghold of the party; it has been so from the beginning. Yet, from the beginnings of the nation, easterners have always feared the rise of this section to a commanding political position, and in party politics they have consistently united to avoid any threat that their own control might be liquidated; even if, as in the last two national elections, the retention of their preferred status inevitably decreed defeat of the party.

This regional solidarity of the eastern states dates from the earliest times. It will be recalled that the original ordinance of 1784 for the Northwest Territory, drafted by Jefferson, was permitted to die stillborn because the eastern states resented the influence which the west would come to exercise on legislation. But, within three years, congress was forced to amend its views and, in the ordinance of 1787, to enunciate the national policy that new territories were not to be held as colonies subject to the overlordship of the older states, but as territories which would be admitted to the Union on attaining maturity.

These retrospective glances demonstrate that the middle west is long overdue in its need for political solidarity. By organizing, the states of this section could assume the commanding position in the Republican party which has for so long been denied them. They would then be able to restore in all their luster the principles of Americanism for which the party has stood in the successful past, but which in its recent career as an appendage of the east and of Wall street in particular have been permitted to lapse into desuetude.

JAPANESE SIDE SHOW

One of these months or years American soldiers, prowling around the Japanese homeland, will encounter the Ainus, always called "hairy," and the event will be a good story for the war correspondents. These aborigines of Nippon have been among the stage properties of the Japanese legend in the American mind for many years, and we are as curious about them as the average European is about the Indians.

* * *

The Ainus, called "hairy" because their men grow beards worthy of the Civil war period, are not related to the Japs, but seem to be survivals from the stone age. They may be of Caucasian rather than Mongolian descent, and anthropologists have invented a special name for the type: Proto-Nordic. [A question mark should follow this label.] They are found on Hokkaido, Japan's big north woods island, and on part of the Sakhalin peninsula.

* * *

At the St. Louis exposition of 1904 there was an Ainu exhibit in the flesh, complete from beards to babies. Prof. Frederick Starr, a famous University of Chicago character, rounded up the group and arranged the show with scientific dignity. The exhibit won a grand prize.

These primitives wander around districts that have been assigned to them as reservations. The men are hunters; the women scratch the soil in rude agriculture. Among their customs is the capturing of bear cubs, which they rear for three years and then sacrifice, with invocations, to strange gods of the prehistoric wilderness. They are a sparse and dwindling race which has survived, without much change, from the glacial epoch, when the mammoth roamed over northern Asia.

We asked THE TRIBUNE'S Japanese expert, Mr. Whiteing, if he had ever heard of an Ainu who rose out of his humble lot to become a prominent Japanese citizen. "No," he said. "Nor a Korean, either."

BRIGHT INTERVALS

How precious are these summer afternoons,
Bright intervals of warmth, and peace, and beauty,
While marigolds, like small, enamored moons
Glow thru the fragrant hours in solemn duty.
The sunlight pools like glossy butterscotch
And honey on the lawn; small butterflies
Move in a yellow cloud, and pansies watch
Them with their brown and saffron velvet eyes.
The roadsides ripple, tawny in the sun,
With mustard blooms, and toadflax, and sweet clover;
And thru the wheatfields amber shadows run
While the kildeer sounds his ringing question over.
These bright affinities of earth and sky
Become the golden sequence of July.

Footnote to the Charter

They really should have invited me to the San Francisco conference. I could have told them that any effort to maintain world peace by promoting a broader industrial civilization for the British empire is quite useless.

Shortly before the war I was seated in the lounge at Brown's hotel, Albemarle st. London had been warm that day, and I was just beginning to doze when the sound of voices aroused me. An Englishman had entered with an American friend, and the latter was attempting to explain the high living standards in the United States. "In the midwest," he said, "we feel that much of this material prosperity stems from the automobile industry."

A slightly pained expression darkened the Briton's brow.

"O, yes—motor cars," he commented. "Nasty things, really. Can't allow them to get too numerous—frighten the foxes, you know."

ATOP TRIBUNE TOWER

The tracery of stone, that from below
Seems fine as filigree, here served to frame
A pictured land where roads and rivers flow
Beneath a flag that ripples like a flame.
The lake lay eastward, cool and still as sleep,
While far below the ants of traffic crawled,
And in the magic of the skyline's sweep
We too fell silent in a mood enthralled.
Odd, that the scenes I scarcely heeded there
Should now live on so brightly in my mind;
Unless it be that far from present care
A shining tower waits, and we shall find
The peace we dared to dream of, long ago,
When love was near, and our dull world below!

The soldier expects to be sent home from Germany shortly, and his wife plans to come to the United States as soon as possible. I have been told that when the wife comes to the United States she will be allowed to bring only $40 with her. Is this true?"

Parents of men killed in action must supply conclusive proof of dependency to be eligible for pensions. "TYPHOID MARY'S" VICTIMS

TYPHOID fever cannot be classified as a "vanishing disease," yet there is little doubt that the disorder is less prevalent than it was in the past. At the turn of the century, there were 350,000 victims in the United States, of whom one-tenth died.

I have often heard my physician-father say that years ago a third of his patients suffered from the same malady. Today medical instructors in communities with good public health facilities have difficulty in finding subjects to demonstrate to their students.

The disease is both infectious and contagious. It is characterized by a rise in temperature, lasting four weeks, during which time diarrhea is present and the skin is covered with a rose colored eruption. As a rule, the organisms are spread from one person to another by contamination. The discharges of an infected patient contain the germ. Thru personal uncleanliness or poor sanitation, these "bugs" gain access to drinking water, ice, milk, shellfish, fruits, or vegetables.

Flies are capable of transmitting the typhoid bacillus, particularly when excretions are not properly protected. Individuals closely associated with the sick may expose themselves by direct contact.

The pasteurization of milk, sanitary improvements, and typhoid vaccine have made control possible. Attention to carriers has been an important factor. These people have had the ailment in the past altho occasionally one can be found who has no knowledge of a previous infection. The organisms usually hide in the gall bladder or liver ducts and are passed to the outside thru the excretions. When discovered, removal of this organ may result in cure but, unfortunately, this procedure is not always successful.

A single carrier may be responsible for a serious outbreak. "Typhoid Mary" is a classic example. Others have done as much damage but received less notoriety. Mary Mallon was a cook who, in 1901 developed typhoid fever. A friend of the family where she worked fell victim and, one month later, the laundress. In 1902 she changed jobs and, within a short period, seven persons in the household were taken ill. In 1904, at another home, four servants were attacked. In 1906 she went to work elsewhere and six of the 11 members were afflicted. In 1907, two additional victims were noted.

At this time the 26 cases were traced to the fact that she harbored the bacilli. The New York board of health had her hospitalized for a long interval. Then she was not heard of until 1914. Under an assumed name she had become a cook at a hospital. Score: Twenty-five new patients, mainly among the personnel. Many other cases were attributed to her—even the epidemic in Ithaca, N. Y., which involved 1,300 of the population.

Only by constant vigilance can we hope to keep typhoid in check. Our health departments have done an excellent job in reducing the incidence of the disease to its present level.

CREAKING NECK

The usual cause is a roughening of a joint surface or of the surrounding muscles, tendons, or fibrous tissue. Refrain from jerking the neck to see if the snapping sensation is still present—and it may disappear. In other words, rest of the part is indicated.

F. D. writes: I am 40 years old and, during a routine physical examination, it was discovered that I had syphilis. After two years of adequate treatment my blood still shows positive. Is additional medication necessary?

REPLY

After this period, if the individual is healthy and has no evidence of heart or nervous system involvement, we try to treat the patient and not his Wassermann test. Additional medication is probably not necessary, but a periodic checkup should be the rule.

[Now that the state legislators are debating anti-cat bill, it seems timely to print the following, sent in by Mrs. Christina Koch who called it "anonymous."]

One day a statistician great
Computed that the pussies ate
Six million, 13 birds a year,
And called upon the clubs to hear
His figures that were truly strange
And showed a quite stupendous range
Of most laborious observation,
Coupled with fine imagination.
He told how pussies in the spring
Made mince meat of the birds that sing.

Descanted on this shame of shames
While many gatherings of dames
With aviaries on their hats
Wept at the perfidy of cats,
And cried, "Our birds destroyed? No, no!
The cat is doomed and he must go."

The Unwritten Law Protects

If that anti-cat bill [see above note] ever becomes law, and the cat-catchers ever get to the two cats we are thinking of, a new test case may go thru all the courts until it hits the Supreme court in Washington. From that quixotic body will emerge a legal definition of c-a-t, or when is a cat not a cat? The habits and habitat of these two innocent animals, and the quandary they pose their owner, who now lives in terror of the cat-catcher, are set forth clearly in the following letter:

"I left a friend of mine who lives out in the country have a female cat of mine for two weeks. As weeks roll by Joe Stork paid my cat a visit. She was gifted with 9 beautifull kittens. I was told they where mixed with Persian or Chinese. When 9 weeks old I sold 7 cats on Maxwell st. I was offered fancy prices for them.

"I still have 2 cats left. A certain party living in the same block where I live has a very bad habit of throwing stones and hitting cats with a stick. A young lady states she seen him beat my young cat with a stick and the cat retaleated by giving him a shower bath. The cat is now 10 months old and as I understand this certain party was made to sleep in the woodshed as his wife is no weakling and it took more than a week to get rid of that peculiar oder altho he bathed in lots of hot water. A dozen of rotten broken eggs is a mild smile comparing with that oder.

"Then the same party had the nerve to come to me to settle or he would sue me for damages. I told him that I was not afraid, that my cats are very gentle and as for him putting the blame for that shower bath he couldn't prove, because I was sure that if he brought his clooths every one would leave the court room in a hurry including the judge, bailiff, and officers. So I'd have nothing to worry about and he would not dare come near my cats after what he went thru.

"Now what worries me is the cat controle act. Altho the 2 cats had a skunk for a father, they are still my pets and won't do any one any harm unless molested. They have sharp teeth and long nails, but any one can pet them and they purr to show they are pleased. They won't stay in the house any longer than 2 hours at a time and they like to dig in the dirt.

"Now can the cat controle law sue me if the cat [dog] catchers or police come after my cats and they get a shower bath, scratched or bitten altho I don't advice them in no way? I hope the law can protect me as if they aim to get my cats they take their own risk.—E. O."

Dear Mr. E. O.: Don't you worry about a thing. The law won't want your cats.

In the Mail

"You must have noticed that S. By, at the end of his Encyclopaedia Britannica piece about the Stork and lesser night clubs lists his sources of information — Stanley Walker's book, the New Yorker, some other magazines, and newspapers. From which of these do you suppose he learned that Stork checks average $3? And did he believe it? And did the income tax man?"—HG2.

A SOLDIER STATES THE CHOICE

Chicago, June 26—The son of one of my friends, who is with the 307th engineers in Germany, makes this comment in a letter:

"From Chamberlain and Munich to Stettinius and San Francisco is a huge span. But one thing is obvious—either the United States is going to have to take over Europe, England, France, and Russia, as we did the Philippines, and tell them what to do, or stay out of this gigantic melting pot altogether. Who and where is the American patriot who would have the young men of the United States [18 to 25] police this continental political volcano? Altho the Germans are most warlike, as judged by history, their neighbors are not known for their reticence. Who would be so naive as to shoot craps with loaded dice?

"I can't understand people wanting to send a bunch of coppers over here every year. George Washington wanted every man to serve in the militia, but he also wanted every American to stay out of the political controversies of Europe. To stay out of Europe, we may have to drop the compulsory military training now proposed. To adopt it, is one sure way of always having our finger in the pie over here."

REPLY TO A REPLY

Chicago, June 12 — Mr. Norman Draper of the American Meat institute responds to me in this column by assuming that I agree with him "that America's fighting men get first call." I do agree with him but I do not see what bearing this has on the point I raised—namely: That the larger the armed forces, the smaller the civilian requirements for meat will be.

His statement that the "average" American soldier gets 350 pounds of meat a year will no doubt be of great interest to most of those I know in service. Granting the correctness of this statement, it is not apparent that this is a factor of any great importance in the shortage of meat for civilian consumption.

Does not Mr. Draper agree with me that if the OPA would just quietly go out of business, there would be meat not only for the armed forces but for civilians as well? In other words, can there be the slightest question that the problem is one of distribution and not production?

CHILDREN'S DAY

Chicago, June 17—What do you think of the idea of having the last Sunday in June every year called Children's day? Bring happiness to every child in America, especially those who seldom have treats—candy, flowers, ice cream, cake, chow mein, good restaurant meals, pony rides, picnics, amusement parks, presents, and other enjoyable pleasures. Those who have no children could adopt one for the day.

In some countries children are being treated unkindly. Let all American children feel that this is a grand country in which to live.

MRS. AGNES Z. BAUMGARTEN

DIVIDED THEY STAND

Chicago, June 25—Referring to your editorial today, "Scandinavian Union," the Scandinavian people have earned their individual independence thru centuries of struggle and prospered magnificently by maintaining it. They're not going back and do it all over again. They serve their purposes rather well as efficient links in the chain of democracies. They are good customers in world trade. Each is so proud and contented with being able to manage its own affairs that any attempt to weld them into one would create confusion. They are in fact as nearly united, or at least as good neighbors to one another, as any three or four of the United States.

Is fear of the Russians a good reason for any such union? The Russian occupation of Bornholm is scheduled to terminate together with the British and American occupation of the rest of Denmark. What THE TRIBUNE advocates is the setting up of a "buffer state." But you are up against it. The Scandinavian peoples do not believe in power politics. They fear it, and with good reasons.

As far as the Danes are concerned, their last stake in power politics was their attempt to collect a toll of all ships passing thru the Oresund. The British put a stop to that by seizing the entire Danish merchant fleet and—for emphasis—bombarding Copenhagen in 1807. Resulting national bankruptcy in 1814, consequent years of hardships, being abandoned by their allies in a war with the Prussians in 1864, taught the Danes to work out their own salvation independent of European power politics.

The Scandinavian peoples are brothers in arms against schemes that may tend to revert policies once and for all abandoned. Their united coöperative agencies have a firm hold on the economic life of the respective countries. Their educational systems have taught against imperialism of any kind so long that nothing short of military force would make a buffer state out of the Scandinavian countries. The latter would eventually fail its purpose, too. You can drag the Scandinavian peoples to water; but you can't make 'em drink.

HE WENT HUNGRY

Chicago, June 26—To "Irritated Housekeeper" and others: Why don't you people at home here stop griping about the food situation? At least, you are getting three good meals a day. If you want something to gripe about, try living on a diet of cabbage soup, boiled potatoes, and black bread for a year, and no butter at all. And if you like that, try walking across Germany in the middle of winter for 83 days, eating mostly what you can pick up along the road. Some of you people have a lot to learn about hardships.

SENATORS DELAY FEPC FILIBUSTER OVER WEEK-END

Washington, D. C., June 29 [Friday]—(AP)—The southern filibuster which brought on a 12 hour and 32 minute continuous senate session was checked early today when an agreement was reached to vote on a petition to limit further debate.

Sen. Taft [R., O.] introduced the motion to curtail further discussion after Sen. Bilbo [D., Miss.] had yielded the floor after a four hour talk against the fair employment practice committee.

When Bilbo gave way, quorum calls were demanded by other southern senators. Difficulty was experienced in getting enough senators to the floor to transact business.

The session began at noon, yesterday, and was still underway at midnight. At 12:12 a. m. a quorum was finally produced, with the aid of the sergeant-at-arms.

Taft thereupon introduced his cloture petition, which if it carries by a two-thirds majority, would restrict each senator to one hour's oratory.

The senate adjourned at 12:32 a. m. until noon [Friday] after reaching an agreement to vote on the cloture petition after President Truman's appearance in the senate Monday at 1 o'clock.

EX-GOV. LECHE OF LOUISIANA FREED FROM JAIL

Texarkana, Tex., June 28 (AP)—Warden Albert McDonald announced today that former Gov. Richard W. Leche of Louisiana was paroled from the federal prison last night.

Two federal charges of using the mails to defraud were dropped today, but the former governor still faced a third charge of conspiracy to violate the Connally act.

United States Atty. Herbert W. Christenberry announced yesterday in New Orleans, La., that the two cases had been wiped off the court records. One involved the presentation of a 40 foot cruiser to Leche and the other with landscaping work at Louisiana State university.

He was convicted in June, 1940, and given a 10 year sentence. He became eligible for parole April 30.

He resigned the governorship June 29, 1939, at the outbreak of a federal investigation into Louisiana political scandals.

DOPE ADDICTS HIRED TO CARE FOR SICK VETS

Reveal Abortionists, Too, Got Jobs

Washington, D. C., June 28 [Special]—So great was the drain of doctors from the veterans' administration into the fighting services from 1940-'44 that in some instances physicians later found to have records as abortionists or narcotic addicts were recruited by the veterans' administration as replacements, an official of that agency told the house veterans committee today.

Dr. Charles M. Griffith, veterans investigations conducted thru the investgiations conducted thru the bureau of internal revenue and the federal bureau of investigation had disclosed the records, and that all steps had been taken to eliminate such individuals.

43 Per Cent Personnel Change

Rep. Everett P. Scrivner [R., Kas.] told the committee that the turnover of veterans' administration personnel had been 43 per cent since 1940, and Dr. Griffith added that most replacements "mean acceptance of doctors of qualifications inferior to those of the men they replace." The doctors care for wounded and ill veterans in the various administration hospitals.

Chairman Rankin [D., Miss.] said he considered Griffith's testimony so important that he postponed the remainder of it until Friday when most committee members can be present. Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, who is to be succeeded by Gen. Omar Bradley as head of the veterans' administration, will also testify tomorrow, Rankin said.

Griffith told the committee that "prior to 1940 the veterans' administration had the finest medical staff available in its hospitals." Many of the physicians, however, had reserve commissions, while hundreds of others, as well as thousands of nurses, left to join the services.

Conditions "Beyond Control"

Still others, he said, were "twitted" for not being in uniform and left for other jobs. As a result of the man power shortage, standards became lower and conditions beyond the control of the administration developed, he added.

He said the personnel situation became so acute that the central office of the veterans' administration permitted hospital managers to employ directly the best help obtainable. In this manner, he explained, a number of doctors were hired, but relieved of duty when investigation showed they had records with the internal revenue department as dealers in narcotics or as dope addicts. Some were found to be abortionists, he said.

To meet the shortage, he said, doctors as well as several thousand enlisted men were "borrowed" from the army to augment the medical staff and corps of attendants at veterans' hospitals.

Chairman Rankin later said the army has now stopped assigning physicians to the veterans' administration and that he's considering contacting Gen. Bradley, now in Europe, and the White House for aid in speeding his bill to establish a special doctors' and nurses' corps within the veterans' administration.

MEDITERRANEAN YANKS TO COME BACK HOME SOON

Washington, D. C., June 28 (AP)—Gen. McNarney reported today that 89,408 soldiers in the Mediterranean area are eligible for discharge and that all of them will be homeward bound by September.

McNarney, deputy allied supreme commander and chief of United States forces in the Mediterranean, said there were 508,000 Americans in that area at the time of Germany's surrender.

By December, he said, only 50,000 American troops will be left in the area. He said 50,000 service troops already have been shipped from the Mediterranean theater direct to the Pacific.

McNarney said the 88th, 85th and 92d divisions will leave for the United States in that order. He said the 34th division will be the last out because all of the high point men have been withdrawn from that outfit and it is now staffed by relatively new men.

The Marine Raven, carrying 3,002 men of the 387th regiment of the 97th infantry division, will dock here tomorrow morning. It was scheduled to arrive tonight but was delayed because of the recent Atlantic hurricane.

Weathers Hurricane

One transport did arrive today from Europe after being tossed about by the hurricane which caused the ship to roll as much as 40 degrees from center.

It was the converted Liberty ship Jonathan Elmer, with 390 reassignment troops of the 65th, 66th, 71st, and 106th infantry divisions, the 8th air force, and the 4th armored division, and the 101st air borne division.

One passenger was Sgt. W. A. Moorman, 29, of Joliet, Ill., a platoon sergeant of the 66th. He was aboard the Belgian transport Leopoldville when it was torpedoed last Christmas eve seven miles off Cherbourg, he said.

2 MILLION SPENT BY U. S. IN CAMPS FOR POLE EXILES

Keep 1,419 in Mexico at $1,899,091 Cost

BY WALTER TROHAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., June 28—The United States spent $1,899,091 in operating a refugee camp for 1,419 exiled Poles in Mexico from July 1, 1943 to date, it was learned today.

Two other refugee camps—one in Casablanca and another in Oswego, N. Y., cost this government more than a million dollars.

The exiled Poles were brought to a refuge in Guanajuato, Mexico, after suffering from exposure, starvation, and cruelty at the hands of Russians following the Hitler-Stalin partition of Poland, which precipitated the war.

Established by F. D. R.

Three million dollars was set aside from the President's emergency fund for the camp. A balance of $1,100,909 remains for continuation of the camp from July 1. It is expected that the camp may be liquidated before June 30, 1946.

The Mexican camp was established by agreement between President Roosevelt and Gen. Sikorsky and the Mexican government. It was understood that at some future date the funds spent by this country on the Mexican camp are to be returned by the Polish government.

However, it is considered doubtful that the new Polish government, dominated by the soviets, will assume the obligations of the late Gen. Sikorsky, who was anti-Communist.

Jews in Majority

The two other camps are largely for Jewish refugees. The Casablanca camp was agreed to at the Casablanca conference between Roosevelt and Churchill. It was built to accommodate 2,000 persons but never had more than 400 at one time. The United States and Britain split the cost of $70,902 for operation from January thru August, 1944.

The late President set aside a million dollars to bring refugees to Oswego, N. Y., where a congressional committee is now studying conditions. Of 969 refugees in this camp all but about 30 are Jews. These refugees are asking that they be permitted to remain in this country. It had been originally planned and promised that the refugees would be returned to their homes in Europe.

HOUSE PROBER OUSTED FOR RAP AT PAY RAISES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., June 28—The chief investigator for the house civil service committee was suspended today after he protested alleged suppression of a report by him charging "excessive" pay raises have been granted federal workers.

Rep. Ramspeck

The suspension, ordered by Chairman Ramspeck [D., Ga.], was denounced by two Republican committee members, Rep. Vursell [R., Ill.] and Rep. Rees [R., Kas.] as an unwarranted attempt to "whitewash" federal agencies involved in the suppressed report. The investigator is Col. E. J. McCormack, who has headed the committee staff since December, 1943. He made public today a letter sent Ramspeck on June 24 in which he declared the report on federal pay roll practices should have been released before congress took action on the government pay raise bill. The bill, sent to the White House earlier this week, grants pay increases totaling more than 700 million dollars.

The letter said the withheld report showed that raises in pay were spiraling and that many agencies were boosting salaries "excessively" thru grade promotions and transfers.

$5,000,000 LOSS IN JACOB FRANKS ESTATE SHOWN

Son's Will Voided on Petition of Daughter

Shrinkage of the 6 million dollar estate of the late Jacob Franks, father of Bobby Franks, slain in 1924 by Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold, to approximately one million was disclosed yesterday in the Circuit court of Judge Julius Miner. Franks died April 19, 1928.

Disclosure of the dwindling of the estate of the late financier was made in a hearing on a suit filed by Mrs. Josephine Glaser, Frank's daughter, to construe the will of her brother, Jack, who died July 11, 1938.

Two Trust Funds for Children

Two trust funds were set up by Franks for his children, who were to receive the income during their lives with the principal accruing to their children upon their death, Mrs. Glaser's attorney, Don Peebles, explained.

Had the elder Franks' estate remained at the high level at which it stood when he made his will and established the various trust funds, no hardship would have been worked upon Mrs. Glaser, the attorney said.

Franks, who apparently did not anticipate a lessening of the estate's value, provided for $1,000 annuities to 15 nieces and nephews, as well as sums to his wife, Flora, which were to be paid before his children received anything, the court was told.

Leaves Nothing for Children

As a result, the depression-whittled estate provided only enough income to take care of the various annuities and left nothing for the children. Had he foreseen the losses, Franks undoubtedly would have arranged for all beneficiaries to assume proportionate share of the loss, it was argued.

Judge Miner ruled in favor of Mrs. Glaser. His decision voids bequests made by Jack Franks to establish a scholarship fund and entitles Mrs. Glaser to all income from Jack's trust during her lifetime, with the principal to her three children after she dies.

TRUCK STRIKE TROOPS BEGIN TO MOVE OUT

Federal authorities dealing with the truck drivers' strike decided yesterday that there no longer is need of the 16,288 soldiers brought in as drivers and guards. First troops to return to their base will move out today, Maj. Gen. David McCoach Jr., 6th service commander, announced.

Ellis T. Longnecker, federal manager for the truck lines whose drivers participated in the 12 day walkout, said conditions are normal. He will remain after the troops leave, however, until the situation, which developed two strikes within recent weeks, is fully settled.

SECOND DEATH FOLLOWS CRASH IN DU PAGE ROAD

Robert Herbener, 22, of 23 S. Prospect av., Roselle, DuPage county, died yesterday in Delnor hospital, Aurora, of injuries suffered Wednesday in the collision of two automobiles at routes 64 and 59 in DuPage county near West Chicago. His death was the second after the accident in which seven other persons were injured.

George Hildenberger, 13, was killed when he was struck by a truck while riding his bicycle near his home at 227 Woodlawn av., in Aurora. Otto Hayworth, Hammond, the driver said the boy rode into the side of his truck.

EDUCATOR SLAIN AFTER TURKISH BATH BEATING

Boston, Mass., June 28 (AP)—Two young men wearing navy uniforms were sought tonight by naval intelligence officers and police for questioning in the turkish bath slaying of Chase MacArthur, 61, Massachusetts and Maine educator.

Chase MacArthur

The battered and bleeding nude body of the former Foxboro, Mass., school superintendent was found last night on a cot in a bathhouse room which had been assigned to the two uniformed men, Police Capt. Louis A. Di Sessa said.

MacArthur recently was named to the teaching staff of Ricker Junior college in Houlton, Me.

Medical Examiner Timothy Leary said that MacArthur had been choked to death after being beaten viciously.

The bathhouse register indicated, Di Sessa said, that MacArthur who entered the establishment at about the same time as the men wearing the navy clothing, and had been given an adjoining room.

Di Sessa quoted one of two schoolteacher sisters of MacArthur as saying that he was "very sympathetic" toward service men because he had two nephews in the fighting forces and that on occasions he had entertained uniformed men at lunch and had taken them for automobile rides.

TELLS STRANGE EVENTS BEFORE SAILOR'S KILLING

Glass Sailed in Window, 'Fight' Was Heard

Bridgeport, Conn., June 28 [Special]—A previously undisclosed disturbance that took place at the Charles Milton home shortly before Mrs. Imogene Stevens, 24, came from her home next door and shot a submarine sailor to death was brought to light by a new witness today.

The incident was told by Lois Moore, 18, a New Canaan bank employee, who said in an interview with a reporter that she and three other young people were at the Milton home in New Canaan just before the tragedy.

Stories Contradictory

Albert Kovacs, the sailor, was shot to death by Mrs. Stevens in the Milton home just before midnight Saturday.

Mrs. Stevens asserted that Albert tried to attack her when she went to the Milton home because she suspected burglars, but his brother, James, his companion at the time of the shooting, testified at a coroner's inquest that Albert was shot without provocation. James said they went to the Milton home to visit Faith Coombs, a former high school classmate of the slain sailor, who was a maid for the Miltons.

Lois, the new witness, who is a friend of Faith's, said she went to the Milton place between 8:30 and 9 p. m. and found the Miltons gone. Mrs. Stevens, also was not at her home, for Faith had to enter a rear window of her house to borrow a phonograph.

Samuel Bell and James Humphrey of Norwalk arrived about 10:15 p. m., Lois said, and she and Faith danced with them. Mr. and Mrs. Milton then returned, she said, and went next door to see Mrs. Stevens.

Tumbler Thrown Thru Window

"Mrs. Milton presently returned alone and sat down to talk," Lois related. "She kept saying she must have had 28 beers.

"Mrs. Milton went out of the house again. Faith started upstairs. I followed and was at the foot of the stairs when we heard a crash in the living room. We went back. The two boys were near a broken window. One of them picked up the base of a heavy, purplish tumbler which had been thrown thru the window.

"We heard another noise, like a crash outside. The two boys went out into the yard, then came back. They said there must be a fight outside. I asked who was out there. One of them answered: 'Somebody is running after somebody else, but I don't know who.'

"We all agreed that we had better get out of there. We left the lights on and drove [this was about 11:15] to a restaurant in Norwalk, from which I went home."

Edmund L. Morrison, town prosecutor of New Canaan, was to question Lois in an effort to find out who was chasing whom in the Milton yard 15 minutes before the Kovacs brothers entered the Milton home. The Miltons said they were out for a long walk about that time.

Father Joins Mrs. Stevens

Kovacs was buried with military honors today at Norwalk. Meanwhile, Mrs. Stevens was held in the county jail here on a charge of manslaughter. She was joined by her father, J. O. Dumas, Pampa, Tex., policeman, who said he believed his daughter was telling the truth in her account of Saturday night's events.

Dumas disclosed that Mrs. Stevens was a divorcee when she married Stevens, not a widow as had been previously reported. She is the mother of a daughter, Paula, 6, by her first husband, Sgt. Carl Funderburg, a former Flying Fortress gunner just back from a German prison camp.

Seeks Daughter's Custody

Funderburg said in Amarillo, Tex., that he would seek to have Paula returned to his custody. He said Paula had been awarded to him by the courts and that his second wife, whom he married three weeks ago, would be "delighted" to make a home for her. Tonight, however, Funderburg announced he needed "time to think" and canceled plans to go to Connecticut at once.

Mrs. Stevens is awaiting the expected arrival by plane of her husband, Maj. George Rasley Stevens III., who was with the paratroops in Germany.

Phones Girl, Asks Her to Listen, Kills Himself

New Orleans, La., June 28 (AP)—Police Sgt. David Williams reported today that Emile Cappe Jr., 17, called his "girl friend," 24, on the phone last night and asked if she wanted to "hear a funny noise." He then fired a pistol bullet into his abdomen. Cappe died today without explaining the shooting, but a note found beside the telephone read, "I am sorry, ma and pa."

FIRM PRESIDENT IS INDICTED FOR WAR TAX FRAUD

Harry E. Jacoby

Harry E. Jacoby, president of the Amazon Hose and Rubber company, was indicted by the federal grand jury yesterday on a charge of income tax evasion of $192,313 for the years 1941 to 1944 inclusive. Judge John P. Barnes set bail at $10,000.

United States Atty. Woll said the indictment was the first aimed at war profiteering frauds. Jacoby's company indirectly supplied rubber hose for use in the war.

Harry N. Connaughton, assistant to Woll, said Jacoby destroyed invoice records to conceal sales totaling $228,541, on which no tax was paid in the four year period. Connaughton charged Jacoby with converting the proceeds from the concealed sales to his own use. Jacoby, married and the father of three children, lives at 6101 Sheridan rd.

He was convicted Wednesday by a jury of four men and eight women.

Salaries Fixed

Members of the Chicago metropolitan transit authority board yesterday elected Philip Harrington chairman, fixed his salary at $25,000 a year, and laid the groundwork for its proposed purchase and operation, under public ownership, of the surface and elevated lines.

Harrington's nomination was made at the board's first meeting by Philip W. Collins, an appointee of Gov. Green. The new chairman has resigned his post as city subway commissioner.

The board elected William W. McKenna, former assistant to Mayor Kelly, secretary, and Irvin L. Porter, vice president of the First National bank, treasurer. They will serve in these posts without extra compensation. Their salaries as members are $15,000 a year.

'PLAY BOY' FACES $1,800,000 U. S. TAX EVASION CHARGE

Washington, D. C., June 28 (AP)—Treasury Secretary Morgenthau announced today his agents have recommended a criminal tax evasion case be instituted against a Broadway playboy to collect additional taxes and penalties totalling $1,800,000. Morgenthau said the man has been arrested on another allegation—charging more than ceiling prices on liquor—and is awaiting trial. Despite this, Morgenthau told his news conference, "I'll not give you his name at this time."

Morgenthau also described what he called "a peculiar case in Texas" where a turkey dealer submitted a tax return showing he sold $854,000 worth of turkeys and bought exactly the same amount. Morgenthau said an investigation indicates he understated his income to conceal profits from sales above ceiling prices and that his tax deficiency will be about $100,000.

RECORDS PROVE CHICAGO REALLY ISN'T WINDY CITY

Usual Blow Gentle, but One Was 65 M. P. H.

While the storm that struck Chicago early yesterday did not stir up enough wind to interest a meteorologist looking for a record, it recalled to the weather bureau that on Feb. 12, 1894, the wind blew 65 miles an hour, the highest sustained velocity ever recorded here.

Chicago never has had, except in momentary gusts, a wind which according to the Beaufort scale would be of force 12—"that which no canvas could withstand." The words are those of British Admiral Francis Beaufort who in 1806 devised the method of identifying wind forces at sea, by a numerical progression from 0 [calm] to 12 [hurricane].

According to one correlation which has been made between the numbers of the Beaufort scale and the velocity of wind in statute miles an hour, yesterday's blow of 30 miles an hour was a borderline one of force 6 or 7. The 1894 wind also was a borderline type between forces 10 and 11.

Other Big Cities Windier

Chicago is not really a windy city. Its average winds are gentle 11 mile an hour breezes from the southwest. Last year the wind blew 32 miles an hour or faster on only 11 days. New York City had 57 such days and Boston, Mass., 27.

A compilation of 1938 statistics made in 1939 showed that Buffalo, N. Y., had 35 times as many windy days as Chicago. A windy day, for the purposes of this study, was considered one on which wind velocity reached 32 miles an hour.

Damage may be done even on a day when sustained wind velocities do not reach an impressive figure. Sudden gusts of 60 or 70 miles an hour may exert irresistible pressure on signs, chimneys, and other exposed objects.

In Chicago, on days when the sustained velocity reaches 45 miles an hour, momentary gusts may tear away anything which is loose. Even on calmer days, gusts have caused much damage.

Controled Tests Difficult

Winds are currents of air which are set in motion by differences of temperature and pressure in neighboring areas. Meteorologists are far from satisfied that they have found all of the factors which cause winds. Meteorology has suffered from its difficulty in conducting controled experiments such as those in other sciences which have been so fruitful.

Winds are not wave motions and the movement of air is real. The movement of water toward a shore line is largely apparent only. The actual air which is 60 miles out on the Illinois prairies at noon may be in Chicago's loop at 2 p. m. when a steady 30 mile an hour wind is blowing from the west.

This accounts for the many different types of fragrance in winds. Flowers, lake, open fields, or the stock yards—the smell of any of these can be carried in air currents to the nostrils of persons many miles away.

Storms Blow Air Back

Sometimes a locality gets back its own air in a few hours. This is often the case in circular storms where the wind blows round and round while the center of the disturbance moves slowly.

In general, the velocity of the wind increases with height up to a certain point. Near the ground, friction diminishes its velocity. Wind speeds decrease when great heights are reached.

Wind speeds can be measured by pressure changes associated with the motion, by the action of mechanical devices such as certain types of windmills, and by the rate of cooling of a heated area. The instrument used to measure wind speed is the anemometer.

LIE TESTS GIVEN MOTHER, NURSE IN KIDNAP CASE

Lie detector tests on two women yesterday confirmed their stories of the strange kidnaping nearly two weeks ago of Mary Ann Kubon, 3, by a man who posed as her father.

Mary Ann Kubon

The tests were given to the child's mother, Mrs. Myrtle Kubon, 24, and Mrs. Lucille Todd, who operates a day nursery in her home at 233 S. Honore st., from which the youngster was taken. The examinations, police said, indicated they were telling the truth when they said Mary Ann was abducted by a man not actually her father, and that they did not know her present whereabouts.

Chief interest centered in the missing girl and her abductor, described as a three day friend of Mrs. Kubon and a determined suitor. It is believed he took Mary Ann as a hostage to force Mrs. Kubon to accept his attentions. Police have identified him as William G. Fuller, about 35, a loop restaurant employe.

Mother and Child Leave Home

Capt. Jerry Looney of the Warren av. station said an abduction warrant may be sought against him today. It is understood the federal bureau of investigation has entered the case.

The strange case began June 14 when Mrs. Kubon left her home at 142 W. 155th pl., Harvey, abandoning her husband, Walter Kubon, a steel worker, and two other children, Walter Jr., 5, and Michael, 2. She took Mary Ann with her. She placed the child in the Todd nursery, found a job in a downtown cafeteria, and there met Fuller. Police said she admitted sharing his room in the Princess hotel for several days.

Mrs. Kubon then left him, she said, arousing his anger. He wanted to marry her, she said, and vowed not to give her up without a fight.

Abduction Discovered Wednesday

It was at that time, police said, that a man called at the Todd nursery, identified himself as Mrs. Kubon's husband, and took Mary Ann away. The man, Mrs. Todd said, was not the real husband. The abduction was not discovered until Wednesday night when Mrs. Kubon, after a reconciliation with her husband, called for Mary Ann.

Mrs. Kubon wept frequently during questioning yesterday.

COUNTY COUNTS $1,000,000 LOSS FROM TORNADO

Princeton, Ill., June 28 [Special]—At least 44 persons tonight were recovering from injuries suffered in a tornado that swept thru central Bureau county last night and caused property damage estimated at over a million dollars. Gov. Green tonight ordered units of the Illinois reserve militia to the area to assist residents.

Heavy rainfall and winds of gale force struck adjacent La Salle county, causing widespread crop damage.

Paul V. Dean, Bureau county farm adviser, estimated property damage in Bureau county at one million dollars. He said buildings were leveled or damaged on at least 50 farms.

Starting three or four miles northwest of Princeton, the twister cut a path 12 miles long and a mile wide. Most of the injuries were caused by flying debris.

Twenty persons were taken to the Perry Memorial hospital in Princeton, 12 to St. Margaret's hospital in Spring Valley, eight to the Mendota hospital, and four to the Ryburn-King hospital in Ottawa.

Another storm hit a rural area seven miles south of Prophetstown last night demolishing several barns and homes. A few persons suffered slight injuries.

TEACHER OUSTED OVER ALLEGED SLUR AT F. D. R.

By a vote of two to one the school board of East Chicago late last night canceled the lifetime tenure, or contract, of Miss Nellie I. Mills, veteran high school teacher, on a charge of insubordination arising from her alleged disparagement of the late President Roosevelt.

Fifty spectators showed their displeasure by menacing John J. Dreesen and George Grimmer, who had voted for the ouster. Altho they were not touched or harmed, they called for police protection, and were escorted outside the McKinley High school where the hearing was held. Michael Havran, who voted for Miss Mills, was cheered by the crowd.

Dreesen and Grimmer added a clause to the contract cancellation providing that if Miss Mills resigns by July 12 her pension rights will be preserved. They had charged her specifically with refusing to hold memorial services for Roosevelt. Actually she held such services, but allegedly remarked that now for the first time in 12 years she felt free to pledge allegiance to America. She denied making such a remark, and supposedly hostile witnesses cleared her.

ONE BIG FRONT, RED DOMINATED, URGED IN FRANCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, June 28—Applause from 2,000 delegates to the 10th national congress of the French Communist party greeted Jacques Duclos, party secretary, today when he proposed that the entire working class of the country be welded together in a single "French workers' party."

The proposal is the most serious of several attempts made by the Reds since liberation to revive the old Front Populaire in strengthened form, and under domination of the Communist party or the numerous groups it controls under other names. Backbone of the sweeping merger would be a union of the Communist and Socialist parties. Duclos stressed that working together the two powerful left wing groups could sweep the country in any elections.

ANOTHER STORM ON WAY TO CITY, BRINGING RELIEF

The Chicago area, still catching its breath from the torrential wind, rain, and electrical storm early yesterday, was warned by the weather bureau last night that another similar storm was headed this way and due to arrive during the early morning hours today.

Rainfall in the city was .76 of an inch in a short period yesterday when underpasses were flooded, homes and stores damaged by lightning, and transportation delayed.

The new storm should clear the air and bring more comfortable temperatures, Forecaster H. S. Kenny said. Temperatures some 10 degrees lower than yesterday were predicted for this afternoon. The high yesterday was 90 at 5 p. m.

Danish League Official Kills Self in His Home

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, June 28 (AP)—Helmer Rosting, former league of nations high commissioner in Danzig and director of the Danish Red Cross, was found dead today in his home, a bullet wound in his head and a pistol at his side. Rosting, 51, had been arrested after the liberation of Denmark on charges of "unnational behavior." He later was released and suffered a nervous breakdown.

SENATE VOTES FOR OPA BILL COMPROMISE

Washington, D. C., June 28 (AP)—The senate tonight beat down an attempt to send a senate-house agreement on price control legislation back to conference and approved the compromise 40 to 8.

The compromise, giving incoming Agriculture Secretary Anderson veto powers over OPA price orders on processed foods and agricultural commodities, now needs house assent before going to the President.

Here Are Ideas for Attire on Ravinia Nights

BY REA SEEGER

Whatever method of transportation you choose when you go out to the Ravinia park concerts this summer, there are "just right" fashions for the occasion. You can go gala with long evening gowns of sheer organdy, pastel tinted laces, crisp cottons, and those very decorative eyelet embroidery models in chalk white or vivid colors. Or you will find distinctive long, sheathlike dinner gowns of crepe in jewel tones, pastels, and white, all made with high fashion sleeveless bodices, simple lines to the form fitting silhouette, and rather surprisingly more width in the graceful skirts. Topped with short jackets or hip length box coats of summer weight flannel or ribbed bengalines, these long evening or dinner gowns achieve dramatic distinction as eye-appealing ensembles.

If you go out from town by the electric lines, wear the trim slim twosomes of cotton. The swank town cotton suits of super smooth chambray, or effective plaid, or check ginghams provide a slick assortment to suit the most demanding shoppers. And smooth urban seersuckers are the big surprise of the year. They equal anything ever made in satins, silks, or prints. They come in brown and white, blue and white, and gray and white.

And don't forget your coats. Summer woolens have a cozy comfort without excessive weight. Bonbon colors and vivid shocking pinks, scarlets, gold, yellow, and vivid green are plentiful. The long fuzzy white wools are classics, so are the crisp ribbed rayons in dull black, and, most sophisticated of all, the beautiful moirés in navy, blue, or dull black. Swanky dull black dresses, the first of the midsummer blacks, are in for the special benefit of those "weeks ahead" shoppers.

Exmoor Club to Have Busy Tennis Season

BY JUDITH CASS

THE new flagstone-based marquee shaded with colored awnings which has been erected along the tennis courts at the Exmoor Country club will be the scene of a number of sports-minded gatherings thruout the summer. The first of these will be the club's round robin mixed doubles matches on the Fourth of July, and an even larger crowd will gather Aug. 26 for the annual mixed doubles invitational tournament, traditionally held at the Exmoor.

Mrs. Harold Hixson and Mrs. Robert C. Bennett will be hostesses for next Wednesday's club tournament, during which luncheon will be served out of doors beside the marquee. Some of the players taking part will be Miss Jennifer Turner, Miss Betty Bennett, Mrs. Hamil Reidy, Mrs. Allen C. Dewey, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Williams Jr., Mr. Hixson, Miss Charlene Brown, and Miss Margie Salsman.

Invitations will be sent out in August to the Onwentsia, the Knollwood, the Indian Hill, the Saddle and Cycle, the Skokie, and the Glen View clubs inviting them to enter their first, second, or third ranking mixed doubles teams in the invitational tournament, which annually attracts the best amateur players along the north shore. Last year Mrs. Franklin G. Clement and Hoyt Smith won the championship for the Onwentsia club.

Here and There

In the last few weeks the number of Jeans in the Horace Armstrongs' family has doubled, for that name now is shared by Mrs. Armstrong; her daughter, Mrs. Edwin Corle [Jean Armstrong]; and her latest grandchildren, Jean Corle and Jean Armstrong. Mr. and Mrs. Corle's first child was born Wednesday in Presbyterian hospital. As Mr. Corle was released from the army early this month, he and his wife and baby will be here until fall, when they will move to a ranch in Tucson, Ariz.

Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong spent the winter in Palm Springs, Cal., but they returned home before the birth May 23 in Redlands, Cal., of their other new grandchild. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Armstrong [Mary Nuzum] of Redlands, who also have a 16 months old son, Frank III. The Armstrongs will see their other daughter, Mrs. Beaudello Contreras of Mexico City, and her husband and their seven months old daughter, Terry, when they fly to Mexico in August to spend 10 days.

The Dexter Cummings' Lake Forest home, which has been quiet since Lt. Cummings took his wife and children to Washington, D. C., while he carried out an assignment with the naval reserve, once more is humming with activity, for Lt. Cummings has been released from service and he and his family are home "for good." Miss Joyce Cummings, who was graduated this spring from the Ethel Walker school, will enter Vassar college in September. She and her cousin, Miss Betty Swift, who also received her diploma from the Walker school and will enroll at Smith college, will be on next year's debutante list.

On the Calendar

The sight of horses trotting thru the streets of Lake Forest Sunday will not signify that the "horseless carriage" is going out of vogue but merely that exhibitors in the third annual amateur horse show at the Knollwood club are riding their own mounts to the ring from other stables in the village. To keep the show a community affair, the trucking of horses has been discouraged this year.

Every possible inch of space around the Knollwood ring has been cleared to accommodate the parking of 75 cars of those who will watch the show from the sidelines. Among the more fortunate spectators who have obtained the rare parking spaces are the Thomas Connorses, the William Roy Carneys, the Champ Carrys, the Fred A. Poors, and Comdr. and Mrs. Richard Bentley.

For the younger generation who might grow weary of the day-long show, which will begin at 10 a. m., there will be pony rides in the paddock just west of the ring. Box

Thru the Looking Glass

Leg makeup is indeed manna from heaven for women, but it's a pain in the neck to the persons in hotels and trains whose job it is to keep the guests supplied with clean linen. The pain in the neck has reached such proportions, in fact, that the Linen Supply Association of America has issued an anguished plea that the wearers of leg film be careful to remove same before crawling in between nice clean sheets.

The stocks of sheets and towels for rental to hotels, railroads, and other institutions are so low that the linen supply people are jittery; new supplies are just about out of the question—and you certainly don't need to be told that the laundry situation is tough. According to the association, some types of leg makeup can be removed from sheets, washcloths, and towels only by the most rigorous kind of laundering, thereby causing a disintegration we can't afford in these short times, when institutions don't know where their next linens are coming from.

You are implored, if you must travel this summer, to treat commercially serviced linens as carefully as you do the precious supply in your own cupboards. Spread newspapers on the floor—not a towel or bath mat—before you apply leg makeup. And please, please remove it before you tumble into bed—using soap, water, and a brush, NOT a cloth.

The situation really is serious. It's incredibly thoughtless of us women to damage the linens we do, both with lipstick and leg makeup, especially in times like these. According to the linen supply association, traveling women should be particularly careful about removing leg film so it won't stain sheets. Otherwise two unpleasant things may happen. Some hotels may make assessments for damage to sheets and towels. Or, they may hang up a sign "No leg makeup allowed here!"

Father at War, but Baby Does Not Forget Him

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Today's is the second of several letters received from young mothers describing what they did, often aided by their husband overseas, to keep the father, as a person, vivid in their baby's or very little child's mind, it being most difficult with these very youngest:

"My Dear Mrs. Bevans:

"My daughter was 10 months old when her father had to return to overseas service. He was home three days before she was born and we were with him from the time she was 6 weeks old until he went 'out' again. He was a flyer—he still is—but had nice hours. He flew one morning and was home with us that afternoon, evening, and the next morning—then he'd fly in the afternoon and be home at night.

"I was new at keeping house and cooking and also very new at caring for a baby, but the last we both learned together. He took better care of the baby and did it more often than I did because I had other work to do.

"Jim left five months ago and you'd be surprised at how much a 10 month old child realizes when one of her family leaves. She'd wake up at night and call 'da-da' and only his picture and a lot of soothing would calm her. Daytimes she'd turn to the door every time some one entered.

"This isn't what I intended writing. I think I have found a way to help her and also keep her memory of her daddy until he comes home again. I keep several pictures of her dad in every room including the kitchen, and one full size picture [snap] which I had enlarged to a 10x12.

"She is talking some now altho I guess not many besides myself understand her babbling, but she tells her dad long stories, reads [?] books and pictures with him, and does as he used to tell her to do when I mention it: 'Pattycake for daddy, sing a song, show me how big you are, throw me a kiss,' and so forth.

"But always I tell her it is her daddy's picture and then say: 'Where is daddy?' and she will always say: 'Bye-bye for now.'

"She drinks her milk or eats her supper and goes to bed nicely so I can write dad that she did, and she listens when I read his letters to her. She also recognizes his clothes which are in the closet here, yet doesn't mistake another service man for daddy."

Dear Diary BY BECKY

Navy Puts On Its Happy Hour for Park Crowd

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG

The navy took over the entertainment at Grant park last night with one of the famed "Happy Hours" of the Great Lakes musical aggregation and the result was both smooth sailing and good fun. For three more Thursdays the boys in blue will be at the bandshell with the amiable Lt. Griff Williams as master of ceremonies and if you like a little of this and a little of that, dispensed by experts in their line and staged with informal but engaging showmanship, then the navy "Happy Hour" may be confidently recommended.

There was something, it seemed, for everybody, but not too much of anything. To give a military aspect there was a lusty set of brass to lead off with Sousa's "The Thunder" march. Then the admirable Great Lakes strings joined the party and Frank Miller, who customarily distinguishes himself on the cello, came on to conduct the resultant concert orchestra in peppy versions of Von Suppé's "Light Cavalry" overture and Morton Gould's "American Salute," which makes "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" stand up and do things.

For a time thereafter the proceedings went classical while Oscar Chausow, with Harold Turner's expert accompaniments, roused the audience to cheers by playing Hubay's "Hejre Kati" and Kreisler's "Schön Rosmarin" in brilliant style on his violin, adding "The Flight of the Bumble Bee" for good measure. The classical mood did not hold for long, and soon the Music Makers, a foursome in the comedy vein, were doing their trick, to be succeeded by the concert orchestra under Joseph Johnson, playing some lush and ingeniously contrived arrangements of "Love," "Laura," and "Swamp Fire," by Bruce Chase, a member of the fiddle section.

Jack Kilty took the microphone to display the robust baritone with which he used to sing Curly in "Oklahoma!" on Harry Stockwell's nights off, after which the "E" dance band, composed of eminent swing specialists, made the hot night hotter, reaching the boiling point in Maurice Purtill's spectacular demonstration on the drums. And for a dash of fun and nonsense the Buccaneers ranged from pure corn to operatic parody to practically everybody's delight.

A good show.

THE QUESTION

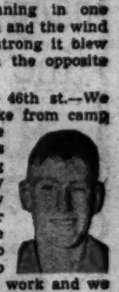
What has been your most unusual or amusing experience on a camping trip with the Boy Scouts?

WHERE ASKED

79th st. and Kenwood av. [Asked of Boy Scouts.]

THE ANSWERS

John Buechner, 7960 Phillips av.—Our troop was camping at Owassippe, Mich. We were returning from a swim when we caught the tail end of a tornado that picked up quite a few tents. One boy was running in one direction and the wind was so strong it blew him about 50 feet in the opposite direction.



Bert Peck, 1257 E. 46th st.—We took an overnight hike from camp to a lake about three miles away. All of us forgot to bring matches. Being Boy Scouts we naturally weren't baffled or alarmed because we knew we could rub sticks together to build a fire. It didn't work and we had to send back for matches.

Walter Kaiser, 8128 Calumet av.—Around 3 o'clock in the morning on the first night of our journey into the woods it started to rain. The others were told to get up and take our equipment to shelter. I slept thru the storm and had no dry clothes the next day. I had to run around in my pajamas until my clothes dried.

James Bergmann, 8356 Wabash av.—The mosquitoes in our camp in Michigan were so plentiful and big they nearly carried our tent away. For the first few nights we slept inside netting. Then we discovered that the netting only kept the mosquitoes in. So we arranged the netting to trap the mosquitoes. Then we slept outside.

Dennis J. Young, 6437 University av., assistant scoutmaster—While going down White river in a canoe, one of the boys thoughtlessly reached up and grabbed an overhanging branch. The canoe upset and most of our food and cooking equipment was lost. For breakfast we had to eat cold canned vegetables.

Those few days of hot weather in March are responsible for southern peaches being on the market several weeks early this year. The ever-popular Elberta peach will reach Chicago in great volume after the Fourth of July, and other varieties will appear, from time to time all summer. As a result, this promises to be a big year in home canning of peaches, as well as a time for planning fresh peach desserts and salads.

For a party salad combine peaches with bananas, apples, quartered marshmallows, and a rich salad dressing. Or stuff peach halves with cottage cheese, top with nuts, and serve on crisp salad greens.

Peaches baked in honey make a delectable final course. Place halves in shallow greased pans, and fill each center with 1 tablespoon honey and ½ tablespoon lemon juice. Dot with butter or margarine and sprinkle with cinnamon. Bake for 20 minutes in a moderate oven [350 degrees]. Serve hot with cream. For another simple dessert, cook peach halves in thin sugar or honey sirup until tender, then fill centers with quartered marshmallows and nuts. Bake at 350 degrees until marshmallows are toasted.

For a really glamorous finale, try this peach refrigerator cake. It keeps well for several days in the refrigerator. Use any left-over light cake in place of the angel food.

Angel Peach Cake

3 beaten egg yolks
¼ cup sugar
3 tablespoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold water
3 stiffly beaten egg whites
¼ cup sugar
1 cup mashed peaches
¼ large angel food cake
Peach slices

Make a custard of egg yolks, ¼ cup sugar, lemon juice and rind. Cook over hot water until thick and remove from heat. Add gelatin, softened in cold water. Fold in egg whites beaten with remaining sugar and mashed peaches. Break cake into small pieces, combine with custard, and pour over sliced peaches in greased mold. Chill. Serve topped with whipped cream.

To Keep Lettuce Fresh

To keep lettuce fresh, wrap it in a damp cloth before storing.

Add Two Points to Ration Value of Margarine

Increase of two points on margarine, from 12 to 14 a pound, in the July ration chart, effective Sunday, was announced by the office of price administration yesterday. Increases also were ordered on canned fish and some types of bacon, while decreases were recorded in cheese ration values.

Red point values for butter, and meats other than bacon, and blue point values for all proecessed foods are unchanged for the period, which ends July 28.

Margarine and canned fish increases were attributed to reduced supplies. New sea food values per pound are salmon, tuna, shrimp, bonito, and yellow tail, each up 3 points to 9; mackerel and sardines, up 2 points to 6; oysters and all products containing more than 20 per cent of rationed canned fish are up 2 points to 4.

Altho it is estimated that there will be about 5 per cent more meat in the July rationing period than in June, point values are being held at their present level "to assist in distributing meat to areas that have been unable to get meat regularly," the OPA said.

On the basis of war food administration allocations, officials said civilians would receive more beef and veal. Lamb, mutton, and pork supplies will be slightly lower.

Altho the cheese supply will be somewhat smaller in the third quarter, new point values for July will be from 2 to 4 points lower than in June, to prevent loss of soft, perishable varieties from spoilage. Point values of hard cheeses were reduced to keep them in line.

Group 1 cheeses will be decreased from 12 points to 8 a pound; groups 2 and 3, from 6 points to 4, and group 4, from 4 points to 2. Group 1 includes cheddar, swiss, brick, edam, and other hard cheeses; group 2 covers cream cheeses, and groups 3 and 4 include all other rationed cheeses.

The only fresh or cured meat changes are increases of 1 and 2 points a pound for seven fat pork cuts, including bacon plate, jowl, and sides, necessary to reflect the point value of lard, which is made from these cuts. Point values for lard, shortening, and oils were increased from 10 to 12 points a pound, effective June 17. These values will be continued during July.

Size 2 requires 1 yard of 35 inch fabric with 2 yards of rickrack braid for playsuit; 1⅝ yards of 35 inch with 3 yards of rickrack for dress with cap sleeves; 1⅛ yards for frock with collar.

This IS Serious; Horse Meat Is Getting Scarce

Topeka, Kas., June 28 [Special]—Horse meat is getting scarce, too.

With butcher shops devoid of beef, pork, lamb, and other conventional meats, more Americans are buying horse meat for their dinner tables, Burton Hill, president of the Hill Packing company of this city, said today.

In addition, he explained, horse meat shipments to Europe, which were cut off during the war, have been resumed, thus reducing the amount available in this country.

The Hill company, which is one of half a dozen horse meat packers in the United States, is turning out about 100,000 pounds of frozen horse meat a week, Hill said. One-fifth of it is being sold to foreign governments, mostly the Netherlands and Belgium, which distribute it for human use.

About 25,000 pounds is shipped to the Chicago market each week, Hill disclosed. He objected to a reference to it as "dog food," saying it is federally inspected horse meat "recommended for human food only."

"Of course," he added, "we can't prevent a person from feeding it to his dog. He could do the same with a T-bone steak."

Hill said that before the war his company turned out 50,000 pounds of dog food each day in one pound tins. This food consisted of half meat and half cereal. Now the output is only about 25,000 pounds a month, he said, and all of it goes to the government for its army dogs.

"We can't get tins, so we can't can dog food," he said.

Taking a gloomy view of the horse meat situation, Hill said he would not be surprised if his company were forced to close inside of three or four years.

"Horses are getting scarcer all the time," he said. "Even now we have to round them up from four or five states. Soon there won't be enough to keep us going."

Referring to the growing interest in horse meat, he said: "We've been in business 38 years, yet a lot of people are finding it out only now."

FASHIONS
By Angela

A new collection of navy, black, and brown sheer dresses is creating interesting competition for the popular summer cottons. These smart dresses are suitable for any occasion, and no summer wardrobe is complete without one sheer dark dress.

The classically simple lines of the one piece sheer at the left are emphasized by dressmaker detail. Two bows at the top of the lapels are accents which give it charm. Square buttons mark the front closing of the bodice. Two rows of box plaits form the pockets on a slim, straight skirt. The bow motifs of the lapel are repeated across the pockets.

The summer sheer one piece model in the center is simple in line but has definite dressmaker touches. A deep fold extends from the base of the cap sleeves across the front of the dress below a square neckline. Two white lace bows are appliqued to the left shoulder. The slim skirt has a shirred center panel. It is available in sizes 9 to 17.

Peplum dresses continue to be popular, and the black sheer model at the right is one good reason. The bodice is fitted, with short cap sleeves. A deep square neckline has a white, plaited marquisette collar edged with lace. The shirred peplum extends around the straight skirt. It is available in sizes 9 to 15.

Help Your Children To Develop Strong Bones, Sound Teeth

Doctors report that many a child with ugly bowed legs or knock-knees might have grown up straight and shapely on a diet adequate in the bone-building minerals and Vitamin D.

Lack of calcium, for instance, in the earliest years may do irreparable damage—but in any case, calcium is so vital a factor that no child brought up on a consistently deficient calcium intake, can have much chance for strong bones and sound teeth.

That's one reason doctors talk so much about milk for growing children.

Milk is our best food source of calcium. Do your children get enough milk...at least a quart every day? Many children just don't like to take that much every day! That's why Cocomalt in milk is so helpful.

Cocomalt* is so rich in calcium, it makes 3 glasses of milk equal to a whole quart in calcium value! (Also this supplies the day's full minimum requirements for iron, phosphorus, Vitamin B_1 and D.) And Cocomalt's delicious chocolaty flavor makes children love their milk.

Start your children on Cocomalt today. Save this as a reminder.

*2 heaping tsps. to 8-oz. glass of milk.

Sally Asks Aid for Elderly Persons

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

[Sally Joy Brown department activities are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Appeals for clothing for elderly people, who are unable to provide for their own needs are presented today.

Mrs. W., who is living alone in a rented room on the west side, is 73 years old and has been shut in for two years because of a fractured hip. Recently she has been walking a few steps each day with the aid of crutches and looks forward to enjoying part of this summer out of doors. Her small pension is spent for her care, room, and board, and she has no one to supply the extra requirements of wearing apparel. She therfore has asked this department to inquire whether readers will be able to supply her with a dress, size 46, and a coat, size 48.

Another request for large size clothing comes from Miss P., a north side applicant, who is also dependent upon an old age pension. Last fall she underwent a major operation, and she will have to return to the hospital for further check and treatments. Altho her monthly grant supplies her rent and food and a few other necessities, it does not provide for her clothing needs. Consequently, she is faced with a lack of clothing essentials necessary in the hospital and for wear upon her return home. A dark serviceable dress, size 48, nightgowns, underwear, a robe, and shoes, size 5½-D, will be greatly appreciated. Miss P. can remodel, and altho she has no sewing machine, she will be able to make minor alterations by hand.

These are but two of many requests for large size clothing in our files.

WHEN women discuss laundering, Clorox is very often an important part of the conversation. Deservedly so. For Clorox has proved its value to millions of housewives. It helps them get beautiful laundering results without hard tubbing that wears out materials . . . for Clorox bleaches white cottons and linens snowy-white (brightens fast colors). And Clorox is extra-gentle—it's free from caustic, an exclusive, patented quality-feature. Clorox also makes laundry sanitary, deodorizes, removes stains, scorch and mildew.

Bathroom Sanitation! The bathroom is often a "danger zone"...a place where dangerous germs can exist. For greater sanitation use Clorox in routine cleansing. Simply follow directions on label.

'The Wicked Mrs. Steel'

By Roy Vickers

(Copyright: 1945: By Roy Vickers)

SYNOPSIS: Gillian Brynon comes to Tenstable as companion to Mrs. Steel, widow of the wealthy Mr. Steel. By the terms of his will she must leave her vast wealth to ONE of his relatives. Otherwise the estate passes in trust to the township of Tenstable. Mr. Manshew, manager of the Steel factory, warns Gillian against accepting the position. Gillian is surprised to learn her father was Andrew Steel's second cousin. The Gillian is angered that Mrs. Steel's preferences are adhered to when she selects an outfit, Mrs Steel succeeds in placating her. A cross-current is again definitely felt by Gillian. She thinks of the man who warned her to leave. Mrs. Steel has designs on Ralph Hanshew but recognizes immediately the attraction between Ralph and Gillian. When Ruth, the housekeeper, finds Mrs. Steel has killed another canary, knowing it is because Gillian has crossed her path, she urges Gillian not to stay. Cunningly, Mrs. Steel makes plans to break up the romance. To her birthday party come Agnes Steel and Valerie Weston, nieces, Lyle and Dennis Weston, nephews, Simon Steel and his wife, and Benjamin Steel. Gillian is horrified at their hatred for each other which increases when Steel informs them a heart condition may cause her sudden death. Gillian believes it would be wiser not to name any one of them. Then she learns she, too, is eligible to be the beneficiary. Ralph Hanshew wants to take her away from the morbid atmosphere. Mrs. Steel shows Simon a will making him the heir. Then she sends for Valerie who is too defiant. She subdues Valerie by showing her a will in her favor, and has her groveling like the others. Mrs. Steel had feared her husband and had lived like a canary in a cage. When Ralph Hanshew is about to fall in love with her, Gillian arrives.

INSTALMENT XI.

Gillian felt that she was expected to say something.

"There seems to be no way out of the difficulty."

"My hands are so tied," wailed Mrs. Steel. "If Andrew had only left me to use my own discretion I would know what to do. There is one person who would realize that the fortune is a moral trust for the benefit of others. And that person is Ralph Hanshew."

"O!" gasped Gillian.

"He is not only a clever engineer and a good manager—he is also brilliant at manipulating sums of money. But what is the use of talking of what might have been? There is no means of putting him in charge if anything should happen to me. Or is there?"

"I don't know, Mrs. Steel."

"Must you say 'Mrs. Steel'—it's so formal and chilling."

"I hardly know what else to say," Gillian faltered.

"Do you feel that I am much too old for you to call me by my name?"

"I don't think of you as being old—nobody could!" No flattery was intended. The words, indeed, were true. The elder woman's eyes danced with vitality. "But if you don't mind, it would be a strain to use your first name. You have—well—so much authority."

"What Valerie calls being a local empress. I was angry with her for saying that, because it's true. That's why I should be glad to shift the responsibilities to Ralph."

"But the will doesn't allow—"

"Dear, don't be dense! The will allows me to leave the property to you."

"But I have no claim whatever! I didn't even know we were distantly related until you told me. And I couldn't bear to think..."

Mrs. Steel was smiling. "You know what I mean, Gillian. We ought not to talk like this when nothing has been said, but there is so much at stake, and I do think it's so much better to be frank."

Gillian waited, tongue-tied, knowing what would be said next.

"If it should so happen that you and Ralph should take a fancy to each other, it would all fit in so conveniently. Of course, I would remain owner during my life time. But he could become general secretary of the whole estate, take over the reins of management, and leave me free."

"O, I wish you hadn't said that!"

"Why? There's no need of us to be morbidly sensitive about such things. Money doesn't mean to you what it means to a girl like Valerie. You realize that it is a stewardship—so does Ralph. It means hard work—mostly for the sake of others."

"There's nothing I can do about it," Gillian said wretchedly.

"Of course not! Just let events shape themselves. If you fall in love with each other—well, with his brains and the control of that capital he would soon be one of the most important men in the country. What do you think?"

"I can't think about it!" cried Gillian. "I can't even say that I thank you for what you've said. It—it's too overwhelming!"

"There's nothing to thank me for—I am consulting my own interests. We won't talk about it again, now that I've told you what I have in mind for your future."

"Very well, Mrs. Steel."

An arm stole round Gillian's shoulders.

"Why not 'Aunt Margaret'?"

"Very well—Aunt Margaret!" As Gillian used the words she felt that she had joined "the family"—that henceforth, like them, she would be unable to forget that this woman's smile or frown might alter the whole course of her life.

That night, when Mrs. Steel took out Ralph's photograph, her mood was no longer melancholy as on the previous night.

"I'm getting my nerve back," ran her thoughts. "I am determined he shall not marry her, and I start by offering to make him a rich man if he does. Well, to begin with, he will not believe me—and she will."

From Andrew Steel she had learned many a sound principle for judging human nature.

"The next step is to start throwing her at his head."

On the next day Ralph Hanshew arrived in his car, punctual to the minute, to take them to the horse show. When Gillian reached the hall, Mrs. Steel was explaining.

"So what with one thing and another I'm afraid I shall have to back out, Ralph. I'm sorry. But I shan't want Gillian to help me. Take her and give her a good time."

While he was expressing polite regrets he caught Gillian's eye as she joined them, and read her surprise.

"I've just been telling Ralph why I can't come," she said breezily. "Now run off, you two, and enjoy yourselves."

Mrs. Steel watched the car drive away, she was shaken by jealousy.

"He was delighted when I said I couldn't come. Because he wants her. Or thinks he does. Men have no judgment!"

She started as she became aware that Ruth was watching her.

"So that's where the trouble is!" said Ruth.

"You'll only make yourself ill and unhappy, thinking about him. You're too old for him. Doesn't matter how you get yourself up—men know."

"What do you know about men?" she demanded scornfully.

"Only that some women are fools. And you'll be one of them, Margaret Steel, if you interfere with those two. He'll take her out of harm's way. He's not afraid of you—I've seen it in his eye."

On a clear road Ralph was putting the car at speed.

"I wonder why she decided at the last minute not to come?"

"I'm afraid she was being tactful."

"Good for her. I'd never have guessed she had it in her."

"She's not a bad sort, Ralph."

"Wait till you know her as well as I do. Never mind her. By the way, do you really want to footle about at a horse show? I don't. It would be awful waste of time!"

She laughed gaily and in time he stopped at a cottage off the main road where they could have tea in the garden. Time passed unnoticed until a clock boomed six.

"You'll have to take me back," she said. "I wish I had a photograph of this cottage. It's perfect."

"It isn't. It's really a horribly inconvenient place to live in. Now my idea of a small house—but that will keep until you know whether you want to marry me."

"I know now."

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 28—Carnegie hall is much too shabby to please Boris Morros. He's back in New York trying to get consent of its owners to do it over so he can shoot the picture of the same title inside. He's signed Kathryn Grayson, Bob Burns, Frances Langford, Phil Harris, and Bob Crosby for his recording company. He's the Russian who arrived here with huge amber beads instead of dollars, and used to pray while counting 'em daily. . . . George Waggner is whipping up a musical in color for Universal based on lives of Schubert and Beethoven. It promises to be that studio's biggie of 1946. . . . It will be Arturo De Cordova and "Lady Seventeen" at Paramount. Isn't that a little young for Cordova? . . . Deal isn't set yet, but Bill Le Baron may be part of Leo McCarey's Rainbow production setup. It's a cinch that Sam Briskin won't. . . . At the request of the war department, Burgess Meredith will appear at the world premiere of "Story of GI Joe" in Washington, D. C., July 2, which takes him away from "The Diary of a Chambermaid" for at least four days.

Hey, Whoa There!

"Smoky" was a black horse. When 20th Century decided to put Fred MacMurray into the picture instead of Joel McCrea, they rewrote it to make Fred more important. Now the studio's added Burl Ives, so story's being rewritten again to give him a good part. Looks to me as tho "Smoky" would end up a Shetland pony. . . . Keenan Wynn's doctor doesn't think he should go to Fort Benning, Ga., for location of "What Next, Corp. Hargrove." Since Keenan's accident he tires easily. Too many people talking at once make him frightfully nervous. Well, I believe Metro will let him take it easy for a while. He's a great asset to any picture. . . . Al Jolson tells me he's not going to load himself up with work since he's well and strong again. He wants to be able to say no, instead of paying a doctor to say no for him. . . . Before being divorced, Tim and Irene Ryan were a well known vaudeville team. Now Irene is to become the bride of Maj. Harold Knox.

That's Good Caste-ing

When you see Alan Ladd in "Calcutta," you'll notice some natives in the background. They're the real thing—21 Indians from Bombay, of three different castes. They offered their services while waiting at San Pedro to be assigned to a British ship. Our immigration laws don't permit paying them, but each will get a large check to turn over to the Indian national welfare fund. Each caste eats a different kind of food, which they bring to the studio with them. No Mohammedans among volunteers; it's against their creed to be photographed. This sure is a different way of getting new faces on our screen. . . . Lucky me! I've been invited to watch the Marx Brothers' rehearsals in "A Night at Casablanca," which they'll take a-touring before screening. Their rehearsals are even funnier than finished product, because many ad libs and much horsin' around has to be cut. . . . Looks as tho Darryl Zanuck is getting his way and will have that trip to Russia before returning home.

'Twill Be Repeated

Merle Oberon was mighty surprised when her proxy marriage to Lucien Ballard made headlines. They expected the proxy papers would be mailed to them without making news. They already were planning a quiet wedding in Santa Barbara. Yes, there will be another wedding ceremony soon. Travis Banton is designing a wedding gown, and I'll stand up with Merle. When news of their proxy marriage hit, she was doing a bridal night scene with Charley Korvin. Bridegroom Lucien was photographing it, and watching screen lover Charley mighty carefully. . . . I think we'll have fireworks before July 4. Two days prior to that Jennifer Jones is supposed to report to 20th for "Cluny Brown." So "Duel in the Sun" may be staged by lawyers at 20th instead of at Selznick's.

Movie's Idea Is Clever, but the Film Isn't

"A GUY, A GAL, AND A PAL"

Produced by Columbia, directed by Oscar Boetticher Jr., featuring Ross Hunter, Lynn Merrick, Ted Donaldson, George Meeker, Jack Norton, Will Stanton, Sam McDaniel, Alan Bridge, Mary McLeod, Mary Forbes, Russell Hicks, and Nella Walker. Presented at the Oriental.

By Mae Tinée

A short time ago the Oriental offered a picture about a young soldier and his bride who were always being torn apart by circumstances plus the army. This number is about a young marine and a girl who is not his wife who are eternally being thrust together, and I don't think any one who has ever seen a movie needs to be told much more in order to guess the plot.

Lynn Merrick is the girl who can't get on the train in order to attend her own wedding to a stuffed shirt in Washington, and Ross Hunter is the bright young hero heading in the same direction to collect a congressional medal of honor who wangles accommodations by pretending she's his wife. Her nephew, Ted Donaldson, is assumed to be their child.

This sort of thing can be cleverly done and has been in some cases, but this certainly isn't one of them. Miss Merrick's interpretation makes the girl both stupid and petulant, and most of the incidents are so ridiculous as to be irritating. Ross Hunter does all right in a pretty impossible role, and Ted Donaldson as the ever-present nephew dishes out advice to the love-lorn at the proper moment,—but isn't too obnoxious, altho I wish some one would take him to the barber shop.

In a small ceremony at 4:30 p. m. today in the Theodore Wallisers' Commonwealth av. home, their daughter, Ruth, will become the bride of Richard Lieban, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Lieban of Norfolk, Va. The wedding will be followed by a dinner in the Camellia House. Mr. Lieban and his bride will take a wedding trip to Mackinac Island next month and will return to live on the near north side.

Missing today's ceremony will be the bride's brother, Comdr. Blair Walliser, who is stationed in the Pacific with the navy. The bride, who is president of the Radio Writers' guild, was graduated from Northwestern university, where she was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. Mr. Lieban received his degree from the University of Missouri and is connected with the Chinese news service.

MY POOR MOTHER! SHE CRIED ALL NIGHT! IN FACT, SHE HAD ONE OF HER NOSEBLEEDS!

BUT WE KNOW MRS. B-H WAS A KILLER!
TCH-TCH! BUT I'M AFRAID WE CAN'T USE THAT! NO-NO! TO DO SO WOULD ANTAGONIZE THE JURY ANYWAY...AND IT MIGHT KILL MY MOTHER!

The actual bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 club	Pass	1 spade	2 hearts
3 spades	4 hearts	4 spades	5 diamonds
5 spades	6 hearts	Double	Pass
Pass	Pass

Experience in the sending of cablegrams should prove a splendid training routine for contract bridge players, at least so far as their bidding tactics are concerned. As a rule, only a few words are available to the sender and he can hardly afford to waste any of them on nonessential statements. Some measure of discernment is required in the selection of the really important things to say.

So it is with the contract bridge bidder. At times a player has ample opportunity to make all the descriptive bids that he likes during the course of the auction. At other times, however, interference from the enemy cramps his style and he is unable to tell all. It then behooves him, in the limited space at his disposal, to tell the most vital facts. The bidding of today's hand is given as it actually occurred. Several of the calls have earned bold demerits. West's jump to three spades after he has opened with two and one-half honor tricks comes dangerously close to being an atrocity, and East's failure to examine the slam possibilities of the hand indicates that he knows very little about bridge or a great deal about West. Indeed a direct slam bid by him at this point could not be criticized.

It is South's action at this point, however, that is the subject of special interest. The bid of five diamonds is entirely pointless. Since North has freely supported hearts there is no need to look for a better trump suit. South was presented with the opportunity of making a splendid defensive bid. Inasmuch as he was willing to go as high as five, he might just as well stop off and make a cue bid of five clubs, to show the void and to indicate the best defense, should the opponents go to five spades. If they do so it will not be necessary for his side to sacrifice. In fact, North and South can take the first four tricks, South obtaining two club ruffs.

North's decision to take the sacrifice is poor strategy. Holding the book in his own hand it would have been better policy to trust that South could win a trick and thus defeat the contract. I have found that in the long run it does not pay to take a loss on a hand when there is some chance to make a profit. Too many sacrifices are taken on hands where the opponents are over their heads.

The usual weekly quiz will appear tomorrow.

Dutch East Indies Exhibit at Museum Has Preview Today

The James Simpson theater of the Chicago Natural History [Field] museum is expected to be crowded to capacity this afternoon when members and guests of the museum gather at 2:30 p. m. for a gala preview program marking the opening of a special Netherlands East Indies exhibit. Some 4,350 invitations were sent out for the festivities, which will begin with an address of welcome by Stanley Field, president of the museum.

Following brief talks by Jan A. Schuurman, Netherlands consul general in Chicago, and Prof. Fay-Cooper Cole, there will be a dance recital by Devi-Dja and her troupe of Balinese girls and Soekoro, Indies male dancer.

Museum staff members will conduct guests to the special exhibit installed in Stanley Field hall and covering all phases of life in the Dutch East Indies. The exhibit will be open to the public tomorrow.

M'SPADEN, BURKEMO WIN IN VICTORY GOLF

PANCHO SEGURA ADVANCES IN COLLEGE TENNIS

Mehner, Bartzen, Clark Also Win

Pancho Segura, two handed swinger from the University of Miami continued his methodical march to a third consecutive National Collegiate tennis title as he led four survivors into the semi-final round on the Northwestern university courts in Evanston yesterday.

Stan Clark

The swarthy Ecuadoran will meet Bernard Bartzen, William and Mary freshman, in the first of today's semi-finals starting at 2 o'clock.

Segura advanced yesterday by eliminating Howard McCall of Georgia Tech, 6-2, 6-3. Pancho controled the match all the way, winning the first four games of each set, and requiring only 30 minutes to accomplish the straight set triumph. Segura has dropped but 10 games while winning 30 in the three matches he has played in the tournament.

Clark Has Easy Match

Bartzen, former National Junior star, had a tougher time of it in conquering lanky Nick Buzolich of Pepperdine college, Los Angeles, 6-2, 6-4. Buzolich who reached the quarter-finals in last year's tournament was unable to cope with his younger opponent's all-around court skill.

Stan Clark, another 1944 quarter-finalist also possessed too much experience for Carroll McCarter, Texas freshman, and romped to a 6-1, 6-0 victory in yesterday's quarter-finals. Clark scored repeatedly on cross-court shots that McCarter never had a chance to reach.

Lt. Mehner reached the semi-finals by knocking out Bob Ryland, Negro from Wayne university, Detroit, and last of the midwestern survivors. Mehner, who played at Utah before entering the military academy, caught his opponent out of position time and again to score with sizzling placements.

Segura-Burke Win Doubles Match

Segura and his partner, Tom Burke, reached the doubles semi-finals by defeating Ellsworth Donnell and Keith Burt, 6-3, 6-2. Their opponent today will be Bernard Bartzen and Brendan Macken of William and Mary who yesterday beat Warner and Omer Morris of Utah, 3-6, 6-0, 6-0. In the other semi-final match, Frank Willett and Howard McCall of Georgia Tech will meet Frank Mehner and Warren Drake of West Point. Summaries:

Francisco Pancho Segura, Miami, beat Howard McCall, Georgia Tech, 6-2, 6-3.

Bernard Bartzen, William and Mary, defeated Nick Buzolich, Pepperdine, 6-2, 6-4.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD

PROFESSIONAL viewers-with-alarm are working up a froth about the amount of money wagered these days at the nation's race tracks. . . . The total mutuel handle at the country's 10 or 11 major tracks occasionally aggregates as high as $12,000,000. . . . This sum probably is twice as great as on an average Saturday before the war and three times more than passed thru the machines in the depression days. . . . There wasn't much criticism of America's betting craze in pre-war times. . . . College football experienced the same conditions. . . . It wasn't until games began to draw crowds of 75,000 and more and receipts mounted to $200,000 that some educators became alarmed. . . . The inference is that bigness is badness, which doesn't necessarily follow, of course. . . . It isn't surprising that wagering has skyrocketed in the United States. . . . A sizeable percentage of our people like to gamble when they figure they have a sporting chance. . . . They have the money. . . . Hasn't almost every other enterprise shown increases similar to racing's? . . . Department stores, restaurants, theaters, and night clubs are enjoying record trade. . . . Nobody seems disturbed about that. . . . Many, however, are under the delusion that when $12,000,000 is bet at a race track it means that $12,000,000 has been left in the plant. . . . Actually all that goes to the track is the percentage of the mutuel handle allowed by the state, the breakage, and the state's share. . . . The national average approximates 12 per cent. . . . In Illinois it runs about 11 per cent. . . . In New York it's less, in Florida more. . . . The rest of the money goes back to the bettors. . . . The money left in the track's treasury box is the sum the crowd spent for entertainment, the same as gate receipts at a baseball or football game. . . .

There are angles to race track operation that are wrong, but the volume of business in the mutuels is not among them. . . . There occasionally are dishonest rides or irregular practices on the part of stable men, but the vigilance of state racing commissions and track executives has kept these violations to a minimum. . . . There's plenty of room for improvement in accommodations for horsemen and horses, but, above all, for the spectators. . . . When a fan goes to a baseball game he expects to see the play and usually does. . . . When a fellow goes to the race track he's lucky to get a glimpse of the horses, if he's caught in a Saturday or holiday crowd. . . . Grandstands are completely inadequate and as a result thousands stand on the flat trying vainly to look over the shoulders of the tall gent or ladies' wide hats in front of them. . . . It's tough enough to lose your money, but you at least ought to get a look while it's happening. . . . Or should you?

It's hung in our front window quite a while,

But it's three it's three stars of blue are just as bright

It speaks of three brave brothers who have gone,
To serve their country willingly and well,
A calendar of war time days and nights
What tales of loneliness that flag would tell.

I think sometimes the day will never come,
When I can take that faded banner down,
And place it with the other souvenirs
Of those who wore the service blue and brown,

But thru the years whatever I may store,
Of silks and velvets and of fabrics rare,
This scrap of faded red and white and blue
Will be the dearest treasure hoarded there. —Catherine T. Farrell

The trouble with furloughs is that they end. It was impressed upon me yesterday when I was third party in a midtown cab. A soldier and his girl were trying to pretend they were alone on the brief journey to the bus station. They spoke with thinly disguised emotion of the few days just past, then lapsed into silence. I was sorry I had agreed when the cab driver asked me to share-the-ride. Perhaps if I had waited these two might have had at least a short interim of privacy, so important as the sands in the hourglass of their association ran out. They left the cab first. As they walked away the boy's bearing bespoke purpose without enthusiasm. The girl leaned just the slightest in his direction, her face smiling but not her eyes. —Mrs. Bill

CUBS GET FIVE IN FIFTH; BEAT DODGERS, 11-8

Pound Four Hurlers for 15 Hits

BY EDWARD BURNS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 28—The Cubs haven't won a night game here this season or lost a day game—and this afternoon the sunshine was especially bright and invigorating as the Chicagoans jolted the league leading Dodgers, 11 to 8, in the second game of the series. The Cubs have beaten the Dodgers three out of five here and are the only club ahead of them in Ebbets field competition.

Capt. Phil Cavarretta paced a 15 hit Chicago attack with two singles, a triple and a walk, scoring three runs and lifting his season batting average to .363. Runners-up in the wicked Cub attack were Peanuts Lowrey, with his No. 4 homer, a single which drove in a run, and a walk which grew into a run, and Lennie Merullo, who smacked three singles.

Passeau Wins No. 8

Claude Passeau accounted for his eighth victory against two losses, tho he was replaced by Walter Signer in the seventh. Signer ended the trouble by making Howie Schultz hit into a double play. Then he held the Dodgers hitless in the eighth and stopped a rally in the ninth after Goody Rosen had led off with a homer and Augie Galan followed with a single.

The Cubs were off to a 2 to 0 lead in the second inning, but the Dodgers went ahead, 4 to 2, in the fourth. Then the Cubs went out in front to stay in the fifth when Don Johnson, Bill Nicholson, Cavarretta, and Andy Pafko knocked successive singles off Le Roy Pfund, and the next two batters, Lowrey and Mickey Livingston, were passed by Ernie Rudolph, all before a batsman was retired. Five runs were the net, and afforded nice cushioning, which was padded by Cavarretta's triple and Lowrey's homer in the sixth. The homer turned out to be the winning run.

Play Two Games Today

The teams will wind up the series in a double header tomorrow with Hy Vandenberg and Ray Prim slated to pitch against Vic Lombardi and Art Herring.

The Cubs were handed a pair of runs in the second inning, when, with the bases full and two out, Johnson was hit by a pitched ball and Schultz fumbled Nicholson's grounder. The Dodgers' big four run fourth grew out of a leadoff single by Rosen, an error by Nicholson, a hit by Dixie Walker, a double by Olmo, a long fly by Eddie Basinski, and a force play.

The five Chicago runs in the fifth were produced on singles by Johnson, Nicholson, Cavarretta,, and Hack, and a pass to Lowrey. Rosen and Walker collaborated with hits in the Dodger half of the fifth to produce a run, an infield out by Galan, putting Rosen in scoring position.

They Get Some Insurance

A triple by Cavarretta, Pafko's long fly, and Lowrey's homer gave the visitors two insurance runs in the sixth, so they were not too worried when a two run uprising led to Passeau's departure in the home half of the seventh. Two more Cub runs in the eighth were strictly for exercise.

SOX HALTED BY MUD; MUST FACE FERRISS TODAY

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

The White Sox and Red Sox, who worked pretty hard to reach an 11 to 9 decision in the latter's favor Wednesday night, failed to get back on the job yesterday as expected, complications being caused by wet grounds due to failure to spread the blanket after the electric light battle.

However, the lads expect to conclude the series today—not with a double header but a single game, James Dykes' boys preferring to conserve what strength they have for tomorrow night, Sunday and Monday, during which stretch there will be five games with Joe McCarthy's Yankees.

Presumably today's Comiskey park affair will see Johnny Humphries and the skyrocketing Dave Ferriss doing the mound work, altho the Chicago fellows readily admit they wouldn't be disappointed if Freshman Ferriss didn't appear. They have seen him twice this season and recall both instances. In one game they got to him for one hit and no runs. In the other it was four hits and no runs. These two contributions went into the eight game winning streak he built up before losing a game, the defeat being administered by the Yanks. His present mark is 10 to 2.

The special summer meeting of the American league called by President Will Harridge for Monday in the Palmer House will get under way at 11 a. m. if all the owners are on hand by that time. The nature of the business to be discussed remains a secret, but most of it will have some connection with the way in which the league intends the office of commissioner shall be conducted in the future.

Witt, Veteran Golden Gloves Official, Dies

BY FRANK MASTRO

Carl Witt, 70, veteran Golden Gloves and Illinois athletic commission judge, yesterday morning was found dead in the washroom at Marigold Gardens by Scranton Marrissette, maintenance man at the north side boxing club.

Carl Witt

Witt, who lived at 1347 Carmen av., had been assigned by the Illinois commission to officiate at a professional fight program sponsored by the 20th Ward club at Marigold on Wednesday night.

Wife Reports Him Missing

Altho his widow, Mary, said she drove her husband to the arena and remained to see the fights, Witt was not seen at the ringside, according to William O'Connell, with whom he was to judge the fights.

When Mrs. Witt returned home she reported him missing to Town Hall police.

After an examination of the body at the chapel at 2701 N. Clark st., Dr. Harry Leon, coroner's physician, signed a report saying that he died of a heart attack.

Municipal Court Clerk

Services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the N. Clark st. chapel. Burial will be in Rosehill mausoleum.

Witt was a clerk of the Municipal court and had served as a Golden Gloves and state boxing commission official for 12 years. He also was a member of the Elks lodge, the Illinois Boxing Officials' association, and the Tribune Athletic association.

FIELD OF 42 TO START TODAY IN OPEN TOURNEY

Nelson, Evans Take Senior Honors

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

The Chicago Victory National Open golf tournament, fittingly ushered in by yesterday's thrilling determination of three National team championships, will start at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Calumet Country club, 175th st., and Western av.

A field of 33 top flight professionals and nine amateurs will argue thru 72 holes of medal play—18 today, 18 tomorrow and 36 Sunday—for prizes including trophies and a 20-player division of $10,000 in war bonds for the leading professionals. This five-day show is being conducted by Chicago District Golf Charities, Inc., to continue provision of recreational facilities for hospitalized service men of World War II.

Single Stroke Decides Title

The team battles were literally that in each of the three divisions in yesterday's final 18 holes of the 36 hole aggregate competitions. The combination of Harold [Jug] McSpaden of Sanford, Me., who will defend the Open crown and Sgt. Walter Burkemo, the Evanston war hero, posted a 284 to beat out the 285 submitted by the 1943 pro-amateur victors, Sam Byrd of Detroit and Bob Cochran of St. Louis.

Jug's personal card for the two-day tandem task was 67—70—137, while Sgt. Burkemo came home with a 74—73—147. Byrd finished with 72—71—143, and Cochran was low amateur in the entire field with a fine 70—72—142.

Nelson-Evans Team Wins

The pro-seniors fight was another won by a fast finish. Byron Nelson of Toledo, O., the game's No. 1 practitioner, and Chick Evans, Edgewater's old master, drove in with a 295 to win by two strokes from McSpaden and his senior colleague, Arnold Minkley of Chicago. Nelson got even for his opening 73 of Wednesday with a smashing 68, while Chick stayed on the beam by adding a 75 to his initial 79. Minkley, after going out in 42, rallied for a neat 36 coming home yesterday.

Ky Laffoon of St. Andrews, currently playing his best golf in years, collaborated with Carol [Babe] Freese of Portland, Ore., to snatch the pro-woman championship from the team of Byrd and Ann Casey of Mason City, Ia. After the latter twosome had finished with a 306, Sam with his 72—71—143 and Ann with 78—85—163, Ky and Babe hopped in with a 305. Laffoon turned in a 70—69—139 of his own, aided by the 19 year old Oregon girl's 86—80—166.

Laffoon was the only professional of those sharing in the 1944 team titles to repeat, he having won last year's pro-amateur at Edgewater with Steve Kovach of Pittsburgh.

McSpaden Profits Most

McSpaden was the leading cash collector with a reward of $500 in war bonds, $300 for his part in the pro-amateur victory and $200 more for being low scoring pro over the two days. Nelson and Laffoon each collected $300 for their respective labors in the pro-senior and pro-woman events. Byrd was solaced with $200 for being the professional pacemaker in the low foursome for the two days, his partners being Cochran, Miss Casey, and Adam Riffel of Olympia Fields. The quartet had a total of 612.

STOCKS SLUMP IN PEAK TRADE FOR FIVE YEARS

Prices React from Lengthy Rise

Curb Up to Truman

Washington, D. C., June 28 (AP)—Recommendations by the office of economic stabilization designed to curb speculation in stocks and real estate are awaiting Presidential consideration. An OES spokesman said the suggested changes included a cash basis for purchase of stocks to discourage buying on margin, an increase from six months to three years in the holding period before lighter taxes are assessed on capital gains, and a boost in the present 25 per cent ceiling on taxation on capital gains.

New York, June 28 (AP)—Stocks, with few exceptions, hit the skids in today's market in the largest turnover of the last five years. Closing declines of one to more than four points were the sharpest of 1945 to date.

Heavy selling put the high speed ticker tape as much as two minutes behind trading around midday and again at the start of the final hour. It was the first time since March 8 that the tape had lagged. Extreme setbacks, running to more than eight points for some at one time, were reduced in most cases. Transfers totaled 2,940,000 shares, compared with 1,690,000 yesterday and were largest since May 21, 1940.

Recent Rise Held Too Rapid

Reasons for liquidation varied. Principally, accounts were unloaded on the belief the market had gone too far and too fast in its more than three year advance to highest levels since 1937. Much of the buying in recent months was termed "indiscriminate" and based on overenthusiasm regarding peace time business prospects. Rumors that the federal reserve board was preparing to boost margins to 100 per cent had a bearish influence.

The Associated Press 60 stock average dropped 1.5 points to 66.6, biggest relapse since Nov. 8, 1943. It was one of the broadest markets of recent months, 1,008 issues registering. Of these, 823 were down, 97 up and 88 unchanged.

Conspicuous on the slide were Santa Fe [voting of the usual $1.50 dividend was disappointing to those who had looked for an increase], Atlantic Coast Line, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, United States Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, United States Rubber, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, American Telephone, Schenley, Transcontinental and Western Air, Anaconda, and Westinghouse Electric.

American Distilling was an isolated strong spot, holding a gain of 5.

BONDS SOLD HEAVILY

New York, June 28 (AP)—Heavy selling hit the bond market today, depressing some rails more than 6 points. Utilities, industrials and foreign issues showed lesser declines.

Spectacular losers among rails included Chicago & Alton 3s, off 3 at 54¼; Milwaukee adjustment 5s, down 2½ at 30½; Rock Island refunding 4s, 3 lower at 70; Missouri-Kansas-Texas adjustment 5s, off 6½ at 97½; Seaboard Air Line reorganization certificates, down 3¼ at 69¾; and St. Louis-San Francisco 4s of '50, 2¼ lower at 65¾.

CHICAGO PRICES FALL

Prices broke yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange and turnover increased to 61,000 shares. Of 137 issues traded, 83 declined and only 27 advanced.

Most actively traded issues included, Libby McNeill, up ¼; Curtiss-Wright, up ⅛; Aviation corporation, down ⅛, and Chicago corporation common and Admiral corporation, each down ⅜. Two 1945 peaks were reached. Chicago & North Western common fell 4¼ and the preferred was down 1¾.

Biddle Seeks Dissolution of Cement Group

Washington, D. C., June 28 (AP)—Dissolution of the Cement institute, Chicago, on the ground that it and 89 manufacturing companies operated in restraint of trade was asked in a suit filed today by the justice department in Denver, Colo.

The defendant companies, operating more than 400 plants in 35 states, manufacture 99 per cent of the Portland cement produced in the United States, said Atty. Gen. Biddle.

Identical Prices Charged

Specific charges were that the institute and the 89 companies conspired to fix and maintain unreasonable, identical and noncompetitive prices in the manufacture and sale of Portland cement in violation of the anti-trust act.

Wendell Berge, assistant attorney general in charge of the anti-trust division, said the industry operated as a single concern and had adopted a system of quoting delivered prices which had eliminated all natural competitive differences among cement manufacturers.

"The result has been wasteful, unnecessary and expensive cross shipping of the product," he added.

Asks Optional F. O. B. Sales

Besides dissolution of the institute the suit calls for the sale of cement f. o. b. mill or on a delivered price basis at the option of the purchaser.

S. W. Storey, president of the Cement institute who was in New York on business, said he had no immediate comment pending a study of the complaint.

Among the larger companies named were Universal Atlas Cement, Chicago; Pennsylvania Dixie Cement, New York; Lone Star Cement, New York; Lehigh Portland Cement, Allentown, Pa.; Allentown Portland Cement, Catasauqua, Pa.; Ideal Cement, Denver; Cowham Engineering, Chicago; Giant Portland Cement, Philadelphia, and Coplay Cement Manufacturing, Coplay, Pa.

CATTLE PRICES STRENGTHEN AS RECEIPTS DROP

Bidding was brisk in the cattle market at the Chicago stock yards yesterday when receipts dipped to 3,800 head, lowest for Thursday in five weeks. Prices for most classes were stronger. The top price of $17.85 was 20 cents above a week ago.

The 20 largest stock yards received 46,000 hogs, compared with 53,000 a week ago. Only two Thursday totals have been lower this year. The Chicago yards handled 11,500, including shipments direct to packers. Buyers paid ceiling prices for virtually all.

Sheep and lambs sold readily at steady prices.

Bond Stores Votes 2 for 1 Split of Common Stock

New York, June 28 (AP)—Stockholders of Bond Stores, Inc., have voted to increase the capitalization from 1 million shares of $1 par value common stock authorized to 2,500,000, and a 2 for 1 splitup of the stock, it was announced today. Holders of record June 26 will receive for each share held another on or about July 6.

Freight Car Loadings Decrease to 876,442

Washington, D. C., June 28 (AP)—The Association of American Railroads today reported that 876,442 cars of revenue freight were loaded in the week ended Saturday, a decrease of 3,768 cars, or .4 per cent from the preceding week.

OUTPUT OF CIVILIAN MODEL JEEP TO BE STARTED IN AUGUST

Toledo, June 28 [Special]—The civilian version of the jeep will be produced by Willys-Overland Motors at the rate of 3,000 to 4,000 a month during the latter half of 1945, with volume production scheduled to start in August, Charles E. Sorensen, president, announced today. Test models are in production.

"Our production schedule for military jeeps calls for approximately 90,000 units running well into the fourth quarter of 1946," he said, "and our present authorization from the war production board is for approximately 20,000 civilian jeeps in the remainder of 1945. This is in addition to the quotas for civilian automobiles authorized by WPB.

"We are able to move into production rapidly on the peace jeep because our own tooling problem is moderate. Our suppliers are in the fortunate position of being tooled for this production and can utilize a large proportion of any surplus materials produced for military jeeps, if they become available."

COMPLETE LAST B-24 LIBERATOR AT WILLOW RUN

Detroit, Mich., June 28 (AP)—The 100 million dollar Willow Run plant ended its war job today with the completion of the last B-24 Liberator bomber. The four engined plane will not be used in the Pacific.

The last bomber, scheduled to roll off the automobile type assembly line late this afternoon, was the 8,685th made in the plant by Ford Motor company. The first was assembled in September, 1942. The original 480 million dollar contract developed into a 1½ billion project before the last bomber was assembled.

The working force, which at one time numbered approximately 42,000, will have declined to about 2,000 who will be retained as plant protection workers. Neither Ford nor the army air force has any plans for the factory, which covers about 63 acres.

WHEAT AND RYE TUMBLE AFTER EARLY ADVANCE

Wheat, rye, and barley futures declined rapidly yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade after an early upturn. The sell-off apparently was based on the break in the securities markets.

Wheat fell 2 cents a bushel and rye tumbled nearly 4 from the early highs. Net declines in wheat were ⅞ to 1, rye 1¼ to 1⅝, and barley 1 to 1¼. Corn finished ⅛ to ⅝ higher and oats ⅛ higher to ⅛ lower.

Mills were large buyers of wheat futures early, advancing prices about 1 cent, but commission houses sold when securities started to weaken and mill demand dried up.

Beatrice Net Earnings in Quarter Top Year Ago

Beatrice Creamery yesterday reported net income in the three months ended May 31, first quarter of its fiscal year, was $422,421, or 71 cents a share, compared with $372,744, or 68 cents a share, a year earlier. Sales were $29,138,875, against $26,176,459, tho sales of butter and eggs declined.

Army Uses 2.7 Billion Gallons of Gas in Europe

PARIS, June 28 (AP)—American air and ground forces in Europe used 2,732,050,000 gallons of gasoline during the war against Germany, it was announced today.

Call Off Glass, Auto Strikes; Two Threaten

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Agreements to end major strikes in Detroit and in the glass industry in 10 cities were reached yesterday, but strikes were threatened on the Erie railroad and at 18 plants of Western Electric company.

An AFL-CIO jurisdictional dispute settled at Detroit had involved 40,000 workers and the CIO glass strike 17,000. Full compliance with the agreements would trim the national total of strike idle to 33,000.

Auto Plants Involved

The CIO maintenance workers who had been on strike in Detroit included 22,000 employes of Packard Motor Car company, 16,170 at three Ford Motor company plants, and 7,500 at Budd Wheel company factories.

R. J. Thomas, international president of the CIO United Automobile Workers, said the international union directed "all workers to return to their plants without delay." The break came after 11,400 employes returned to work at Hudson Motor Car company earlier in the day.

Under prodding by the war labor board, CIO glass workers agreed to call off a week old strike at 11 Pittsburgh Plate Glass and Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass company plants in 10 cities. More than 17,000 are involved.

Rail Strike Threatened

President A. F. Whitney of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainman, announced 4,000 Erie train service employes would be called off the job at noon Saturday unless a Presidential board was appointed to investigate grievances. A few hours later Mr. Truman set up a three man board, whose members were not named.

Employes of three Manhattan and 15 New Jersey plants of Western Electric company voted 16,941 to 3,039 in favor of a strike. The employes were members of the Western Electric Employes' association, an independent union. The strike vote resulted from a dispute involving further pay increases to 4,000 a year ago, a union spokesman said.

In Washington, D. C., a spokesman for the AFL machinists tentatively promised the WLB his union would order 130 strikers to end a dispute that has kept 1,000 idle since May 19 in Connellsville, Pa. The strike was in one division of the Anchor Hocking Glass company plant over a dispute with another AFL union.

Mack Walkouts Spread

In New Jersey and Pennsylvania walkouts in sympathy with 2,500 employes of the New Brunswick plant of Mack Manufacturing corporation spread to include 6,000 other workers and closed three more plants.

A one day walkout involving 1,900 workers at Aluminum Company of America's New Kensington, Pa., plant was ended when the strikers voted to return to work. CIO Steel Workers were involved in a job transfer dispute.

TREASURY GETS SECRET HEARING ON BRITISH LOAN

Washington, D. C., June 28—The senate banking committee will hold a secret session tomorrow to get the treasury's views on proposals for 3 to 5 billion dollars of post-war grants or credits to Britain.

Harry D. White, assistant secretary of the treasury, refused to speak on the subject at an open committee session today and Chairman Wagner [D., N. Y.] asked him to appear tomorrow.

"That is necessarily a delicate matter," White told the committee. "I would like to be able to lay whatever facts we have before you in executive session."

VETS CRITICIZE SURPLUS SALE PLAN RED TAPE

Ask SWPC to Lift Proposed Limit

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., June 28—Representatives of veterans' organizations today suggested changes in the Smaller War Plants corporation program for obtaining surplus property for war veterans chiefly on the grounds that the program is too restricted. The program, which will become effective Sunday, also was criticized as reflecting the wishes of government planners rather than the wishes of war veterans.

The veterans' representatives gave their views at a press conference called by Maury Maverick, chairman of the SWPC, which has been assigned to obtain surplus property for veterans. The program gives veterans of this war high priority to obtain surplus goods to establish or maintain themselves in business, farming, or a profession.

May Apply After Sunday

Veterans may apply for the purchase of surplus property after Sunday at the nearest SWPC office. The property may be bought for cash or on credit under conditions provided in the SWPC program.

John T. Taylor, director of the American Legion's national legislative committee, said the SWPC regulation should be changed to give veterans priority for the purchase of surplus goods for home and personal use. He said a recent overseas survey showed that soldiers and sailors want personal goods such as automobiles and home appliances more than they do surplus property for business use.

Edward J. McHale, representing the American Veterans' committee, an organization of veterans of this war, criticized as "miserably small" the provision which limits the purchase of a veteran on priority to $2,500. He agreed with Taylor that the program should include goods for personal use.

Would Remove Limit

McHale suggested that the limit on the amount and types of surplus goods a veteran may purchase on priority should be removed as long as the goods are for personal or business use and not for resale.

Ralph H. Lavers, national director of employment for the American Legion, asserted in response to Maverick's invitation for "gripes" on the program from the representatives present that the surplus property regulation appeared to be "not what veterans want, but what planners want him to have."

Maverick admitted this might be true, and disclosed that the SWPC has received scores of letters from veterans complaining of the red tape and confusion in connection with their obtaining surplus property. He said the surplus property program has been slow in getting started, to the irritation of "hundreds of thousands of veterans."

Maverick estimated that veterans will buy a billion dollars' worth of surplus property in the next 18 months or two years. He said the SWPC will grant an estimated 400 to 500 million dollars in credit to veterans to finance these purchases.

Harvester Plans Mexico Farm Machinery Plant

The International Harvester company said yesterday that it will build a farm machinery plant at Saltille, capital of Coahuila, Mexico, about 55 miles southwest of Monterrey. The project was approved by governmental agencies in the United States and Mexico. Harvester bought a 25 acre site several months ago and is negotiating to obtain construction materials.

Main Street, Not Wall Street, Got Profit in Rail Stock Trade

Main street instead of Wall street made the big profits trading in Chicago and North Western railway securities on a "to be issued basis" before the road's reorganization plan went into effect, Chicago investment dealers said yesterday. They said that Rep. Reed [R., Ill.] missed the point in his charges that Wall street bankers and speculators had made "unconscionable and unbelievably high profits" in the railroad's reorganization.

"For once it was the public, the little fellow, who made the large profits in North Western securities," said one dealer whose house specializes in railroad securities. "The big fellow, earning more than $25,000 a year, went to his bank for advice when approached to buy North Western 'when issued' common and preferred stocks and was told not to buy.

Big Operators "Too Smart"

"One of my customers was told by his banker that the North Western common stock when issued would not be worth the paper it was to be printed on. On this occasion the big operators were too smart for their own good. Insurance companies and banks acting as trustees who held large amounts of North Western securities in many instances dumped their holdings at prices substantially below prices of North Western securities today.

"The largest amount of the trading in the securities was for persons living in Chicago and in the middle west. Naturally, there was some trading in Wall street for persons who had made a thoro study of North Western possibilities."

The improvement in earnings during the last few years has been based largely on the war as is true with most other rails. The road's reorganization plan, approved by the interstate commerce commission in 1940, was based on an earnings experience for years before the war boosted revenues.

Causes for Bankruptcy Varied

The North Western's bankruptcy grew out of the business depression of the 1930s which affected all roads to some degree, the severe drouth in a large part of the territory it served, and ever increasing competition from the highway. Some observers commented that it was about as unfair to base the road's capitalization on the extreme adverse conditions then prevailing as it would be to base it on the inflated war earnings of the present.

The reorganization reduced the road's capitalization by about 22.8 per cent and its debt bearing fixed interest by about 73 per cent.

When trading in securities on a when issued basis started in September, 1940, first mortgage bonds were quoted at 48 to 50, the 4½ per cent income bonds at 10 to 11, the 5 per cent preferred stock at 3 to 3½ and the common stock at 1 to 1½. Persons who bought on a when issued basis at these prices may have made big profits, but persons who exchanged their old securities for new and held them made no profit if they had purchased the old securities at par.

Example Is Given

For example the holder of $1,000 general mortgage 4 of 1987 received in the reorganization exchange the following: $202, first and general mortgage 4 of 1989; $470, 2d mortgage income 4½ of 1999; 4.34 shares of $5 preferred stock; and 0.41 share common stock. The combined current market value of these securities is approximately $971. The holder of $1,000 of 20 year 4¾ per cent convertible gold bonds, series A, due Nov. 1, 1949, received 6.34 shares of common stock, having a current value of about $286.

Section Hands Ask 75 Cent Wage 'Floor'

Washington, D. C., June 28 (AP)—Railroad section hands today asked the carriers to increase pay, grant travel time and standardize wage rates. Their demands, pivoted on a 75 cent hourly wage minimum, were presented to nearly all railroad managements by the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employes.

Formal notices asking concessions for 300,000 workers who maintain tracks, roadbeds, bridges, and buildings of American railroads were presented on the basis of procedure provided by the railway labor act, President E. E. Milliman said.

Some Are Paid 51 Cents

"This is the most important wage movement in the history of our brotherhood," he commented. Some track workers get 51 cents an hour and the 75 cent "floor" would provide "only bare subsistence," he said.

Asserting that standardization of rates would eliminate present inequalities in a "topsy-turvy and fantastic" wage structure, he said:

"For example, among section foremen there are 432 rates, from $118.32 to $294.40 a month; among painters, 75 rates, from 57 cents to $1.06 an hour; among section men, 52 rates, from 51 to 76 cents."

Other Demands Listed

The travel time pay demand would cover time spent by workers in moving from assembly points to the job. Other demands include paid sick leave of five to 15 days annually; four hours' pay for employes summoned to report, but for whom no work is available; payments of necessary expenses on away from home station assignments; a full day's pay for workers laid off during a shift, and other concessions.

People and Events

Frank P. Campbell, traffic manager of Abbott Laboratories for 14 years, was appointed assistant sales manager in charge of the new department of distribution, Raymond E. Arthur Luxem, general manager of H. Piper company, wholesale baker, was elected secretary and director.

A "100 per cent" flag was awarded the Dodge Chicago plant operated by Chrysler corporation for exceeding its quota of bond purchases in the 7th war loan.

TERMINATIONS OF 47.5 BILLION BY 1946 LIKELY

Totaled 27.5 Billion Up to April

Contract terminations will be approximately 47½ billion dollars by Dec. 31, Robert H. Hinckley, director of the office of contract settlement, yesterday told the weekly meeting of the Chicago Association of Commerce war problems school in the Palmer House.

This amount indicates the heavy load for which the office of contract settlement is prepared, Hinckley said, and compares with less than 4 billion dollars of terminated commitments at the end of World War I.

18 Billion Settled March 31

Adjustments in war production before April, 1945, required cancelations totaling 27½ billion dollars, he said. Eighteen billion had been settled by March 31, and 9½ billion was pending. These terminations were largely adjustments in war programs because the total munitions program was expanding.

The 27½ billion of terminations thru March 31 consisted of 19.6 billion fixed price contracts and 7.9 billion cost-plus contracts. Of the fixed price terminations, 14.7 billion had been settled by March 31, but only 3.3 billion of the cost-plus were settled. Cost-plus contracts take longer to settle when terminated because of the difficulty in separating payments connected with the unterminated portion of the contract and those associated with the termination.

V-E Day Anticipated

Terminations in April anticipating V-E day totaled 1.8 billion and in May 5.1 billion, Hinckley said. Three billion more is expected this month, and assuming the war continues, 10 billion more will be added to terminated commitments in the second half of 1945.

Cancelations beginning with April, 1945, will therefore total 20 billion for the last three quarters of 1945, against 27½ billion for the entire period before March 31, 1945. The settlement rate has been increased from about 800 million a month in the third 1944 quarter to approximately 1.6 billion. Contracting agencies will be well equipped to settle more than 2 billion a month by August or September provided contractors file claims promptly.

The unsettled load on Dec. 31 should not exceed 9½ billion, the amount of terminations awaiting settlement on March 31, 1945.

WMC ESTIMATE OF PEACE SHIFT IDLE TRIMMED

Washington, D. C., June 28 (AP)—A slowdown in munitions cutbacks led the government today to trim its estimate of unemployment in the early stages of reconversion.

The war man power commission, which six weeks ago calculated that 2 million would be jobless by Aug. 1, said the total will be "substantially less," but refused to estimate what the lower total will be. Other officials concerned estimated it would not go above 1½ millions.

Supporting these predictions, WMC reported that unemployment was on the down-trend in May, 730,000 being idle June 1, compared with 770,000 May 1. Figures for this month are expected to show an increase, however.

Dodge Plant Needs 2,000 Workers on B-29 Engine

More than 2,000 additional workers are needed at the Dodge Chicago plant of Chrysler corporation to keep vitally needed B-29 engine production at a maximum, plant officials said yesterday. Particularly needed are machine operators, production, forge, and maintenance workers, material handlers and laborers. Jobs are available for inexperienced men.

UNITED-CARR FASTENER

Please tell me what industries use United-Carr Fastener corporation's products. What is its earnings record?—M. M.

The metal snap fasteners and other fastening devices, of which the company is a leading manufacturer, are used by a diversified group of industries, most of which have good post-war prospects. The automobile and radio industries in normal times are among the most important customers. Items manufactured for radio makers include tube sockets, switches, connectors, and other assemblies of metal parts and bakelite.

Other important outlets for United-Car products are the aircraft, refrigerator, shoe, and apparel industries. Military uses of its products are numerous, including those for aircraft, radio, motor transport, clothing, life belts and rafts, and parachutes.

Sales during the war have increased sharply, but reported profits in most of the war years have not exceeded those of 1936 and 1937. Earnings per share on 305,192 shares were: 1944, $2.52; 1943, $2.50; 1942, $2.46; 1941, $3.50; 1940, $2.45; 1939, $1.75; 1938, 88 cents. On a smaller number of shares the 1937 and 1936 earnings were $3.50 and $3.43. From 1942 on, dividends have totaled $1.50 a year, including extras.

There is no funded debt or preferred stock. Current assets as of March 31, 1945, totaled $7,107,000; current liabilities, $4,293,000.

MEN WHO STOCK CENTER LARDERS HAVE DAY IN SUN

Donors Lauded at Party in Their Honor

More than 4,000 donors whose contributions have helped to make Chicago service men's centers the most popular in the world, were entertained at a party last night at the summer recreational center in Lincoln park. The affair marked the official opening of this center for the season.

Food, music and entertainment by stage and radio performers were provided. The program lasted from 7 to 11 p. m.

Mayor Thanks Donors

All of the Chicago food groups, whose donations have made it possible for the centers to feed hundreds of thousands of service men guests, were represented.

Mayor Kelly, chairman of the Chicago commission on national defense, which operates Chicago's four centers, and Irwin R. Tucker, chairman of the commissary, thanked the donors for their assistance and the unbroken stream of food supplies to the centers.

"Today," said Mayor Kelly, "and in the future, we will need this service more than ever because of the large and increasing handling of troops thru Chicago in the deployment of troops to the Pacific."

Many Firms Represented

"Instead of diminishing our efforts by one half," said Tucker, "we are going to redouble them. The Chicago service men's centers have shown to me that the true measure and wealth of Chicago is its endless number of hearts and hands, ready to make an American hour glass full of friendliness."

Among donors in attendance, whose help was termed of immeasureable value in maintenance of the centers, were: Carl Mayer of Oscar Mayer & Co., George Moody of the Case and Moody Pie company, Harry Friedman of the Banner wholesale grocers, Philip Sang of the Goldenrod Ice Cream company, Nate Meyers, president of the Friends of the Service Men; Harry King of the King Fuller company; James Black of the Sprague Warner company, and Sidney Misrac of the Western Food corporation.

Members of the South Water Market Fruit Producers, cheese manufacturers, and all other food groups were commended for their cooperation.

EXPECT 75,000 TO SEE LEGION'S JULY 4TH SHOW

Seventy-five thousand persons are expected to attend the July 4th program of the Cook County council, American Legion, Wednesday in Soldiers' field, Russell W. Root, executive chairman, predicted yesterday. The celebration promises to be one of the largest and most elaborate sponsored by the council in the last decade, he said.

For early spectators, clowns, championship drum and bugle corps, the 40 and 8 wagon, and the six horse display team of the Wilson Packing company will perform at 5 p. m. The formal program will begin at 8 p. m. with a parade and the massing of colors by more than 50 Legion posts. The flag will be raised under the direction of the Cook County council color guard.

500 to Be Inducted

Juanita Mitchell, concert soprano, will sing the "Star-Spangled Banner" prior to an impressive induction ceremony of 500 men and women World War II. veterans into the American Legion. Justice, freedom, democracy, and loyalty, the four principles of the Legion, will be outlined by the state championship ritual team of Navy post, No. 372.

Women's branches of the service will be represented by Capt. Evelyn Stege of the WACs. A salute to the WAVES will mark their third anniversary. Wounded veterans of Gardiner and Vaughn General hospitals will be guests.

Special guest of honor will be Corp. Irving Bernard, recently liberated prisoner of war, who after his capture in Belgium, Dec. 19, 1944, was forced to walk for 15 days under harrowing conditions.

An hour and a quarter of circus acts will follow the patriotic sequences. Miss Marion will do a break-away on a 120 foot pole, Larry Griswold and his troupe will perform on the trampoline, and Rollini will present a ball act on a spiral walk-away.

Helps Cut Accidents

The climax will be the fireworks display, with an "On to Tokyo" theme. The Iwo Jima flag raising on Mount Suribachi will be reproduced in pyrotechnics.

Navy planes will perform acrobatics over the heads of the spectators, Root said.

The annual July 4th celebration sponsored by the Cook county council has been an important factor in the continued decrease in fatalities and injuries resulting from July 4th accidents, Joseph F. Stech, manager of the Greater Chicago safety council, said. Since 1939, police statistics show, accidents decreased from 145 to 17 in 1944. There were no fatalities in 1942, 1943, or 1944.

Tickets are now on sale in Marshall Field & Co., in the Morrison hotel, and in room 410 at 343 S. Dearborn st.

VAN BUREN ST. BRIDGE WILL BE REPLACED BY A TEMPORARY SPAN

Authority to replace the 50 year old Van Buren st. bridge with a temporary span was received yesterday by City Engineer W. W. De Berard from the war production board. The board stipulated that work must begin within 100 days and be completed by Dec. 31.

The task of tearing down the old structure will be under supervision of Stephen Michadu, city bridge engineer. He said that the bridge, a lift type, is in poor condition and rests upon abutments that add to the hazards of river traffic.

Removal of the Van Buren st. bridge and its replacement with the temporary bridge will cost approximately $200,000, Michuda estimated. He said Van Buren st. will be closed to traffic for two months at the river.

AIR COMEDIANS IN EUROPE TO ENTERTAIN GIS

BY LARRY WOLTERS

The first 1945 wave of radio entertainers has reached Europe. Freeman Gosden and Charles Correll [Amos and Andy] are in Rheims, France; Jack Benny, Larry Adler, Martha Tilton and company have reached Paris; Ed [Archie] Gardner and his Duffy's Tavern folks are in the Mediterranean area, and Bob Hope, Jerry Colonna, June Robbins, and others are aboard the Queen Mary on the way to England. All will entertain service men and women.

Kay Kyser soon will leave for Pacific areas. Mrs. Kyser, who is Songstress Georgia Carroll, will not accompany him because she once had malaria. Bing Crosby is expecting to go overseas, probably to the Pacific, since he went to Europe last year. Beatrice Lillie and Reginald Gardiner, British entertainers, will join the Information Please trio of Clifton Fadiman, John Kieran, and Franklin P. Adams for their summer tour of Europe.

Six Chicagoland army air force men in Europe will be heard on recorded interviews over W-G-N at 12:30 p. m. today. They are Lt. Gene Fox, 6126 Stony Island av.; Corp. Earl G. Thompson, 5930 Emerald av.; Pvt. Jack Prince, 5821 Magnolia av.; Pvt. Elmer G. Magnuson, 4450 N. Tripp av.; Sgt. Donald D. Harms, Atkinson, Henry county, and Lt. Henry S. Mirrow, 2930 Milwaukee av.

Lt. Bruce Dennis, on leave from W-G-N, reports the navy has begun an intensive program of making three minute recorded interviews with navy men in the Pacific for forwarding to their local stations. Fifty recordings a week are made on Guam and others are being made in forward areas, he wrote.

INDICT COUPLE ON FRAUD COUNT IN GETTING ADS

The federal grand jury yesterday indicted Louis Bourjaily and his wife, Ruth, publishers of the semi-weekly West Side Post, on a charge of using the mails to defraud. The charge was based on complaints of trickery in soliciting help wanted advertisments.

Assistant United States Atty. George K. Kelly said they had clipped ads from other newspapers, including THE TRIBUNE, run them without authority and billed the advertisers. In other cases, ads were run longer than ordered or were billed for at rates higher than puoted.

Kelly said the Bourjailys, who had an office at 77 W. Washington st., had previously been warned.

WIFE GRANTED DIVORCE FROM THOMAS DEUELL

Mrs. Katharine Thompson Deuell, 44, of Barrington, yesterday won a divorce from Thomas L. G. Deuell, 47, broker and member of a prominent Chicago family, before Judge John A. Sbarbaro in Superior court. She testified that her husband hit her Dec. 24, 1944, and he kicked her downstairs the next day. Her attorney, Benjamin Ehrlich, and Atty. Benjamin B. Davis, representing Deuell, announced an out of court settlement under which Mrs. Deuell will receive $400 a month for the support of herself and two children, Carroll, 11, and Thomas Jr., 8, whose custody she retains, and $7,000 from the proceeds of a fire insurance policy.

AN M.C. STRUTS IN WAR MEDALS UNTIL FBI ACTS

Aaron Chay, 34, of 1727 Humboldt blvd., was named in a criminal information filed in federal District court yesterday charging him with illegally wearing the Purple Heart.

Asst. United States Atty. Edmund J. Johnson said Chay, under the alias of Bob Kay, strutted not only the Purple Heart but the congressional medal of honor, campaign ribbons, and a galaxy of battle stars while appearing as master of ceremonies in an East Dubuque [Jo Daviess county] night club.

Johnson said Chay's assumed heroism made a tremendous impression upon patrons of the night club, who lionized him. But he made the mistake, the prosecutor said, of describing his exploits to a couple of federal bureau of investigation agents who were at the bar one night. Johnson said Chay is 4-F in the draft.

FINE 2 IN SALE OF FIREWORKS; WARNING GIVEN

Fines of $5 and costs for selling fireworks without a permit were imposed on Alex Schullo, 530 N. Sawyer av., and Daniel Landerman, 4056 W. 16th st., in Willow Springs court yesterday. Schullo had a stand in La Grange and Landerman had one in Evergreen Park. Both were arrested by sheriff's police.

Police Commissioner Allman yesterday directed all policemen to watch for violations of the city ordinance banning the sale or use of fireworks.

The ordinance requires organizations planning public fireworks displays to obtain a certificate of fitness from the chief of the fire prevention bureau and to post a $10,000 bond. Violators of the ordinance are liable to a $200 fine.
